Freeman of Edmonton followed which were very helpful.

Value of Frozen Wheat for Hogs

The price of good quality wheat usually prohibits its use as a hog feed but when the grain is impaired by rot, sun of frost, or other damage, with a corresponding loss of grade, the question of its feeding and "hog number" value is important.

To obtain data relative to this important question an experiment was conducted at the Dominion Experimental Station, Lacombe, during the fall and winter of 1927-28 with the object in view of not only determining the feeding and "hog factor" value of frozen wheat, but also to note the effect of adding a percentage of oats to frozen wheat, or to other words, to compare various oat and frozen wheat combinations as rations for growing and finishing hogs for market.

Four lots, with ten pure-bred York-shire pigs in each lot were used in this test. The pigs were farrowed on May and June and when the experiment started on August 23rd, their average was 2 3-4 months old and their average weight 52 pounds. One group was fed wheat chop, another group was fed three parts of wheat chop and one part of oat chop, a third group two parts of wheat chop and one part oat chop and a fourth group equal parts wheat and oat chop. Tankage was fed in all lots at the rate of eight pounds to ninety-two pounds of grain. Skiff feeders were used in all lots.

The frozen wheat used in the experiments graded No. 6 Feed and the oats for the most part graded 3 C.W. but were rather variable as to grade or quality. Dispatch Tankage with a guaranteed analysis of fifty per cent protein was fed.

The results of this test indicated that satisfactory and reasonably economical gains can be secured when frozen wheat is fed, either as a whole grain or in combination with oats. The addition of oats, up to fifty per cent, is desirable, while increasing the daily gains, lowering the feed requirements per pound gain, and increasing the economy of gain.

The test also indicated that frozen wheat may be marketed through hogs at 71 cents per bushel when the basic net price of hogs is 8 cents per pound and tankage is worth $50.00 per ton. As the market price of hogs increases or decreases the "hog market" value of frozen wheat would vary as follows: When hogs are worth 12 cents per pound, frozen wheat may be marketed at $1.10 per bushel.

When hogs are worth 11 cents per pound, frozen wheat may be marketed at 90 cents per bushel.

When hogs are worth 10 cents per pound, frozen wheat may be marketed at 81 cents per bushel.

When hogs are worth 9 cents per pound, frozen wheat may be marketed at 71 cents per bushel.

Visiting Rotarian Gave Interesting Talk To Camrose Club

(Camrose Canadian)

The regular Rotary luncheon on Monday evening at the Hotel Alice took the form of a special night for the ladies when the wives of the members were the guests of the evening. Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Sharpe, Chas. and Mrs. Bertford and Jerry Page, all of Stettler.

An interesting program was promised by Mr. Sharpe, who presented a most interesting picture of his trip to Europe while attending the Rotary convention at Ostend in 1927, with illustrations also taken during his trip to the Old Country this year, when he visited many livestock exhibitions in England and Scotland with the object of purchasing purebred stock.

The program was replete with views of intense interest, and Mr. Sharpe, who apparently showed rare judgment in his selection of views, briefly described the trip in an interesting and instructive manner, during the presentation of the pictures. Starting with views of the train leaving Montreal, the trip was vividly portrayed through to the coast. The embarkation of the party, and their various activities on board during the ocean voyage. While on the Continent many of the most familiar places of historical and geographical interest were visited, including Boulevarge and the famous Meis, Brussels, and a trip through the war area occupied by the Canadian troops. The journey through Cologne and a trip by boat down the beautiful Rhine valley. A visit to the Swiss Alps and along into Italy, touching at such places as Venice, Florence, Milan, Rome and the Vatican where the party had an audience with the Pope. Mr. Sharpe was particularly fortunate in securing some excellent views of the excavations of the ruins of Pompeii. Among the French Riviera, visiting Cannes, Nice and Monte Carlo with its famous Casino. Paris was, of course, included in the itinerary, and, while there, some very impressive scenes were enacted during the celebration of Bastile Day, when immense crowds witnessed the impressive march-by of detachments from every branch of the French naval and military service. After visiting many places of interest in England, the party embarked at Southampton for the return trip to this Continent. The program was interestingly interesting throughout and was thoroughly enjoyed by all. Mr. Sharpe merits great praise for the excellent results of his photographic efforts.

3,000 Passengers Fly Across English Channel in Five Weeks

Statistics just published show that Britain is rapidly becoming air-minded. Every week for the last five weeks more than 3,000 people have taken the more perilous air journey across the English Channel. This is an increase of more than ten over the highest figure for last year.

During the busiest air week last year less than 1,500 people took advantage of the quick service from London to Paris. London now has air trips to 73 European cities. There are nine scheduled services each day to Paris, the first at 6 a. m. and the last at 4.30 in the afternoon.

More than 50 per cent. of the cross-channel passengers are women, and they have declared the criterion. In ages, ladies travelling from time to time, as well as the septuagenarian, octogenarian and once a man of 90.

SOME FACTS ABOUT THE NEW FORD

Production and Demand for New Ford Exceeds All Previous Records

The manufacturing schedules of the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, have been steadily built up until a new daily record for Canadian automobile production has been reached.

Despite this peak output, orders for the new Ford keep uniformly ahead of the factory table of manufacture. It is therefore necessary to continue a high rate of production. To this end a steady flow of material from more than 325 Canadian sources streams into the Ford plants. And here, with more than 10,000 men on the payrolls almost double the previous employment record these materials are converted into New Ford cars.

Ford Quality of Manufacture Has Been Strictly Maintained

In the effort to build enough New Ford cars to meet requirements, no deviation from the high standard of Ford precision has been permitted. That unbelievably strict stock was set before the car was placed upon the market, and it has since been rigidly enforced.

In the New Ford Car 40 different steel alloys are used. Each is chosen for the specific use for which it is best adapted. In the transmission gears alone there are seven different kinds of alloys. Likewise, the forged steel spring perches, barely bigger round than a man's thumb, will withstand a strain of 15,000 pounds. This is 50 times greater than the strain put on them in ordinary use.

The excellence of materials used is matched by the careful precision of its manufacture. For example, the eight valve guides in every engine may deviate from perfection only by 1 .50th of the thickness of the average human hair.

The simplicity and soundness of Ford design is unparalleled. Such manufacturing methods ensure a high degree of satisfactory performance over a long period of years.

Ford Performance is the New Standard for Judging Automobiles

The rapidity of getaway and acceleration of the New Ford is a by-word. Its endurance, which permits sustained driving at the higher speeds hour after hour, is little short of marvelous. The car with which steep hills are climbed in high gear is equally as impressive. Shifting gears, steering and handling the car under the most trying road conditions are exceptionally simple. 25 to 30 miles per gallon of gasoline and remarkably low oil consumption give assurance of economy.

In city traffic and on country highways, the New Ford performs as well as and often better than considerably heavier and higher priced cars. In the light car field it is absolutely without equal.

By these marks of Ford performance other motor cars are being judged. It simply means that price is no longer the gauge of automobile quality.

Ford Beauty Is More Than Skin Deep

On the surface the New Ford car is all that you want it to be. Beautiful low lines, harmonious color combinations, sparkling nickel, sturdy steel spoked wheels and balloon tires all play their part in making this a car of graceful proportion and handsome appearance.

But its real beauty is invisible. The quality of materials, careful workmanship, correctness of design; the things that really matter—these are the points in which the New Ford is exceptional.

Windshield of shatter-proof glass and a six brake system, fully enclosed, self-geared occupants in any emergency. Four efficient shock absorbers in conjunction with the best proven light car spring system, give matchless riding comfort. All models are handsomely equipped to provide the utmost in comfort, convenience and safety.

If you have not ridden in the new Ford car, or experienced the thrill of driving it, there awaits you the knowledge that car values have actually changed, that a really fine car has come into the light car field, and that values offered by the new Ford cannot be duplicated anywhere. Your local Ford dealer will prove these statements by demonstration.

Wintering Bees On The Prairies

There are three important factors in successful wintering of bees on the prairies, namely:

1.—Strong colonies.

2.—An abundance of wholesome stores.

3.—Adequate protection from wind and changeable temperatures.

By strong colonies is meant populous colonies having sufficient bees to cover at least eight frames with a good percentage of young bees.

Weak colonies should be united before fall feeding starts. Two surplus queens may be wintered in the same hive having a two-light division board in the centre with at least four frames of bees on each side.

An abundance of stores means sufficient to carry the colony through the winter and breeding season in the spring. The common Langstroth hive containing bees and stores for winter with outer protected should weigh at least seventy-five pounds. Any colony weighing less on October 1st should be fed until the proper weight is reached. By wholesome stores is meant food which by reason of its purity is least likely to cause dysentery. The safest food for wintering has been found to be sugar syrup made by thoroughly dissolving two parts pure granulated white sugar in one part hot water. For every ten pounds of sugar used in this way, about nine pounds of stores are added to the weight of the colony. Perhaps the most common way of feeding is by invert a ten-pound pail of sugar syrup on the top of the frames and putting some up an extra empty super. The lid of the pail should be well fitted and filled with holes about the size of a darning needle.

As for adequate protection for the bees in winter this may be accomplished by either a good cellar or a wintering case located in a sheltered place. The main disadvantage of cellar wintering is the expensive during changeable weather, when time to move the cellars. During this time the other colonies are in wintering cases and after the colonies are placed in the cellar the out-

Hallowe'en Special At Settler Theatre

"Honeymoon Hate" with Florence Vidor is a good light entertainment. The picture is lavishly produced in an atmosphere to correspond. The story hinges around the daughter of an American steel king. She goes to Venice and acts as if she owns it. She impertinently demands things and will not take no for an answer. Her pride must be young, he must be well connected and he must be good looking. She accidentally meets an Italian prince in an antique shop, his coat of arms, and there she meets with an either 'no' much to her dissatisfaction. However, the prince is finally successful in her pride much to her satisfaction, and she decides to throw him, but it is quite the reverse, the haughty young lady is quite subdued and falls in love with her guide.

It is a lady's picture, the settings are exquisite and story humorous. The plot is founded on the Saturday Evening Post story by Alice M. Williamson and William Anstin contributes lots of comedy, he is the simple-minded millionaire, or who, follows her all over Europe, not overawed by humbling her in Venice. It is a good, clean picture, which every one will enjoy.

The theatre is making a special Hallowe'en program out of this feature, Monday and Tuesday will be ladies' night. Ladies will be admitted at reduced admission prices, 25 cents. Tuesday night, as usual will be fun.

To Feed The Auto Thief

(By Erwin Greer)
(President Greer College of Electrical and Automotive Trades, Chicago, Illinois.)

In an effort to facilitate the motorist in keeping his property, the automanufacturer has developed improved ways of locking his product. A majority of the new cars employ double locking devices. Some provide three or more ways of safeguarding the machine that is left unattended. There are transmission locks, door locks, hood locks and coincidental locks of all varieties on the new cars.

None of these, perhaps, is absolutely thief-proof. The car thief is a wily, adroit individual, who can use force very cleverly. If the locks cannot stop him, however, they at least force him and waste time. And time is the one complement then it otherwise would be. Even determined thieves, however, is completely dependent upon the owner making the easiest way for him. various locking devices on his automobile.

This year, more than ever, the answer to that question depends upon the individual motorist and the kind of weapons with which to fight the car thief have been placed in his hands. If he uses them, the thief will find many more and many better cars awaiting his pleasure.

Here's a "daily dozen" for motorist owners, the adoption and practice of which will prevent theft of automobiles, according to George C. Henderson, author of "Keys to Crookdom" and student of criminology.

1. Inspire your car. To Lock the car in several ways. The ignition switch lock is not sufficient. 2. Lock on square tips and padlocked tool box. 3. Remove distributor arm or some other part of the car so that the thief must replace it before he can operate the machine. 4. Never park your car in a place where thieves can work on it unobserved. 6. Never leave car for an instant with motor running. 7. Mark your car by some secret sign known only to yourself. Then if the thief changes the car and engine numbers you may still identify it. 8. Make a note of your own motor and factory numbers and do not confuse with license plate number when reporting loss. 9. Be sure your own motorist credentials are current. Never keep it in your car unless the title to it is clear. 10. If your car is stolen, report the theft promptly and give the officers every assistance. Remember that probably before the theft is reported the car will be outside police jurisdiction. 11. Leave no valuables in the car's trunk rack. 12. Take an interest in the prosecution. Do not stop the case in event of the restitution.

Additional Territory For The Municipal Hospital District

The vote, last Saturday for the township between Big Valley and Gough Lake on entering Stettler Rural Municipal Hospital District ended with a vote in favor of the scheme by 70 in favor and 16 against.

The township in question were Township 35 and 36, Range 18, Township 35, Range 19 and Sections 1 to 24 inclusive of Township 36, Range 19. Sections 25 to 36 of Township 36, Range 19 were already a part of the hospital district, so that the total additions to the district as above outlined will increase the said Zone IV T.P. to 21 townships. The territory in question is situated east and south of Big Valley and west of Gough Lake.

The vote at each polling station was as follows:

	For	Ag'st	Spoil
C.A. Perkinson's res.	16	12	2
Ozark Schoolhouse	29	1	1
Lonetree Schoolhouse	11	16	2
Total	79	29	6

The district retained around Lonetree was the only one to vote against the scheme. This district is directly east of Big Valley and centre of town to the town. All the other polling places were in favor. Particularly School district No. 1 with an unanimous vote of 22 to 0 in favor, while Ozark was next for returns. The majority required was two thirds of the total vote.

The vote is very satisfactory to the hospital board, who have been struggling with a small district, and the industries petitil have additions during the winter, so that when the scheme comes before the board it should have a much larger district and a better financial basis to work on. In fact the hospital board have continued to have the hospital district extend in a large territory between Big Valley and Lacombe. There is no reason in the world why the hospital should not serve a district consisting of thirty or more township. It will be a great convenience to many other handsome and artistic dis-

The Masquerade Dance, given under the auspices of the Moose Lodge on Wednesday evening, was the outstanding masquerade event of the year, and at 10:30 p. m. the hall was crowded with dances in costumes of all kinds, including the complete range from the comic to the character, and from the most elaborate to the evening dress with a mask. On Thursday, November 8th, Phil Befus and Pete Fogerty will clash in a ten round bout to be held in Carder's hall under the auspices of the local branch of the Canadian Legion.

Fatigue Causes Motor Car Accident

(By Erwin Greer)

(President Greer College of Electrical and Automotive Trades, Chicago, Illinois)

Investigations have shown there is but very much difference between the symptoms of a person who is thoroughly fatigued and one who has become intoxicated from imbibing alcoholic stimulants. In both cases the vision is blurred, thought is confused, the senses dulled and a lack of co-ordination exists between the will and the muscles.

For a much longer period than in the case of traffic, accurate accident records have been kept in the industries. Not only have records been kept, but a close study of causes has also been made. There is often a direct relation between the accident rate, the severity rate and fatigue. The more the fatigue of the workers, the greater the accident rate and the greater the severity rate.

Although the records are not complete in regard to motor car accidents, it does not require very much investigation to indicate beyond a question of a doubt that fatigue causes the death of many motorists. As a matter of fact, anyone who will stop to think can recall cases where fatigue was undoubtedly the cause of serious accidents.

Men can accomplish some amazing feats, but no man nor no woman can keep going for long without food, water and sleep. Food to him is what gas and oil are to the automobile engine. It is the material from which the power and lubrication come. Water is as necessary to man as it is to an automobile radiator. Without water, he dies, so, becomes overheated and dies. Sleep is the charging of the battery used to supply the sparks, without which there can be no real action.

Let a person go without food, let him go without water, let him go without sleep for a long enough period, let him go without any one of these things for any great period and he, in time results. If he is driving a car it is a death-dealing failure.

The only way to make hauling or any long trips safe is to avoid fatigue and it can be avoided only by eating sufficient and proper food, by drinking enough pure water also nothing else, and sleep that is sound and restful. In other words the driver has to give as much attention and use as much judgment in keeping himself in good driving condition as he does in keeping the car in good running condition. Failure to do this is surely going to bring trouble.

Gamma Waluka Still Trying To Be A Singer

Gamma Waluka, the most temperamental of American citizens, recently returned to the United States from a visit around and sought to take with her personal effects, clothes and jewels to the value of $1,500,000. She argued that her legal residence was in Paris and that as a foreigner she should be entitled to carry along her wardrobe without the usual duty of customs officials. They said that as she was the legal wife of Harold McCormick of Chicago, his legal residence was ours, that she was an American citizen and therefore should pay duty. The case is still being debated, and Gamma is being backed as a champion of feminism. She ought to be a pretty good champion of anything as she is a born fighter. She started from nowhere and in a few years collected three profitable husbands and got rid of an unprofitable one. Also, she made her name a household word in grand opera, not because she can sing, but because she cannot. Yet she has the happy knack of picking up a millionaire husband just when it appears that he can help to get her started as a contralto. This is more useful than even a golden voice.

Gamma is a brilliant blonde, and a woman of unusual beauty. This explains many of her husbands. She sacrifices unconcerned for the delusion that she can sing, while she is capable of communicating to other people who are in love with her or are stone deaf. She arrived in the United States in 1915 with a few notes of introduction from Anna Held. She was supposed to be a singer. Because of her charming personality she made friends fast and many of them were prepared to venture some money to launch her on a career just as she said those admirers were so little to her liking that she feared to accept a dinner from one of them. She was given three or four chances in minor roles but the result was the same. Her singing, as a sports writer on a evening paper once said when sent in as emergency to report a musical entertainment, was fierce. Her failure affected her nerves, and so, she consulted Dr. Joseph Frankel, of Chicago, a leading neurologist. He fell in love with her because she looked so much like a girl he had loved in an earlier generation and they were married.

Dr. Frankel sympathized with her ambition to become a great singer, and devoted considerable sums of money in the hope that the miracle might be vouchsafed. The marriage seemed to be a happy one, but was soon terminated by the death of the elderly groom. He left his wife about $200,000 which his brothers tried to recover on the ground that since he couldn't his wife was a singer he was evidently incapable of testamentary responsibilities. But Gamma got the money and returned to Europe where she thought she would have a better chance of beginning the career that showed symptoms of hopping down. In 1930 she was returning, and on shipboard met Alexander Rudolf Uschakoff, at the time the wealthiest bachelor in the United States, and reported to be girl-proof and his friend Harold McCormick. Mr. McCormick has often admitted that he fell in love with Gamma at first sight, but as he was then the husband of the daughter of John D. Rockefeller, he was conscious of being somewhat handicapped. A things then were, Gamma's stunning charms were eligible husband and in truth it was not long before they were married. Mr. McCormick says that he was never so shocked and crushed in his life as when the news was broken to him. But the marriage was not a happy one, partly because Mrs. Cochrane persisted in her balloonlessness about singing. She had previously entered into a contract with the Chicago Opera Company to sing and insisted upon going through with it, much to her husband's chagrin.

On the eve of her debut, she gave way to hysteria and fled from the scene. Her lawyer subsequently explained that her hysteria was due to the nervousness and the nervousness was the nefarious work of the unspeakable Cochrane, who, by this time was intensely unpopular. His last title of wealthiest American bachelor, and wondering if he might not stage a come-back effort. In the meantime Mr. McCormick, whose wife had left him, and was supposed to be studying the mysteries of the subconscious under the eminent Jung in Vienna, was free to tell a charming woman what he thought of her and he highly boosted Gamma at the Opera which he was influential. This, he explained, was because she was the wife of his friend the erstwhile bachelor. In 1932 the Cochranes were divorced after a great deal of advertising. The settlement made Gamma wealthy. But this was not important since two months before she became the wife of Mr. McCormick.

The new husband was thoroughly dedicated to the proposition that his wife was a greater operatic singer than Mary Garden, and he proceeded to establish it by lavish outlay. For several years now, all efforts to have Gamma cheer-leaded as a singer by the critics has failed. Amen and again elaborate preliminaries to her purpose debut have been ruined by an inappropriate attack of hysteria. It has been asserted and not effectively denied that Gamma has attempted more trying to acquire that stage confidence which she believes is all that stands in her way. Once in Cuba she performed so reasonably that the senate-loving Cubans demanded their money back and were given it to avoid bloodshed. Her concert failure has also reacted unfavorably upon her domestic relations and there have been rumors that she is likely to leave Mr. McCormick who has proved a front as an impresario, though a dear as a critic of singing, and general angel.

WILL BUILD BIG BRIDGE

C. P. R. To Construct Steel Bridge Over Saskatchewan River North Of Nipawin

The building of a huge steel bridge over the Saskatchewan River is proposed by the Canadian Pacific Railway, with intentions to construct it north of Nipawin, on the Tisdale subdivision. They are at the present time calling for tenders for the entire work, and it is believed that actual progress will not take place before the first of next month.

According to the company's engineering character the bridge will be 2500 feet long with an approximate height of 150 feet while there will be fifteen spans. The two approaches running north and south will be composed of four 70-foot, three 45-foot, and one 30-foot deck plate girders; two 60-foot and one 45-foot deck plate girders respectively, all supported on steel towers each carried on low concrete pedestals. The abutments will also be of concrete.

There will be four centre spans, which will consist of deck trusses, two being 276 feet long, and two 200 feet long, carried on reinforced concrete piers. The three centre piers of the bridge will be 130 feet high measuring from the bottom of the footings and the two outer ones 120 feet high.

The bridge will be a double-deck affair with the lower deck made into a highway, allowing a 16-foot clear road running on the lower of the centre spans.

CREAK ON CREEK

The car used along through the rather monotonous country. Suddenly the landscape began to brighten up.

"Oh, the lovely creek!" cried the girl in the back seat.

"Yeah, my dear," said her mother.

"I know it does creak a bit, but you must remember it is very good of our host to take us out for a drive at all."

The Epic Story of a Great Industry

THE story of TEXACO is an epic of achievement, organization, and service. It is a romance of industry. It covers less than thirty years, in which the TEXACO Red Star and Green T have been made the symbol of highest quality.

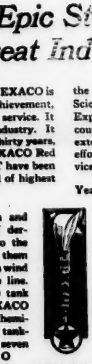
To-day on plain and hillside, rows of derricks stretch into the distance. From them to great refineries wind miles of oil pipe line. More than 6,000 tank cars carry TEXACO products over a hemisphere. Fleets of tankers cleave the seven seas. TEXACO dealers sell Texaco products in many countries.

Such is the brief story of TEXACO development.

It began in the opening years of the twentieth century. Science was made its ally. Exploration was pushed courageously; production extended steadily; ceaseless effort widened its field of service.

Year by year the physical properties of Texaco grew. More refineries, greater ocean terminals, more tank cars, additional wholesale storage and distributing stations were established.

The TEXACO Star marks a zenith in scientific production of oils and other lubricants. It guarantees the quality that modern transport demands.



TEXACO GOLDEN MOTOR OIL

Texaco Motor Oil can be in clean, clear, golden color. The clear, golden color means highest refinement and greatest purity.

TEXACO GASOLINE

Gasoline is not just gasoline. There are many kinds. You can fix yourself, in the many grades of Texaco, the kind of gasoline that are right for beginners, for high speed, for hill climbing, for cold weather, for warm weather, for more than ordinary power. Ask the Texaco Chart to tell you of Texaco as a special fuel for a special purpose.

Only ——— gasoline is Texaco. Better fuel means possible by a new process of refining, controlled by the Texas Company, which gives all these things! Only TEXACO vaporizes — forms a dry gas . . . and a dry gas is vitally necessary to success against the oil dilution and resultant rapid engine wear.

Round the Country

The jury in an automobile fatality case at Didsbury last week recommended that all roads running into main highways in Alberta be made "Stop Roads."

The recommendation represents one of the few flashes of intelligence that has been heard in connection with the fatality trial, the train: "slow down" when approaching the level crossing at that town. By the time it was all finished, the train: "slow down" when approaching the level crossing at that town. By the time is now coming when all roads leading into main highways in Alberta will be "Stop Roads," that is, all automobile drivers will be required to stop their cars when driving into a main highway and look both directions before they proceed. This convention has been in force in Ontario for some time and the smallest villages have the "Stop, thrunk street" sign at the intersections leading into their main roads. Didsbury is a small village, but a car fatality happened there. It is liable to happen any place at the intersection of a road leading into a main highway. On the main highways a car has a through run, and the only real safeguard against accidents is the stop signs.

The case applies all the more to a town like Stettler. We have the "turn to the right" signs at present, and they are fairly efficient, but they don't prevent a car coming up Alberta Avenue running into a car that is making the turn on Main street. The latter is the through street and Alberta Avenue is the Prospect Avenue should be stop streets. Similarly the streets running into Alberta Avenue should be stop streets. Any car coming into Prospect Avenue should be stop streets. Any car coming into Prospect Avenue should be stop streets. Any car coming into Prospect Avenue is the main thoroughfare to the extend.

These stop signs seem to be trivial to some people, but if they prevented one accident every twenty-four hours they would be proving their worth, and besides they would automatically lower the speed limit along the town streets which would be quite a gain judging by the number of accidents in time done.

The Big Valley Journal states that Father Nolan brought some dandelions into its office last week to show what kind of a climate we have in Alberta during the first part of October. That's nothing, we have a number of citizens in town who have never seen snow, and the season are continually being added to at Buchler Hospital.

Having occasion to drive over the Main Government, Highway from Stettler to Gadsby, I was surprised at the poor condition of the road after two months of the fine weather we have had during September and October. Judging from appearances the the highway has not been dragged this fall at any time, and there are two big ruts in the road nearly all the way. It is said that the highway is better from Gadsby to Halkirk, but this is not saying much.

After the money has been expended on this road in grading it up, it is surely a policy of "penny wise, pounds foolish," to leave it in its present condition all fall and winter. The people are entitled to a level, smooth road in good weather, and the condition of the road being, so unlike to the authorities. The main highway from Stettler to Edmonton is in much better shape.

The Alberta Publication Association in its latest Review Bulletin states that $42,000,000 have been spent in loans in Alberta during the last four years.

These figures have, no doubt, been taken from the books of the government stores, and, if that is the case, they are correct.

The sales of beer during 1927 amounted to 3,025,500 gallons, and of spirituous liquors, 351,000 gallons.

The Association states that the for-up-two million dollars would have paid for operating the provincial government for three years, or paid for the total consumption of gasoline for three years in the province or paid for the complete cost of Education for the next three years.

These figures are quite plausible, and, while they are to be deplored, the same might be said of the sale of cigarettes, of chewing gum, of tea and coffee and of cosmetics, and other luxuries, which are dear its more extravagant uses by the hearts of the better half of the population. Humanity has always been prone to spend its spare cash for luxuries instead of for necessities, and if we remember aright, Inspector Thibaudeau has compiled a long list of luxuries for which we are spending money, instead of on the schools.

However, one of the bright lights of these expenditure is that 90 per cent. of the money goes for beer in the form of provincial revenue, also the provincial government receives a large net profit which they can expend on Education, provided of course, it is not needed to make the budget balance.

The Keyley Bulletin then goes on to say: "Boys are coming home decorated for the first time and girls are coming home with a strong taste for alcohol in their breath and when parents remonstrate they are told: Why worry and girls are drinking liquor." It is unnecessary to state that this but bit of "evidence" comes from the Association itself and shows that body of notable propagandists at its back.

We would advise the Bulletin to consult Chief Slattery in government figures, for in that direction it is doing a good work.

Rev. Robert Laird, M. A., D. D., of Edmonton, will be in Stettler from Monday and Tuesday, in his capacity as Moderator of the United Church, and delivered an address at the Church on Monday evening and at Rotary on Tuesday lunch.

Mr. Laird occupies a position in the United Church somewhat similar to that of the Finance Minister in the Federal Government, so that he stands high in Church councils.

He is a man about six feet, three or four inches in height and his shoulders have the scholarly cheap, showing that he has spent a good deal of time burning the midnight oil. He dresses very plainly in a dark grey suit with cut-away coat, the latter being a compromise between the every-day sack coat and the Prince Albert. No doubt when he is in Toronto he wears the Prince Albert, but that would not do in his travels on the prairies. He wears no jewelry of any kind, except a small watch chain, and a pair of old-fashioned steel cuffs are the only articles of wear that relieve the rather drab color of his general make-up. In other words, Dr. Laird is a very conservative dresser.

Dr. Laird is a splendid example of the intellectual and benevolent type, resembling many of the high dignitaries of all churches. He must be in the middle fifties, and his hair is grey, but still abundant. The church type is apt to have a sort of ingrowing tendency, leading to nervousness of mind, but Dr. Laird is very cosmopolitan, can no doubt converse with all kinds, and he can handle a cabinet with the skill of a trained specialist. Speaking to call: his strong point, and his voice is of the deep tenor variety, which compels attention even though nothing in particular is being said. One would not put him down as a statistics expert, even though he occupies a position dealing mainly with figures. He believes in that class of men who care nothing for money in his self, a type in Western Canada, except among ministers.

Nature has been good to him in giving him a large frame and a large brain, but he has apparently done little to improve natural advantage in regard to his physical development as he does not look robust, compared with what Dr. Chown was in his prime. He is a splendid example of the three-fold man if he would join a gymnasium, while in Toronto and follow a program on the pool.

We cannot have too many visitors like Dr. Laird, Archbishop Dewdney, the Hon. Charles Stewart and Archbishop O'Leary. Dr. Walker, the new president of Alberta University, will be here on November 20 to speak to the Board of Trade.

MODERNIZATION OF TURKEY

Mustapha Kem ? Says Latin Alphabet Will Be Introduced In Country

President Mustapha Kemal, recently appeared at a people's party fete in Constantinople and unexpectedly made his first speech in many months.

"Within two years," he said, "the Latin alphabet will be universally used in Turkey, and we shall prove that our intelligence is equal to the civilized world after banishing the incomprehensible Arab characters which are responsible for 90 per cent. of illiterate Turks. It is no longer a time for speeches. It is a time for action and we shall institute this important reform, which is not time lost."

The president then wrote out his speech on a name, using a Latin alphabet, and had a friend read it aloud to prove his facility with the new alphabet.

The latter is the through street and Alberta Avenue is the Prospect Avenue should be stop streets. Similarly the streets running into Alberta Avenue should be stop streets. FOR A SHAMPOO

To cut the sticky curd when you have washed your hair, squeeze lemon juice into the rinse water. A little vinegar will answer the same purpose.

THE SINK

A cane jelly will help you to keep the sink white and shining. Make the jelly by dissolving soap in warm water and adding a few tablespoonfuls lemons. Keep it in a glass jar near the sink. This is a good use for small pieces of soap left in the soap dishes.

The response to the request for contributions was more than gratifying; and in spite of the illness and absence of several Aid members, everything was carried on. Following the dinner, a program was held in the church. Rev. Mr. Miller made an efficient chairman and the presence of Rev. Mr. Clegg of Halkirk, added much to the tone of the gathering.

A regrettable feature of which Rev. Mr. Miller made note, was the unavoidable absence of Rev. Mr. God ard of Stettler, whose presence at these annual gatherings is an almost established fact, and looked forward to with pleasure. Mr. A. L. Sanderson addressed the gathering briefly.

The rest of the program consisted of numbers of considerable variety, several of the participants responding to encores. The items were:

Solos: Miss Sherbrow, Halkirk; Mrs. Y. Samuels, Rev. Mr. Clegg and Mr. J. Rushton.

Readings: Mrs. A. Rust; Mrs. F. Gottlob, Rev. Mr. Clegg.

A musical skit by Misses Martha Rushton and Ada Ghent.

A Scotch jig by Misses Edith Rich, Magda Sauer, Martha Driscoll, Marion Gracely, Phyllis Parker, Annie Anderson and Muriel Rushton.

The accompanists were Miss M. Hart, Mrs. R. Shaw, Rev. Mr. Clegg and Mr. H. Rushton.

The total proceeds of the dinner and program will be almost $110.00.

The Ladies' Aid feel grateful to all who assisted in any way.

Mrs. B. H. Moore entertained a number of ladies Thursday evening to a Hallowe'en bridge party at her home and three tables were in use during the evening. The prizes were won by Mrs. C. L. Willis and Miss Birkett.

Saturday was given over to basketball in town, and the population was increased by the arrival of a number of outside teams and their friends and supporters. The results will be given in next week's issue.

The C. W. L. held a most successful chicken dinner in Sharpe and Page's Tea Room on Saturday afternoon and evening. A large number of citizens availed themselves of the menu served by the ladies.

Galahad was well represented at the Basketball Tournament on Saturday. The girls were accompanied by their coaches, the Misses McKenzie Paulsen, McLean and Scott, also by Mrs. A. Danielson, Mrs. Oliver, Mrs. Elliott and Mrs. Reid.

Hallowe'en was celebrated by the juvenile portion of the town by the usual attention to ash barrels and portable buildings. Nothing serious was perpetrated and most householders kept their property securely insecure by handing out nuts and confectionery.

Miss C. E. Barber held a successful recital in the basement of the United Church on Tuesday evening, when she gave a varied program of humorous and dramatic readings, impersonations, monologues, etc. A good audience was in attendance.

McTaggart and Harrison have bought the building and lot just south of their warehouse from David Sclater and will use the lot for an extension of their present premises. This will give them a frontage of 100 feet and enable them to have more accommodation for their sheet metal.

The weather has been fine and mild during the greater part of October, with no rain or snow. It has been chilled in a little colder, the thermometer having registered a freezing point in the daytime on October 31st and November 1st. The roads are good and fields are still numerous on the streets and highways.

Alberta Avenue from the National Hotel to Carder's Hall was the scene of much wreckage on Hallowe'en night, and the old barrels and machinery were a source of danger to automobiles driving to the Moose dance. One empty barrel held the middle of the road at the intersection of Alberta and Main Street.

Come to the meeting on Monday night and get into the game for the winter.

Botha News

Our fine weather still continues with the nights gradually getting colder. Fall plowing and discing is almost ended unless we have a spell of warmer weather. Farmers who happen to live on the road to the coal mines can hear wagons passing almost any time during the day or night. The big fall rush is on at the mines as most farmers are now putting in their winter supply of coal.

Mrs. I. A. Cunningham entertained a number of ladies from Botha last Thursday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Percy Cunningham. The ladies passed a very pleasant afternoon sewing and chatting and about 5 o'clock Mrs. Cunningham served a delicious lunch and all departed for home.

Lorraine Bell celebrated her 7th birthday by having June Cunningham, Fern Cunningham and Marian MacKay over on the Bell home and helped with the celebration.

George Sifton returned to Botha on Friday after spending the summer in Montana. Mr. Sifton speaks very highly of the country where he was working.

Morley Grieves and Everett Fennell left on Saturday for Vancouver where they are expecting to spend the winter.

Mrs. Percy Cunningham left on Saturday morning for her home in Spokane, Washington.

Russell Stewart came down from Grande Prairie and arrived at Frank Townsend's place bright and early on Saturday morning. Russell is looking well and his friends are glad to see him back.

A very good crowd gathered at the Hall for the dance on Thursday evening, but as there was some disappointment over the music a number went home. Some of the youngsters rented Dewey Ball out of bed and the dance went on merrily until the wee sma' hours.

Mr. and Mrs. Somerville of Clive spent the week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Rae.

Jean Erwin is wearing a happy smile these days as she received her "Independent" golf on Saturday.

The High School girls attended the basketball tournament in Stettler on Saturday. While we had both a Junior and Senior team neither of them were successful. The girls enjoyed themselves thoroughly and with continued practice should be able to do much better next fall. Mr. Paige has been working hard with them and expected himself to make things pleasant for them.

Mrs. Earl Prudden and Mrs. Willie Prudden left on Monday for Edmonton for a few days shopping.

An attempt is being made to finish up the skating rink this week. As cash is scarce, those who can spare the time are donating their work. It will not be long now until skating will be possible and the rink will be in daily use if it can be finished.

Shareholders in the Botha Hall are delighted to learn that the balance of the debt is paid and the Hall is now clear.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cunningham are moving into Botha this week. They are moving into the house owned by Mr. J. MacKay, just west of bank.

We understand that our banker, C. A. MacKay has recently acquired an expensive dog which is keeping him awake at night. The idea is general that our bank will soon be equipped with a most efficient watch dog.

BIG BILL TO DARING FOR MEN FILM PUBLIC

Ken Maynard and His Horse 'Tarzan' Give Fans New Riding Trills in "Code of Scarlet"

Action, daredevil riding, and thrills are again in order with the advent of Maynard's last thriller "Code of Scarlet," which comes to Stettler Theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, November 5th, 6th and 7th.

Charles Rogers, producer of the Maynard series has promised a feature of this kind for some time, and from all indications has fulfilled that promise in one of the most daring and colorful pictures this star has ever had.

Maynard trained circuitously for daredevil riding stunts in this picture. Too much understand that both horse and man must do the right thing at the right time in stunt riding. It is wonderful to see the intelligence of this animal.

Maynard is recognized today the best cut doer star in the movies, he is a ladies' favorite and the idol of his male admirers.

SILENT PLANE MENACE NEAR

Four Nations Strive For Machine To Be Also Invisible

Great Britain, France, Germany, and Russia are all within measuring distance, according to the Daily Mail's International expert, of producing a new terror of the air, the airplane which will be almost silent and invisible and can, therefore, run down gas or bombs without warning.

The engine has already been quieted and it has been discovered that the noise of the propeller can be almost eliminated by the use of screws with six or more blades of small size and special shape.

The British air experts have evolved a queer "dope" of a dull greenish hue, which renders a machine almost invisible, either by day or in the glare of a searchlight at night.

The Germans are seeking a means whereby the heavy shadows formed under the lower surfaces of airplane wings can be so distributed and broken up that they will no longer reveal the shape and size of the wing which throws them.

Tells Of Death Of John Hornby And Companions

Tree Died in Far North From Starvation and Sickness

COBALT, Ont., Nov. 3.—Supplementing brief details sent out by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police from the far north, Barney Mutchenl, back in Cobalt after spending the summer with the Nipissing mine prospecting party which escaped from Edmonton in a log cabin on the Dubawnt river, Lake and Chesterfield Inlet, has brought home with him a fuller account of the grim fate which overtook John Hornby, another well known English family, and his two nephews in the barren lands. The trio disappeared nearly two years ago and the word of their whereabouts—some through until a company of Cobalt prospectors found three skeletons in a log cabin on the Thelon river, far to the west of Chesterfield Inlet.

Found Skeletons

Hornby and his nephews—Garnet (not Fort Hollister late in 1926, and Mr. Mutchenl says that it was evident they had all been dead 18 months when the Cobalt party found them. Hornby's wife, Edith Hornby, another of the well known English family, and his two nephews in the barren lands. The trio disappeared nearly two years ago and the word of their whereabouts—some through until a company of Cobalt prospectors found three skeletons in a log cabin on the Thelon river, far to the west of Chesterfield Inlet.

Found Skeletons

Hornby and his nephews—Garnet (not Fort Hollister late in 1926, and Mr. Mutchenl says that it was evident they had all been dead 18 months when the Cobalt party found them. Hornby's wife, Edith Hornby, came across the cabin. When Wilson and his men reached the cabin they found two of the skeletons outside the small building of logs, and the third man, apparently Hornby himself, in a bunk inside. The theory is that the elder men having more experience of the country had been the last to succumb.

Of the two skeletons found outside the cabin one was evidently killed in blankets, and he apparently had been the first to die. The other died on by exposure, and finally, had been dragged out by the survivor, who himself had been too weak to cover the remains fully. The third man then had retired into the cabin, had placed the bodies on the door and crawled into the bunk to die miserably from cold and hunger. Mutchenl thinks the two young men making the first trip across barren lands, had been overcome by sickness. Their rifles were outside near the survivor, who himself had been too basic and home. When the cabin was first searched nothing was seen of the skeleton in the bunk and a second visit was required before it was noticed.

Inside the cabin, the only food found was a small quantity of tea. There was plenty of ammunition, but it is considered that from the absence of animal skins that the party had missed the caribou migration. An old diary of Hornby's was found, also his packsack filled with white fox furs. The Wilson party did not disturb the cabin but packed on to Chesterfield Inlet where their story was told to Inspector Joyce, in charge of the police post there. Arrangements were made for the bodies to be sent in to aeroplane to complete the investigation but Mutchenl says he understands that this was not found feasible this season.

WORLD'S MACHINES COULD BE DRIVEN BY TIDE'S POWER

Washington.—The machinery of the world could be run by power derived from the tides, if other sources of energy should be exhausted, according to the Coast and Geodetic Survey officials.

Studies being made by private experts in the Bay of Fundy, near the Maine-Newfoundland line, and experiments being conducted by German governments, notably England and France, are being carefully watched by this department of the government.

That commercial power can be developed from tidal forces, the rise and fall of coastal waters, is believed to be beyond question. The only obstacle at present would be competition with other sources of power on economic basis.

The greatest tidal ranges occur in the arctic and antarctic regions, or elsewhere remote from the most populous centers. This may be overcome, however, by development of modern engineering and transportation power over long distances economically.

It is a engineering problem of getting the unit cost on the same plane to the energy derived from coal, oil and other sources, as one of the survey officials put it. At present, it is not certain that, as an independent unit to supply power for industrial purposes, by large scale tidal power development would be financially successful.

The countries rise and fall of the tide is a potential source of energy as because of great economic importance, I put, untapped," said an official.

Round the Country

Mrs. Leona Burritt, of our neighboring town of Alix, has an interesting article in the U. F. A. of November 1st, dealing with the rural school.

Mrs. Burritt points out the following defects in these schools:

1. A Great Lack of Playground Equipment.

Under the school ordinance the minimum requirements include a number of games, such as basketball, volleyball, baseball and football equipment. Most of these equipments is conspicuous by its absence.

2. An Appalling Lack of Blackboard Space.

The regulations say "at least 100 square feet." How many rural schools in the district have 100 square feet of blackboard space?

3. Little Attention Paid to Art.

This includes music in the higher grades and paper cutting, drawing, plasticine modelling and color work in the lower grades. Art is a compulsory subject.

4. Physical Culture Neglected.

There is little attempt to provide calisthenics for the children, and organized games are the exception.

5. Inaccuracy and Untidiness Are Permitted in School Work.

"If you doubt this," says Mrs. Burritt, "watch your children's exercises from year to year." In how many rural schools do you imagine that the habit of doing the thing as well as it can is being fostered?

Mrs. Burritt appears to think that the teacher is responsible for all of these defects. Even for the first two, she thinks that the teacher should go after the Trustees and have the matter remedied or forfeit her position. But we have known teachers who have asked for more than once—and black boards have been a dozen times, and they were not forthcoming. The Trustees refuse to give the rural schools the supplies required under the Act and it is the duty of the Inspector to insist on these minimum requirements on penalty of cutting down the grant.

The other defects, however, can be fairly laid upon the shoulders of the teacher. We hate to say it, but a good rural school teachers are few in the existing an accuracy and tidiness. The children often have good scribblers, but many others are an eye-sore to the parents. A high teacher is frequently inclined to neglect physical culture to the detriment of both the pupils and herself.

Mrs. Burritt claims that the rural schools should have social centres, especially the "consolidation of the small." Yet all co-operation.

The sound, good, it is reminds us very much of the old theory that the public school is the place for social and religious teaching. The "gospel of co-operation" has a familiar ring. It seems to us that we have heard it during election time, and a mere so we try to include it in the school curriculum, some well-meaning enthusiasts will attempt to think it up with the U. F. A. and teach the children that co-operation was never heard of until the present provincial government came into power.

What we most guard against in our rural schools is the cramming process which has been drawn up by expert educators, with the object of training the children in continuity and habits of industry. That is all we can do for them. Give the children a good teacher and a good education and social problems will be automatically solved. The educated citizen is essentially a man of co-operation, not because he has been filled up like a cistern with social theories, but because his mind has been trained to think and reason out questions for himself.

Co-operation is a splendid subject for literary societies, or for political meetings, but not as a school subject. Children are born co-operators anyway, and the teacher can train them

Sultan Troubled With Unwanted Harem

News from Paris is that Sultan Mohammed Ben Youssef, the nineteen-year-old Sultan of Morocco, is having the time of his life there, and for the present he has forgotten the harem of 300 women which he inherited from his father and which he declines to escape from. The first things he asked to see in Paris was a circus, where he laughed himself almost sick. Since then, instead of visiting the places that are supposed to interest travellers, he has been going to the movies and the amusement parks. He is quoter by a newspaper reporter as saying that Viator Yi am going to clear out my harem and install a circus when I get back home. I'd rather have one of these handsome blonde women with bobbed hair I have found on her head for me than a thousand of these fat cheese girls the Pashas are continually sending me as gifts. And I shall have clowns and dancing girls and trapeze performers and tightrope walkers and magicians. I shall have a performance every afternoon and evening, and the performers will teach me their tricks. Won't that be fine?" The correspondent to a youth the prospect appears delectable, and it is quite true that the Sultan will do as he says. Certainly if he confines himself to such harmless pastimes France will not object.

The problem of the unwanted harem is no comic opera subject, and no true believer would treat it with levity. By the Koran, the Sultan is allowed four official wives, but the number of ladies who may be installed in his harem is as unlimited as the number of hot-cross buns that have in the shops. Some of the customs of Mohmmedan survive in Oriental countries today and none is more persistent than the harem. Sultan Moulay Hafid, father of the present Sultan, collected his harem over a period of many years, and no doubt took great delight in it. But he died when the age of forty-five he had some 300 wives, more or less beautiful, who, has, for the most part, come to him as presents from the various pashas whom he must be ruled. Obviously the new intention could not be expected to have the same interest for the old as for the younger sultan, and the old sultan's duties must be somewhat irksome to any of them. Some of them retained maybe for the sake of old times, but no one old enough to be his mother. Suddenly confronted with the problem, he found himself wholly unable to fall in love with twenty, forty, or, eugene, 50 more or less corpulency.

His first impulse was to discharge the lot, but if you pondered out to him that some caution was to be observed. So his first move was to house all the ladies in a building properly remote from his own quarters. After they had been there awhile they were told that they could retire to private life, each with a pension or annuity that would secure her future. The ladies had no doubt had to consent though most of them did so much against their will. Perhaps there was one or more of them, however, or habitués, who did not feel that they could say that for she might induce the young Sultan to make her the favorite and first official wife. In any event they had all become used to the Rotherhood luxurious life of harem and considered nothing better than to spend the rest of their lives there. They were particularly enticed by Roll Mohammed. When they were let out they felt that a spectator had been cast upon them. Soon word came back to the palace that these ladies had found it almost impossible to make suitable matches. The pashas who had married them were ill-favored fellows who had cast off their wives for a first-class dynastic crisis. He was all the more aware of this because he had two elder brothers, either of whom might in certain circumstances be called upon to take his place and shift the harem back. About the same time he arrived at the conclusion that Yahoud Abahe, who had been his father's chamberlain, should also be let out. By all accounts Yahoud was a first-class grafter and had been able to set himself between the Sultan and all others who had to pay a stiff fee for an audience and a stiffer one for the favorite's influence. The new Sultan announced that this arrangement was over, and he removed Yahoud. One report say that he was removed with more than necessary violence by a couple of eunuchs.

Shortly afterwards, desiring to give an important dinner, the Sultan ordered that all the calabash gold plate in the palace should be turned up, and set forth. Then it turned out that most of it was missing. A search in the palace of Yahoud revealed it, and a tremendous quantity of other loot which was seized by Hadi. Yahoud since that time, if not before, has been using his influence on behalf of the harem and his unintended in stirring up some trouble with the romantic tribesmen who are the subjects of the Sultan. His hope is, of course, that there may be a new Sultan. It would be difficult, if not impossible, for the Sultan to remain if a majority of the chieftains turned against him. The French might prop his throne with their aeroplanes, and they are naturally favorable to any changes favored by the civilization which they are trying to force on the country. Yet they might not find it politic to support a Sultan who had lost caste with his own people.

Let Mama Drive, Papa

(By Erwin Greer)

President Greer College of Electrical and Automotive Trades, Chicago.

Today it is just as appropriate to say that "woman's place is in the automobile," as it used to be to say "woman's place is in the home." For the automobile is in reality a part of the home. Efficient and safe driving standard should be kept up to well as the standard of safe living.

You probably know a women who became driving six months ago. Look at her!

Her eyes are full of haste and fear. Her muscles are rounder and more flexible. Her hearing is to-day efficient, the posture of her body, her hands, the tilt of her head, has lost much of "affliction" way of speaking, her nervousness is gone, and she walks to her chair with a lively relish that "behests."

"Do you drive a car?" is one of the first questions asked by a teacher of nursery in New York. "If you do," says he, "I can guarantee you in a portion of the time it ordinarily takes to complete the development of team ory under my system. Because of the skill, exactitude and control you must exercise in driving, the faculty of memory will naturally be more quickly developed."

"Since I got my car," said one woman, "I am more careful about buying. I get up earlier in the morning, feel better, do my work more quiet, ly and systematically, and I can do ten times as much in a day as I used to. I can be with my children, driving them about, showing them things; the right way, and we all call for daddy at sixth. I feel that our little car is a member of the family—it has brought to us such happiness which cannot ordinarily be bought with money. In order to go out during the day I have planned things better in the home so that my work can be done in two or three hours. When I want to step at home all the time, some of it never did get done; I used to have headaches, and my husband had to do the marketing at night.

LET MAMA DRIVE, PAPA.

Thinking It Over

I've led a straight life,
I've entered all I've gained;
I've paid as I owe
And I've lost all I've lent.
I've befriended the rich,
I've befriended the poor,
And a wayfaring stranger
Was never turned from my door.

I have loved the old maids
With a love that was true,
And of the grass-widows,
I have loved quite a few.
I have loved the sour grapes,
The short and the tall,
The bandy-ones and bowly,
Yes I've loved them all.

I have sworn to the truth,
I ha. ve told many lie.
But could stick to a tether
Till the sun would freeze in the skies.

I have ramabled and gambled,
I have been up and down,
I have been to the backwood,
And also in town.

I have lived in the mountains
I have lived in the dell,
But living in Texas
Was like living in . . . Oh, well.

I have lived on the ranch
That was called Bar-Eleven,
But living in Alix
Is next door to heaven.

I have rode in cowl pullmans,
I have coasted the tree,
I have asked none of the pillows
Where deep water lies.

Once I was young,
But now I am old,
My life has been spent
Vainly seeking for gold.
I've panned in the dew
On the green at the dell,
Will live to a holding,
As many can tell,
And nanny she foolishly
Tried in 98 glacé
Like myself are now stranded
On banks of despair.
For the girls will prove fickle
Ans riches will flee
Like frost from the meadow,
Like a bird from a tree.
Then your fond hopes will vanish
Your life seem in vain,
As vainly you struggle
Again and again.
When your race is near ended
And you look back and sad,
With no one to cheer you
Or make your heart glad,
When your life sun is sinking
And near to the end,
Just get a new liver

Good Winter Roads

Continuing our article of last week on same reason, a good deal of [illegible] called for Friday morning at 10 a.m. in the Town Hall. The work of last year will be reviewed and [illegible] ways and means of going ahead—then you'll be up to date.

It's urgent that this work be lined up at once because considerable money is earned in connection with the work [illegible] comes. The [illegible] can only do [illegible] the road-side [illegible] time. Why not have a dozen [illegible] put up last year did a wonderful work, and saved several [illegible] getting fed. If these fences are replaced this year it will make the work of the place much more easily.

It is hoped that the two roads south of town, Red Willow road, the west road to Nevis and the east road at least to Botha can be kept open. If further than this can be accomplished all the better.

We want everyone both in Stettler and the surrounding district, who may be interested to be present and help push to success this movement which helps us all. A full attendance is expected to take the lead in this matter. A number of outlying districts will open their own roads to the main road if the main roads are kept passable.

Today open road conditions and winter are a necessity, the benefits are numerous to each and in this article it is hoped that I've got to stand still if we do not advance; we go backward. It is to the interest of this district that we forge ahead—progress will not wait for the backward.

Remember the time 10 a. m. Friday in the Town Hall.

We are sorry to lose "Pearl" from our neighborhood, but wish the couple good health and happiness during their career. They left on Wednesday for Nova Scotia points where they will visit Mr. Knight's relatives on their honeymoon.

We regret we are obliged to state that the school concert advertised for November 7th had to be postponed indefinitely. Further notice will be given as soon as a new date is decided upon.

Farewell To Mr. Beaulieu

On Wednesday, November 7th, the members of the Viney Ridge Local met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Thomson for the purpose of saying good-bye to one of their members, Mr. Beaulieu, who is leaving for the Coast on account of failing health.

Mr. Beaulieu has been a resident of the Viney Ridge School District for over twenty years, having homesteaded here before the railroad came into Stettler.

He has always been an active member of this Local and also took a real and sympathetic interest in all matters pertaining to the school.

To express their appreciation of his friendship the Local presented him with a watch and chain, as a small token of the high esteem in which he is held.

The evening was spent in a very pleasant manner, recitations, piano-forte, solos and songs being rendered by the following:

Mr. and Mrs. Hargarson
Mrs. and Miss Paterson
Miss V. Thomson
Mr. and Mrs. Chinn
Mr. Langan
Mr. F. Hobley.

Refreshments of dainties and cold chicken.

Mr. Beaulieu participated in the program by giving an exhibition of step-dancing, at which he is past master.

At the close of the entertainment, a very appetizing lunch was served by the ladies of the district, which was a fitting close to a most enjoyable evening.

(Mrs.) Hollie Chinn,
Secretary-Treasurer.

Round the Country

Mr Hoover was elected President of the United States on November 6th, with a personal vote of 20,000,000 to 14,000,000 for Al Smith. Of course these personal votes mean nothing, as it is the votes of the electoral college that decide the winner. We have yet to meet a former American who understands the system of voting, but at any rate, Mr Hoover received the largest personal vote ever given to a presidential candidate, and Mr. Smith the second largest, whether of winner or loser.

It is unfortunate for that country that the public services of Mr. Smith had the defeated candidate, will be lost from now on. He is down and out politically, and his long period of good work is over. That is one of the anomalies of the American system. In Canada, on the other hand, the candidate defeated for the premiership, can still remain a member of parliament, and his position is often nearly as influential as the premier's.

There are many things in the States that are worth copying; for example, their great devotion to business during business hours. But there are a whole lot of things that other countries should religiously steer clear of. One of these is the "stump" system of voting, as now practised in the United States. Instead of having a responsible government elected by the people, and which is responsible to the people for its every act, the United States has a system whereby the people vote for a president, and then have no say in the matter for four years. The president appoints his own cabinet, and they are responsible to him, and not to the people. The result is that the president is the most powerful man in the world, and, as a natural result is less the honest class of criminals in the world. One State of the Union competes with another in having a larger number of rules and regulations, and it often occurs that a man escaping a regulation in one State, would be endangering the law if he crossed the border to a neighboring State.

The system is analagous to that of the public school. Regulations of all kinds are necessary for children at school, but when they reach years of discretion, and attend the University, they find that rules are reduced to a minimum. The United States are still very much in the public school or juvenile stage. That is probably why so many people think it is the greatest country in the world.

Mr. Hoover, the new president, is a well made machine, ready, as Stanley would say, "To forge the anchors of the dominions of the mind." He is just the kind of a man who would suit the times, instead of the voters. Men seldom vote for the man they crave for. He Wilfrid Laurier was shunned to the echo at Toronto but by force lost by cyclone and habits of thought." It takes a lot of cheering to break down habits of thought, and that is why Al Smith was misled. He thought the cheers meant the break ing down of the old time customs of voting Republican. But men change their votes only after a mental revolution, and there was no issue in the campaign that would cause a mental revolution except prohibition, and that worked both ways.

It matters little to Canada what man is elected president of the United States. They will still continue to exploit our country whether the government there is Republican or Democrat. Under the Fordney tariff they will still continue to levy a duty of 42 cents per bushel on Canadian wheat and 2 cents per pound on Canadian cattle. And we will still continue to buy their goods to a greater extent than any other country in the world.

But the Canadian farmer, with all the duty levied against his products, is in a better position than the American farmer. He raises better wheat and cattle and pays less taxes. The American farmer knows this, and that is why he is constantly believing for more protection. The situation is similar to that of David and Goliath, and the Goliaths have been petitioning their government for protection from the little Davids across the border for the last twenty years. In fact, the farmers in the south have come to the conclusion that the only way they can compete with their Canadian colleagues or rivals, is by leaving their own country and moving up here, and they are doing that in increasing numbers every year.

The Alberta farmer has little to complain about. He has the best good ing system in the world. He has the best soil and climate. He has the highest average for raising wheat for the past twenty years. In a few years he will have the hydro electric light and power system at his door. He has coal in abundance, and, while the provincial government is awfully slow with their road policy, the time will come when he will have graveled roads, and Henry Ford and General Motor trucks to carry his farm produce over them to market. With hoist compulsorily cheap, the taxes cannot increase to any great extent, and he will be able to show clear of the plight of his American brother who pays both State and Federal taxes on $200 per acre land. The Canadian farmer needs no protection. He is only too willing to compete with the rest of the world in general in securing save to the act that Canadians wheat and other farm products is the best buy on the market today.

How to Reduce Varicose Veins

Rub Gently and Upward Toward the Heart As Found in Velva Flex-Thin Way

Many people have become desperate because they have been led to believe that there is no remedy that will reduce swollen veins and muscles.

If you will get a two-ounce original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil, (full strength) at any first-class drug store and apply it morning and evening as directed you will quickly notice an improvement, which will continue until the veins and muscles are reduced to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil is a harmless, yet most powerful germicide, and two ounces last a very long time. Indeed so powerful is Emerald Oil that old chronic sores and ulcers are often entirely healed, and anyone who is dissatisfied with his own size has their money refunded. All druggists sell bottles of it.

SCIENTIST MAKES A STRANGE DISCOVERY

Convinced That Human Body Has Brain-Tuning Point

C. E. England, a research scientist of the Bell Telephone laboratories New York, says that after extensive experiments he was convinced of the soundness of his theory that the human body has a radio tuning point.

The tuning point of his body, he said, was 2.56 meters and was discovered accidentally while he was working on radio oscillators generating very short wave lengths. England explained:

Starting with five meters, he next worked downward gradually and encountered difficulties when he went below four meters. A search for the cause disclosed that his body was working as a tuned circuit, he said.

The Story Condensed

This stirring unusual story is laid in the early days of California under the colorful regime of the Spanish Dons, when the Missions were in flower, and before the pioneer rodeos and Spaniards were driven from their landed kingdoms by invading whites.

Ramona was the adopted daughter of the Senora Moreno, proud and haughty women —a religious fanatic who ruled her vast rancho in feudal grandeur. From girlhood she loved the Senora's son, Felipe, and he in turn loved Ramona.

The story begins at sheep-shearing time on the Moreno rancho. A band of Indians headed by the handsome and youthful Alessandro, are engaged for the shearing, and during this annual harvest of wool, the young rebellion and Ramona fall in love. All of her rich heritage of Indian blood rises into the ascendency, and the girl determines to marry Alessandro. Senora Moreno resorts to every artifice of her cunning nature to frustrate the marriage. By wedding an Indian, Ramona would be disgraced, argues the Senora. Felipe, when he learns that Ramona and Alessandro are in love, marvels at his own devotion for the girl, defies his obdurate mother and aids in thwarting her schemes to place Ramona in a convent. With his guitar he betrothes the Senora in the patio, while Ramona escapes from the balconcy and elopes with Alessandro.

Ramona goes off with Alessandro, who returns to his own people with his Indian bride. Many hardships and tragedies follow the marriage, but they serve only to cement their love in a stronger union. They find happiness in the birth of a baby girl, and life's outlook seems happy indeed, when a gang of brutal outlaws raid their village and ma mere the inhabitants. Ramona and Alessandro, with their child, escape after she sees five to their home to keep it from falling into the hands of the marauders. They find refuge in a cabin on a mountain peak. Then comes the death of little Ramona, which unseats the mind of Alessandro and all but breaks the heart of Ramona. Alessandro is shot down, cials before her eyes. Ramona, in the depths of despair, loses her memory, and becomes a wandering outcast among the Indians of the San Jacinto mountains.

Meanwhile, the old Senora dies. Felipe, left alone, and with a smouldering love for Ramona, seeks everywhere for the girl and Alessandro. His ambition is to find and bring her back to the Senora's deathbed, that the dying woman may give her blessing before the sacrament. He hold fields, the cattle, and the Indians relinquish to him. Finally Felipe finds Ramona in a wild Indian camp, where she is living happily with her husband. He announces after the death of Alessandro. He brings her back to the hacienda. The servants rush out to greet her. But Ramona does not remember them. Instead she shrinks in fear, clinging to the arm of Felipe, a pathetic figure in her tragic unhappiness.

Felipe tries to restore Ramona's shattered memory. He takes her to all the loved spots she knew as a girl. In vain he seeks a restoration. Finally he hits upon a real idea! He has Ramona's maid dress her in a beautiful Spanish costume which she wore in her youth. Then in the patio he plays his guitar and sings to her an old love song as he sang to her years ago. Slowly the strains seep into Ramona's sleeping brain. She begins to dance, mechanically at a call at first. Then as the strains of the music move vividly back to her mind, she dances with more abandon, finally entering into the spirit of the dance with all the wild abandon of her youth. The old servants are overjoyed and Felipe is swept into a great happiness. At last, recognizing him and all the servants, Ramona exclaims, "I know I thought I had been away!"

Story-fraught time comes again at the old hacienda. Ramona and Felipe to a ripe old age, and their children and grandchildren, and even great grandchildren, fill the hillside to plead royal favors. The ravishes of health has rather upset to Ramona's dark, mysterious eyes. Felipe at last finds courage to speak of his love. It is then that the white blood in Ramona outweighs the Indian and she gives her hand to Felipe, her white blood answering his love in a spiritual union of perfect understanding.

That is shoulder pork and cabbage. I point lamb, says softly into your ear —as he places a cup of hot coffee at your right: "How'd y' have y'r lean an' sign?" That is in some parts of the Central or Southern States. Where I was compelled to spend a night, it was somewhat different. My waiter asked very decidedly: "Soup, Bub?"

"I did not look up for I expected a query pertaining to fodder and I just replied casual like: "No, I don't care for soup."

"Dinah's crab," said the waiter.

WATER PURSUITS IN THE GARDEN

A critical factor in success with sandy garden crops is that of surface drainage in winter and early spring.

To gardens devoted to roses, Long Beauties lris, strawberries, aquilegias, shrubs, etc., should have furrows plowed to insure an easy run-off for the water that may accumulate during winter thaws or in early spring.

The practice at the Morden Experimental Station is to provide ready surface drainage for such areas in October. The double mold-board plow, a hard, implement for making water furrows. The ordinary walking plow is not entirely satisfactory. The furrow along the west of the garden should be deep and there should be a ditch to carry the water to enter. When plowing the last furrow adjacent to the ditch, the last furrow adjacent to the ditch, the last furrow adjacent to the ditch,

UNIT-ACCIDENT RUBS

Ten timely anti-accident suggestions are contained in a bulletin issued by the National Safety Council:

1.—Look out for children. You can never tell what they'll do, and you're always wrong if you hit one.

2.—Don't pass a standing trolley car. Some day the jury may call it manslaughter.

3.—Don't speed around corners for it's a straight route to the hospital.

4.—Drive on the right side of the road; it's the only safe side.

5.—The fact that you had the right of way won't bring anybody back to life—least of all yourself. Use discretion.

6.—Do not step short, without giving any warning. The other fellow is no mind reader.

7.—Do not back up without looking to the rear.

8.—Do not park or pass on curve or hill. There's plenty of straight road.

9.—Slow down when approaching a railroad crossing; it is nearly as dangerous as a railroad crossing.

10.—Be courteous to other drivers, and traffic officers. Courtesy prevents accidents.

Now that we are approaching the opening season for banquets, it might be well to peruse and reflect for a moment on the opening of the past. When the young have dispensed of a delightful meal that would gladden the heart of the most fastidious epicure, why retire—those numberless so called ——— and worthless evening, that merely irritate and bore beyond words. The personal speaker of the evening usually cannot prepared to contribute something worthwhile, and a pleasure to listen to, ofttimes at the expense of considerable time and thought We need brighter and better banquets and the best way to secure them is to tell the truth about them fearlessly and without regard to consequences.

A Word That is Common to Many Tongues

OVER the rim of the horizon a motorist pulls up beside a gasoline pump.

His language, to us, might be unintelligible. It is, perhaps, the tongue of India, or China, or of the Levant, or again, the speech of France, or Spain, or Italy. . . .

Yet one word he uses has a familiar ring. It is TEXACO.

Not only where the mother tongue of England is spoken will you hear this word, but in many countries and many climes.

Texaco is a word known to almost every civilized tongue . . . through the passion of those who have made Texaco Petroleum Products available to every country whose transport and industry demand rare quality and service.

Texaco is used by men of every race who have found uniform excellence in TEXACO products.

A dramatic story unfolds itself behind the "intersection-sizing" of this word. It is an epic of geologists seeking new sources of petroleum supply, of chemists and engineers working, analyzing, and improving the technique of refining. It tells of railway men supervising the shuttling movement of over six thousand Texaco tank cars, of Texaco sailors linking near and distant shores, and of Texaco service men distributing TEXACO Petroleum Products.

The red star with a green T, bearing the name TEXACO, greets you everywhere—accepted as a standard of excellence in gasoline, motor oil and other petroleum products. Look for this star along your favorite highways. It is your guarantee of satisfaction.

The Hon Perren Baker, Minister of Education, has been attending some of the school conventions in various parts of the Province, and, in his addresses outlined his new scheme to re-organize the rural school districts. For the benefit of readers of the Independent interested in education (which includes almost everybody in this district) we will give a summary of what Mr Baker' plan consists of.

There are at present 1——— rural school districts in Alberta, one of which is known as Stettler Improvement. Mr. Baker's scheme is to change these twenty improvement— into Divisions, each containing 150 school districts.

Instead of Stettler Improvement we would have Stettler Division, and this Division would contain 150 rural school districts, covering about the same area that the Improvement— covers.

These school districts would have the same boundaries that they have now, and they would have their school boards just as they have now. Wall Lake, Wild Rose, Pibel Knob, Stewartvera and ——— would ——— would not be changed in any respect. The rural school boards would function as they have but their powers would be limited to financing and taking care of their own particular schools, and would not include the hiring or paying of the teachers.

Stettler division of 150 schools would be subdivided into five wards, containing 30 school districts each. A Divisional Board of five members would be elected, made up of one member from each ward. This Divisional Board would have the authority to hire all teachers; to pay all teachers according to a schedule of salaries; to hear all cases open for months of the year; and to place each teacher in her proper school according to the wishes of the rural school boards as far as possible.

As Inspector and two assistant Inspectors would be placed in charge of the 150 schools of each division, and each Inspector would have jurisdiction over 30 schools, the Chief Inspector would be the adviser of the Divisional Board, and would act as a go-between with the Divisional and the rural school boards of each school district.

Mr Baker has two plans for financing this scheme

1.—Let each Division of 150 schools look after its own financing through the rural municipalities in the division.

2.—Let the whole Province be the taxing area, and another Board be created to be known as the General Board to look after the financing of the 20 Divisions.

If the first plan is adopted the Divisional Boards would have to provide for all salaries and strike a mill rate on each school district sufficient to pay all the teachers' salaries in the 150 schools. The Divisional Board determine what the salaries are going to be and would take the salary question out of the hands of the rural boards altogether. The rural boards will also make up their budgets for their own local financing, such as for school debentures, new buildings, fences, coal and upkeep generally but would have no responsibility in r gard to the salaries of teachers.

If the second plan of financing is adopted, there would be an equalization of financing over the entire province and a uniform salary schedule for all rural schools in the province, and, of course, crop failures in one part of the province would not affect the schedules in any way in any particular division.

BIG

This brief summary of Mr. Baker's plan will give a general idea of the scheme. According to Mr. plan the teacher will be working under a school. ule, and the salary will increase from year to year to its maximum. Maximum salary would be provided for both ele—entary and secondary education. Rural high schools would be placed in the Inspectorate. Salaries would be promptly met. Fees for non-resident pupils attending towns and city schools would be adjusted between the town boards and the divisional boards. Efficiency would be promoted in that the inefficient would be eliminated How the rural part of the district will regard the scheme remains to be seen. Apparently it has many good points about it. The rural school boards will probably object to losing the one thing their give—spike in their proceedings—that is the hiring and firing of teachers. Mr Baker, however, is cautious about getting rid of the rural school boards altogether, as he feels that the rural system has been built up around the—e boss is Financially the new scheme will probably cost more than the old. Three or four more Inspectors would be required in Stettler division, where only one was in charge before. However, we can't expect to get something for nothing, and the new scheme, the inspectors should be able to keep in constant touch with each school in the division.

It is understood that the rural school districts would remain intact as they were before. If they had assets or liabilities when the change was brought about, they would still be in the same financial position, and they would still levy their own taxes to balance the gist of the scheme lies in the change of status of teachers. They would, under the new scheme, be responsible only to the Divisional Boards, the members of which are elected by the ratepayers of each ward.

BIRDS PAY THEIR WAY

That the wild life of the country pays sub-stantially to its assets, was stated in a recent address before the New Hampshire division of the Izaak Walton League of America, by W. Hendricks, ass—ciate chief of the Biological Survey. This expert in knowledge of wild life, both bird and animal, ever attempted to make a research—timate in dollars and cents of the annual economic value of game and birds to the State of New Hampshire, the most using conservative) placed at $6,500,000.

The figures regarding the insect-destroying value of birds are based upon surveys made in several states in which the—estimate of one pair of birds per acre was adopted as the basis for calculating the number of bands. To this is added the migrant visitors which halt briefly during their journeys to and from the nesting ground. If the value of this service be placed at ten cents per bird, the total amounts to $1,500,000.

Mr. Hendricks—ascribes as due to the return from the tourists' interest in the birds and animals of New Hampshire is based upon the—millions who leave on the average $160 each. Con—tends of this sum, he avers, should be attributed to the general interest of tourists in wild life, thus increasing the item ——— some $3,000,000. With these figures before them, how important to the people of New Hampshire must be the conservation of its wild life! As New Hampshire, like other New England states, because of its rugged topography and cold climate, is not likely to excel as an agricultural state, it seems of especial importance that her natural resources which bring—in have a return from the—tourist trade, should be safe—guarded and conserved in all right ways. In agricultural states, while the attraction for the tourist the importance of birds as destroyers of insects and are is of almost—wards is very great; so great, in fact, that competent authorities have declared that without these friends of the farmer, successful agriculture would soon become impossible. Mr. Henderson and the Biological Survey are rendering a valuable service in placing these illuminating figures before the public. The result should be greater care in the conservation of our "friends in feathers and fur."—Christian Science Monitor.

Round the Country

The study of a great Republic such as we have in the south, is a most fruitful source of interest. When one hundred and twenty million people of all degrees of intelligence are set together in a so called democracy, one may find diversions of all kinds in watching what they will do next. Of course, we know that there are many fine people in the United States. We get a lot of them as well as we can in Alberta, and in the district, for more the better. But the population is varied and heterogeneous that in that sea of humanity there comes to the surface a large number of freaks such as Anne Semple McPherson. Still by them say, the members of the school board at Dayton, Tenne ssee where they ran the monkey trial and the people who voted against Al Smith by over three votes were afraid the Pope might rule their country if he were elected.

Of course it is only natural that the new papers reflect the prevailing types of mind, and that they cater to all of that is the reason why we see so many interesting paragraph in the American newspapers dealing with matters of reform. The mode of procedure is to call some particular reform required and then suggest some regulation that will bring the reform about. Many people confidently believe that the way to reform the world is to regulate the world. But this method never proves successful. The only way of reforming the world is to educate it, and that is a long and tedious process and it takes years after generations to bring it about. The method of regulation is at its height in the United States. There are so many nationalities there that the melting pot is working overtime to assimilate them all. The temptation is great to regulate and regulate, as did the millenium is in sight. But after all, the only true work of reform is being done by the schools, the colleges, the universities and the churches.

As a sample of a common type of regulation, we append the following item of American newspaper:

"The frequent objections made to modern shows on the grounds of their too suitable character, might, in the opinion of Mr. Ferguson, a noted show man expected by the simplest of devices. He has suggested that women wear a girdle so designed as to make a division between them and their cavaliers, a sort of neutral zone. Mr. Ferguson has given a name to his invention, which will be known as the Prince-o-Beatrice. As it is portrayed in a number of American papers, it consists of a fine, fur lined, carrying, three pronged, side cloth. He explains that it may be ornamented with rosette and ribbons, and claims that it has the strong approval of the modern men and charge to whom he has shown it."

The paragraph is so perfect in its tone, and so typical of the kind of rot obscures that springs up from time to time that it would be a pity to spoil it by any comment of our own. All that we might say is that it seems that two thousands years too late the exercise of history might have been charged for the better if the Princess Beatrice Bill had been avail able to curb fierce characters of Cleopatra, Helen of Troy and Lucretia Borgia. But even today, it would do a lot of good if the ladies and gentlemen of the Stage Association will no doubt be petitioned to pass bills making the wearing of the belt compulsory at all times. In fact the idea of the "belt" is not a flash of genius, and should be extended to the body having charge of the morals of the people of Canada and perhaps the old time motto "Come

This would be a difficult matter to enforce, but as long as the principle of universal reform is applied, there is no reason why it should not be carried to its logical conclusion. Let us have universal reform as soon as possible, and let it be applied to the sexes impartially.

Red Willow

A Big Week At The Stettler Theatre

Monday Tuesday and Wednesday, December 3rd, 4th and 5th—the picture you have been reading about and at last are going to see "DAWN". that British production which startled the world and threatened to upset peace, but was un-copyrighted. In fact it is one of the great pictures of the year.

"DAWN" tells the story of Nurse Cavell, who, from the beginning of the war uncovered allied soldier and refugees in Brussels, and established an organization which enabled them to cross the frontier into Holland. Edith Cavell was a wonderful woman. To the soldiers who have fought battles and say there was no greater hero in the Great War than that English Nurse Edith Cavell. She paid the supreme sacrifice she gave her life, what more can do more?

To the Daughters of the Empire and returned soldiers: I call particular attention. Every paper has lauded this production.

Manager Post: "The subject and man's masterly presentation of it are out of the Great War I have yet seen on the screen. As a work of art, the film is full of beauty."

Daily Sketch "Without question the film is a piece of rare charm.

This picture has not tried to show the Germans on the wrong light. It was a World War and both sides thought they were right. Who knows who will say it." It is a picture for every nationality to see. The only new picture that is uncovered, that means it as a picture for children and adults alike. George Bernard Shaw says "I hope it will take it lessons to the end of the earth."

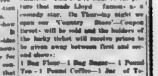
As usual our fanny night will be Thursday. The first show will start at 7:30 p. m. and the second show at 9:30 p. m. Everyone will have a chance to see this great production.

Admission, 50 cents and 25 cents.
Two-day night Coupon ticket $1.00

THURSDAY, FRIDAY and SATURDAY—Harold Lloyd in "GRAND MA'S BOY" will be the feature presentation. This is a re-issue of the picture that made Lloyd famous as a comedy star. On Thursday night we open our "Country Store"—Cooperburnett will be sold and the holders of the lucky ticket will receive prizes to be given away between first and second shows:

1 Bag Flour—1 Bag Sugar— 1 Pound Tea—1 Pound Coffee—1 Jar of Tobacco

Admission as usual, 50 cents and 25 cents.



ELIMINATE "LUCK" IN YOUR BAKING

You have the satisfaction of knowing—once you have tried a recipe—that you can stake your reputation on it.

This assurance you can now get. Half your baking "luck" depends upon how your flour acts in the oven.

Spillers "BAKE-RITE" Flour

Here is a flour that takes the guess work out of all your baking. It is tested and gives perfect results.

"BAKE-RITE" FLOUR will always act the same way in your oven. One flour for all baking—bread, cakes, buns and pies.

Hockey News

The hockey boys have been practising faithfully of late to get in the best possible shape for the opening game of the league with Penolia on Tuesday, December 11th at Stettler arena.

The brand of hockey that the boys served up last winter was so good that the Executive decided to carry on the team this year in the Big Four League consisting of Red Deer, Penolia, Lacombe and Stettler. This will mean home and home games every week, but will also mean considerable expense for our boys for travelling. The whole hearted support of the fans will be necessary in order it is successful. The boys are out to make every game a fight to the finish, and win or lose, nobody will be disappointed with the record of hockey this winter.

With plenty of material to choose from, including three good keepers, we expect to ice a team that will play tonight (Thursday) at 8 p.m. when the team to meet Penolia on Tuesday night will be picked. This is a good opportunity for the fans to look the team over and get a line on prospects for the coming season.

FENN NEWS

We are expecting a good crowd at the Community Hall on Friday night to hold Friday night at Amger School-house. Everything is shaping up the first part of the program will be especially for their benefit. Supper will be served at the conclusion of the program.

The local U.F.A. and U.F.W.A. meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Leslie Legg on Wednesday the 12th, when election of officers will be the chief business of the meeting.

Mr. Bill Wren, Mr. Ralph Lestrup and another friend leave for Bashaw on Friday, December 14th.

The Be Good and Sociable families are giving a dance at Wooded Hill-school, Friday, December 14th. The Lake Bros. Orchestra will provide the music. No charge is being made. All their friends are welcome.

Much applause was given to the Stettler Boys' Band composed of a large number of farmers present, speaks well for the success of the organization.

SPEAKING OF THE EVENING

President McConnell called upon Mayor Osborne, of Calgary, for a few remarks. Mr. Osborne, who is familiarly known as Fred, tendered the greetings of the City of Calgary and congratulated the Province on having such splendid, and spoke of the support given the Stettler District in making as one of the banner towns of Alberta. He advocated the closest co-operation among the provincial boards of trade and invited members of Stettler Board to visit Calgary at any time, and attend the sessions of the Board of Trade in the city.

Dr. Wallace Outlines future of Alberta

Dr Wallace President of the University of Alberta, was the chief speaker of the evening and he made a most pleasing impression on the audience The Doctor is one of the foremost scientists of the Dominion, and he is also a most genial personality. He is of slight build, and is noted for his quiet, unassuming manner, which can grasp the essentials of a subject in about half the time it takes the ordinary man. He has made a study of the farming and mineral areas of northern Alberta, particularly of Western Canada, and he believes that the future of Canada lies in the north.

Dr Wallace spoke on Education and on the development of the North. He said much stress on the elusive element of education that comes through personality rather than through books; the training of the observation; the methods of the laboratory, where a student is made to find out things for himself, rather than memorizing them from the text books He referred to the newer methods of allowing a child to study the things he was interested in, and to follow a path that was most natural to him. The best teachers inspire by their personalities more than by their words. Knowledge of a subject may be imparted in a few months, but inspiration is a life time.

Watering Cattle

It is interesting to see how much and how often cattle will drink when they have access to good water at all times. It may be surprising to some to know that under such circumstances, cattle will drink, on an average, every hour during the day even in cold weather, but they will not drink a great deal at a time.

For the first four years that cattle were fed at the Southern Experimental Station, the water system was for a time perfect. Mr. Owen there would feed only once each day. They crowded around the trough and drank all they could hold and then, especially on cold days, they stood with humped backs and shivered for a considerable time and never looked comfortable. For the past two years cattle have been provided in a large trough and kept from freezing by means of a coal heater and it is found that nearly all the cattle come to the trough for a feeding, one or another is going to the trough and drinking a few mouthfuls and returning to chew the cud, and never to an uncomfortable state with backed and shivering.

There are no records to show the difference in gains under the two methods, but the difference in appearance would seem to indicate that the cost of the heat would be more than the feed to operate it, would be justified many times over.

W. A. BUNKO,
Dominion Experimental Station,
Brothers, Saskatchewan.

THERE'S A REASON

Health is a grand advantage, but why is it that those in the cheaper flats always seem to be having the most fun?

BOTHA NEWS

This district experienced its first touch of winter on Saturday morning. A light snow fell during the early part of the day and it began turning colder Saturday and the thermometer registered 20 below zero on Sunday morning. The snow was so light that it had no effect whatever on the roads.

The Inspectors for this Inspectorate visited our school on Friday. Mr. Thibaudeau inspected in the morning and Mr Potter inspected in the afternoon.

The dance on Thursday night drew such a crowd that it was decided to call off. The mid-week dances are shrinking during the summer but after school opens, Friday evenings seem to be the best time, for it is impossible for the teacher and family to attend more than two dances of the night and do good work in school next day. This takes so many young ladies away that there is a considerable shortage of girls. Consequently when everyone remains at home, for no it takes more than one boarder to make a success. It is more than a half dozen to make a successful dance.

Frank Whiteside has been busy threshing the rich, it takes a tremendous amount of feed to do all that in first class and it is a slow process. The Whiteside's are now trying to get finish up last minute jobs and they are hoping to have the rich open by holiday time.

Mrs. John Arm-trong has been quite sick for the past two weeks and Mr. Stither is staying with her present during Mr. Stither's absence in the East. Mrs. Armstrong's many friends are hoping that she will soon take a turn for the better.

Bob Noble and Joe Meehan left on Monday morning for Vancouver, B.C. where they expect to spend the winter. They are planning on eating Christmas dinner with Mr and Mrs. Meehan.

The annual Bunnery for the benefit of the Cemetery, was held, under the auspices of the Women's Institute on Friday evening. An exceptionally large crowd turned out and the many beautiful and useful articles were soon disposed of. The booths were all well filled with merchandise and the fish pond and candy booths were both sold out before the demand was satisfied. After the buying rush was over a fine program was put on. This program was arranged by Miss Elsa Meehan, and she was ably assisted by the teachers. Recitations, drills and vocal and instrumental solos made up the first half of the program. The last part was a one-act play entitled "A Mother's Influence." The parts were all well acted and the audience thoroughly enjoyed it. We have considerable talent among our young people and it was well directed and brought out. We have also wondered where our teachers get their drills, some are lovely with costumes and colored lights while some have a wonderful swing with the music and some are simply cute, but taken all in all, we think the drills are enjoyed so much or more than any other one thing.

The orchestra furnished the music for the evening in their usual pleasing manner.

At the close of the program Mr. Thomas very kindly acted as auctioneer and auctioned off the remaining articles. The sum of $106.50 was realized from the Bunnery and a nice cake, Coleman's Valued Supplies sent it for $5.00 which was donated by Miss Ina Hutchinson and Miss Merula Graves, who have supplied with a number of which will surely delight the heart of some little girl.

The Institute ladies wish to express their thanks for all generous donations and their hearty appreciation of the splendid response to every call they have made for money to keep the work going at the Cemetery.

Rev Mr Lyth of the Bible Society will speak next Sunday morning at Inglewood. A good attendance is desired. Service at 11 o'clock.

Mr Friend has been showing the new picture machine to all those who are interested enough to go and look it in a fine looking article, and while we have not seen it in use, we are sure it is such excellent, we can easily understand why it is superior to the old one. Most of us know that the Inspector had condemned old machine for two years but what that meant. Personally, we thought it might blow up. However, that was not the case it do-espit film and other houses throughout the province were kicking. New operators had been put on the old one and came such as had brought the debt down to $900.00 but the new machine did not prove satisfactory and the old one was again put on with it. The officers took the matter up with the Government and the matter, feeling that if the shareholders got good and used machine they had successfully done a meeting. However, on overhauling the old one have been found so far and most of the shareholders are content to let it go at that. Inglewood Advance.

Donalda News

Mrs. Fay Murphy of the Provost farm staff visited at her home on Sunday.

The Edberg Domestic Society present their play "The Mystery of the Third Letter" in the Donalda Hall on Friday December 7th.

A meeting was called on Monday, December 3rd to the percentage for the purpose of organizing a young people' Society.

Carl Bolton, elected president and William Hawkeworth as Vice President.

It will cause to other towns, that young men and young women will find in their own districts a means of employment to keep advantage of the abilities which they individually possess, to an extent that has not been possible in the past.

Apart altogether from the benefit to rural development is important, as it will also assist the Western Canada in its industrial development.

Board of Trade Banquet, Successful

part must begin with a study of those things nearest to us in our own locality.

Three remarks of Dr. Wallace, deserve the embrace that he is a practical man-of-affairs and that he believes that the study of agriculture and all our natural resources is the best basis of education, and one in which all can start life. He made a plea for all our institutions of higher learning to extend every effort to turn out men prepared to handle the changing conditions that are facing agriculture today, such as new types of animals, the study of the soil, and the filling up of the vacant lands of the West, and the increase of our farm population. "Even in parts of Canada," he said, "where agriculture is dominant, and where the development of the wealth of the soil will always be the first concern of the people, there there is more growing desire that the other primary industries should be studied and developed, and that we're one-industry towns as we fall by learn on the one hand, that are not found should be avoided."

Opportunity for Ability

Reverend Development will suppose would ultimately in a more varied opportunity, in the Canadian West. Of the various divisions with which we are concerned.

In still newer in other towns, that young men and young women will find in their own districts a means of employment to keep advantage of the abilities which they individually possess, to an extent that has not been possible in the past.

Apart altogether from the benefit to rural development is important, as it will also assist the Western Canada in its industrial development.

Agricultural Development

It is hoped that no one who has not had the opportunity to study the situation at first hand, to choose the subject for discussion at this dinner.

It could only be said that very recently there has been a growing sense of the importance of constructive work in the province in that territory in which all be assistance fitted to employ one man to do their share.

Agriculture is only a part of Canada domestic land trades, a gulp of the greatest facts, great problems, undoubted courage.

It is not always easy, though it is necessary to mark work in an industry, to see the optimism of the one with the individual development of the area of affairs.

A Call to Youth

The need has in it a love that only service cannot—and appeal to practice, or to the young men—for it is a laying of the foundations for the future of our country.

There is needed at every stage. In the Canadian Northwest many be called into a beautiful love-ambition of the people, and an opportunity for scientific and technical abilities to the great variety of problems connected with our natural resources that are awaiting for solution.

Of special importance to the work in the north has not been looking, nor will it be lacking in the future, in the province of Alberta.

Reverend development of the north will bring into Alberta new types of mind, highly trained and technically skilled men who will make a new and large contribution to Alberta's general development, and, both materially and in training and in industry, by the effort every country than in the country to form of our own Canadian boys and the north."

Dr. Wallace's speech was received with much applause by the audience.

During the evening, Bro. J. C. Goddard led the audience in singing community songs, with Miss Hallow acting as accompanist.

The Imperial Bank as at twelve o'clock, after a presentation had been made to the waitresses for their services during the evening.

Alberta And South Africa

On mentioning the fact that I have recently returned from South Africa, the usual reply is "What a wet country that must be" and the two countries." Naturally, there is a difference, but it is not by any means "much."

The South Africans relish and the Canadians praise a warm welcome in the same vast open ocean. The province, of warring grass, likewise the veldt. The distinctive thing in South is the bright or low lying square shaped hills.

The smaller townships are like those of Alberta boulevards. The same homely looking buildings, although corrugated iron is the principal source of construction out there.

The greatest difference is the climate. South Africa known as many resort in some mountainous districts, where it may be in covetous during the whole of summer.

The outstanding picture Canada a visitor to South Africa at the bustling boat, but in Africa, I have to wait for the train. I did during the last fall. Yes. East is East and West is west, but in many ways they are not as widely different.

We realize that the cattle season is now over and that the hog season is just starting. During these five months the Pool has handled all the cattle that Producers and Banks with the exception of 4 cows, and about 60 pigs out of all hogs shipped from these points. On November 20th, we handled 4 carloads of hogs.

In shipping hogs through the Pool system we should consider some of the advantages that are being obtained at present.

There is no misdelivered grades, or cases where the feeder has to take more than he has fed. Buyer Buys Hogs Right by the Scale Ticket and is marked at the shipping point and he will get a check for it. Each week a few cattle and hogs are taken advantage of, and the cattle, calves, or pigs are driven on to Calgary or Edmonton market at 14 cents per hundred, leaving the full 14 cents per hundred, leaving the full 14 cents per hundred, leaving the full

Meeting of Proposed Stettler Aero Club

There was a meeting held in the Town Hall, Stettler on Tuesday, December 4th at 8 p.m.

Mr. W W. Sharpe, in the Chair.

Mr. Sharpe called for the minutes of the last meeting which was on November 23rd in the Town Hall

Moved by Mr. Parker, seconded by Mr. Swann, that the minutes as read be adopted. Carried

Mr. Sharpe then introduced Mr. Fenn Johnson of Calgary, employed by Aero-Service Ltd. and Fair Co., who came up here for the purpose of completing the organization of the Club and to give a details regarding the cost of tuition in ground instruction and flying.

He also mentioned the standing of this new industry in the United States and Canada, and showed comparisons.

Mr. Johnson told us of the plans given to him by his employers, and that his company planned on having two planes here for the prospective students to learn to fly with. He considered he received his pilot's license from Johnson's company after having a machine here personally for one of students, at a reasonable charge for flying same.

He then went on to tell of his plans to interest the ground crew and they told us of opportunities there are if he had an Air Engineer's certificate.

He said the cost of tuition in flying would be arranged so that it would not exceed the down payment of a hundred at one time, but could be met later in instalments. He said the present school course would cost in the neighborhood of $75.00.

Mr. Johnson concluded his address, requesting all present to look into the matter and to let him know at the end of April.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded Mr. Johnson.

Mr. Sharpe asked Mr. Johnson any questions as to the manner of paying for the two courses and Mr. Johnson very kindly explained them.

Mr. Johnson made it clear that a $10 deposit was to be paid before starting the Ground Course and the balance to be spread over a period of 4 months, $10 to be paid and 1 note kept paid in advance on actual flying time when the flying instruction continues.

Mr. Johnson suggested that the Club take immediate action as regards organizing and the signing of the proposed membership.

Mr. Sharpe, having to leave the meeting at 9:30, suggested that Count present appoint a Chairman in his place, expressing regret at his not being able to remain.

Moved by Mr. Swann, seconded by Mr. Smith, that Mr. Palmer be the Chairman. Carried.

Mr. Palmer took the Chair and requested that the members pay $1 a week to the Club to go towards paying for tuition, and also suggested that if through the medium of dances and socials enough money be raised to be pooled and distributed among members to go towards defraying the expense of tuition.

Moved by Hal Brown, seconded by Mr. Powell that Club membership fee be $1.00 per year. Carried.

Mr. Powell moved that a meeting be called on Wednesday, December 5th, at 8:00 p. m. in the Town Hall, for the purpose of appointing a committee to look after the getting of associate members and set a date for the deposit of $25 on the ground course to be in the bank.

FENN NEWS

We regret very much to report that Mr Floyd Cutshaw, who for many years ran the store at Fenn and was well known in the Stettler and Fenn and Big Valley districts, passed away at his home in Denver, Colorado, on Saturday, December 8th. We are informed that Mr. Cutshaw passed away after a brief illness reported to be pneumonia. He has a host of friends who will regret to learn of his passing away. Mrs. Cutshaw and daughter as well as other relatives reside in Canada, and the United States.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Harrison have left for a two month visit to the Eastern Canada.

The recent Ladies Institute which was held in Range Schoolhouse was a great success. A large crowd gathered to hear the interesting talk given by Mr. Wm. Smith of Big Valley, who conducted the entertainment, and a hearty vote of thanks was passed at the conclusion to Mr. White-Smith for his extremely interesting and witty address. The first series of addresses under the heading "The Victorian Era," the second "Women of the World," both of them interesting and instructive programs issued by the Department of Extension, University of Alberta. It is recommended that the Ranger Local get an outdoor rink entertainment in the near future. During the evening an orchestral selection was provided by the local orchestra, and songs by Mr. Rackham and Mr. Stanley Perkins, all of which were much enjoyed. The Pooley Twins also entertained with a duet. Supper was served by the ladies at the conclusion of the performances.

The De Graff and Rosaire families are giving a dance at Wooded Hills school on Friday evening, December 14th to which all their friends are invited. There will be no charge. The Lone Star Orchestra will provide the music.

There will be a church meeting in the near future, date to be set later. All members are asked to be present.

The Ladies' Aid of the U.F.A. at Mrs. Leslie Legg's on Wednesday, December 12th. Election of officers for the following year will be the chief business of the meeting.

There is a great deal of discussion taking place regarding the erection of a new school in or near Fenn. There are quite a number of children of school age in this district, the subject is not worth keeping, but is time it was thrown away. Don't forget to bring your husbands.

Red Willow

Mr. Lee Iseo was the lucky winner of the Victor Orthophonic that was given away by D.B Scott &Co.

We are glad to report that after two weeks of illness Mrs. Parry can sit up and we hope it's recovery will be soon.

Walter Johnson had a bad fall from a new horse he's work which has confined him to bed, but at present writing is up-to-date and is efficient in every way and should fill a long vacated void in the community.

Mr. J.F. Iseo has reported his farm sold and he and his wife are moving into town.

A seaside barber has opened a shop in the Whistler Hotel and we hope the patronage will be so good he will continue to operate.

Mr. and Mrs. R.G Alexander and family have left for the Old Country to spend Christmas and celebrate the 30th wedding anniversary of Mr Alexander's parents.

Mr and Mrs Webster and family are leaving for the Old Country the last of the month and we wish them a pleasant trip.

Mr. and Mrs. N Walker are enjoying their new radio these evenings with the Continent to choose their programs from.

Skating and skating parties are the order of the day Why can't we become enthusiastic enough to organize a hockey team and have a rink in Red Willow.

We are glad to see Sandy around again with his usual happy smile, and he says he feels much better after his recent illness.

A WONDERFUL TRIBUTE

Minister: I wish to announce that on Wednesday evening the Ladies' Aid will have a rummage sale. This is to make room for all the bales of the congregation to put rid of anything that is not worth keeping, but is too good to be thrown away. Don't forget to bring your husbands.

DON'T DELAY—TIME IS SHORT

Stettler Wins First League Game From Ponoka 5-2

The first game in the Big Four Hockey League committee meeting was played in the Stettler rink on Friday night between local aspirants. Lacking training and resulted in a victory for Stettler by the score of 5 to 2. Despite the fact that it was their initial effort the players showed Stettler fans some real hockey and the game was fast and clean throughout. The first two periods found the opponents even. Both teams lacked combination but Stettler showed any that was going and as a result had the edge on when it was completed. The Ponoka team were handicapped by the first part, and their goal keeper had some sort of infantile paralysis that affected the team, and let in two easy goals from short range efforts.

The shooting of the local team was much more steady. When the Ponoka goal got puck it generally landed at or near the goal, while their opponents were generally wide.

In the first period the locals got a fast start. The forward combination of Walter Duckworth, Gordon Duckworth and Bert Wilson fed a lot of good individual work and it was not long before Gordon Duckworth from a few feet out on a pass from Jack Dunlop and Dr Wright on the defence were rewarded for their efforts with a very fine score.

In the second period, the outcome was the same, only a little more so. Stanley Wilson, on the left, got two goals this period one on an assist from Walter Duckworth. Jack Dunlop again showed his class by carding his second goal. Ponoka could not score, owing to the good work of the Stettler defence. They had three good chances, but the goal keeper was equal to the task.

In the third period Ponoka showed they could play hockey. They worked hard, but they knew they were beaten. Both Stevers and Lutz got past the defence and the local goal tender had much chance to stop their shots Stettler scored two on their nearest and plugged more of a defence game Dr Wright broke up many rushes, and the substitutes, Jimmy Wilson, Monk and Wormsen proved their metal in the scrimmage. The play the last period was fairly even, but Ponoka either had to protect a shut-out

Stettler appears to have a good line-up this year They seek the services of Lorimer Patrick, but are fortunate in having Gordon Duckworth back on the forward line. Although they could act as substitute, and supply the puck to the scoring ends. More practices will supply the combination necessary which they were noted last year Dr Wright has recovered from his attacks and he is straight forward rushes and strength to the defence, while Jack Dunlop needs only a little more practice to be a stick handling to make a very valuable defence man. Walter Duckworth did not serve his usual supply of goals on Tuesday to plant these this time, but he is the most dangerous forward the locals have Stanley Wilson and his brother Jimmy are fast Wasters, and the former seems to have a better eye on the goal this season of as his two goals witnessed.

Concentrate In The Nation For Dairy Cows

The individual qualifications of the herd are important public to consider when selecting animals for dairy cows. The two line of expression each contributes to a measurement. The first is a 4-H-4 measurement; on the other hand, contain cows to the herd, often without the sensory cows and to the advantages of concentrate, especially when these cows are fed largely on the farm. High production cannot be obtained without the use of considerable concentration, but profit is not incompatible with such an expense and it is a mistake to think that high records are always achieved with a large grain ration.

By consulting the report of the Experimental Station for the year 1927, it is seen that the heavy milking cowsed more expense, but showed a greater profit. For the benefit of the reader the following table has been prepared from the above-mentioned report.

AVERAGE PRODUCTION, INCOME FEED COST AND PROFIT PER COW

Lot 1—No. 6, cows; 5 average with production, 12,552 pounds, income per cow, $337.56; feed cost per cow, $160.37; profit over feed per cow, $177.19

Lot 2—No. 6, cows; 6 average with production, 8,784 pounds; income per cow, $237.17; feed cost per cow, $96.79; profit over feed per cow, $87.49

Lot 3—No. 6, cows; 6 average with production, 6,686 pounds; income per cow, $180.52; feed cost per cow, $66.79; profit over feed per cow, $64.39

The column "Feed cost per cow" supplies the value of the feed used. Butter was valued at 30 cents per pound, and skim milk at 25 cents per hundred-weight. The value of the calf was not included in the table. The profit over feed of the table will show that the profit over feed of the No. 1 cows was more than double the profit from the last one; in other words, the cows producing over 12,000 pounds gave two thirds more of expensive quality, and the use of concentrates. It never paychecks the first instance to them on the second. The "feed cost per cow" column shows that the cost of concentrates with the production These cows received 3,000 pounds of grain. It is not to expect that the cow will manufacture milk from nothing? After all it matters little how much feed is used, was greater if the cow returned more profit.

In any case, the nineteen cows whose average production is recorded in the table are not according to their individual qualifications, and each one pledged a profit. It is not enough to say that the feeding practices of the first lot produced a profit, and the nineteen cows might have caused a deficit instead of a profit. The feeding of the breeder must take into the qualifications of his cows and then feed them accordingly.

Observation From Laying Contest

The Egg Laying Contest year just ended was, in many respects, not satisfactory as has been anticipated Lack of cleanliness and frequent rains seemed to retard the production of the spring and early summer materially speaking, the contest was one of the driest years and wet years and one some to have a might suspect.

Seven low-breed entered and completed the year's work in a creditable manner. Only one pen of pure-bred Leghorns failed to complete the year's work and the pen was thrown out of the contest. The U F A reports "Three Lists by way A announcement of "moving the plant next week.

One of these is that the C N R is giving this northern Alberta as part of the U F P.

The economy the railway and telephone show very satisfactory results in the 50-year years' operations, and that there will be a surplus in the Telephone Department.

The third is that Alberta's Surplus for the last fiscal year was (fifteen months) total) $670,795.13

The U F A states that "those announcements give material evidence of the economy achieved by the Government in their efforts to ensure efficiency in administration."

Elsewhere in its analysis of Provincial finances, the U F A states that the largest profit realized $302,866.56 in years of retrenchment. They point out that the largest profit were at $1-2 $302,866.56 in a year of 1 year's profit.

How of the larger profits had been the same as large as the deficit of 1926, would have been turned into a deficit of $12,000 ??

Perhaps the strongest thing of the people had to make is with the Government in economy and efficiency.

Look at it still another way $1,000,000,000 could pay the value of every farm (including land, buildings, implement, machinery and live stock) in the United States, then give each farmer $24,000 "relief" and still have enough to buy every bushel of wheat, wheat and oat raised in the United States in the last two years.

Look at it this way too. That annual wealth and for all the public schools in the United States, under each with $30,000, give every teacher $25,000 as a next-egg, provide a cash gift for every pupil, the interest on which at 4 per cent, would double their present salaries and pay them four in the year. Then, the interest on which would keep every pupil a little present of $1,000.

Look at it from this viewpoint: It represents a definite economic loss of $500 to every man, woman and child in the United States. Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy.

Was it worth while

The "years" have it.—The Christian Science Monitor.

The above article by the Christian Science Monitor is very good of its kind, but the question arises why the writer omits the Canadian Pacific Railway to interpret everything in terms of money Perhaps that's the only rule by which some people measure by, but the Monitor is usually the exception. Does not the fact that two million Boys were killed, mean nothing to estimating the tragedy of the Great War ?

Mr. Bruce Hiven, the editor of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the standing writers of the United States Monitor, has been in this district recent with Mr. Henry Meadows, the editor of the Manitoba Farmers' Journal. While these men are going in the same magazine, the circulation is bound to increase.

Mr Hiven has a drastic article in a recent issue of the Forum on the Lansdown Clubs, and he mentions particularly each luncheon clubs as Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions, and, in fact, all luncheon clubs which are so prevalent in the United States and Canada.

He says that they are industrials and boosterism, that they are silly and futile; that in reality many members do not like these Clubs, but are forced into them by their business associates.

He says that they tend to suppress independent thinking and to promote mass-mindedness, that they are too organized to be effective instruments of civic progress.

Mr. Hiven advocates no half measures, but simply asks that they be abolished. He is arranged for the two of a friend's plans. One might be called Gamble's "Dying." A friend pacing the floor

The other Mr. Hiven says, is more humane. He suggests that the members of each luncheon club be allowed to die a natural death. Then, when the last member of a club has died, the club will automatically cease to exist.

He says that the choice is not between Rotary and perfection, but between Rotary and no luncheon clubs at all. Business organizations, and he says that Mr. Hiven cannot be abolished because it does not measure up to perfection. Mr. Hiven and Mr. Rowspell to address Stettler Rotary !

Lethbridge U F A Local has passed a resolution for the general public to request that the Wheat Pool desist from receipts for each Pool member of the success of the pooling for the U F A

The Toronto Observer says:—"The Department of Justice might be well ashamed of the game by offering a reward of so much a head for known bootleggers, rum-runners and hi-jackers on the same principle as the bounty on timber wolves and other vermin."

The Observer does not state whether the punishment would be dealt out because the bootleggers are selling whiskey or because they are selling it illegally.

If the former, is not the Government also selling whiskey? If the latter, what difference is there between the smuggling of the bootlegger and the smuggling of rum into Canada by the Government? Is not the latter a case of "Set a thief to catch a thief"?

Municipal taxes have become so high in some towns and keeps the town and country running There is little fresh legislation because committees are not overseers or theorists and know that their business has to bear the best of every-day life Go through the legislation that a provincial public event has enacted in a period of Five years and you will find that much of it is unworkable or of the Fresh variety Go through the work done by the average council, town or county, and you will find that it is nothing if not practical, and they don't talk about it so much

"Why this unseemly effort to obtain human family?" asks the Ottawa Times. "They can be obtained right at Ottawa," yes, and at Edmonton.

Wet Hoover thinks that America has come nearer to the abolition of poverty, fear and want, than human history has ever known before. This is a true picture of the United States and Canada Every citizen has his car and no one knows if he wants it. Every man of small means can have his radio or his gramophone, by which he can hear the best concerts at home. Electricity will soon bring light and power to every home The newspaper is putting distance to an end and the family plane is an established fact of the not far distant future As for material or mechanical possessions are concerned, the people of America have discovered a new way to Whether that shelves either stifled th' human soul will be any better satisfied, remains to be seen. The truth of it is, a measure of things, but lots of those are not paid for.

The remains of a lost civilization are being sought for at present in Soviet territory. Well, they shouldn't have far to go. Russia has been lost to the world ever since the era of Revival. The only difference is that now the streets of Moscow and other large cities without beauty or civic beholders. Look at it this way There have not been half that many seconds—no, not by 10,000,000,000 since the dawn of the Christian era

Look at it another way: Convert this amount into silver dollars and it would take 280,000 five-ton trucks, loaded to capacity to transport them; stack them and you have 227,000 miles of a mile high, spaced out they would span a solid silver highway 105 feet wide from New York to San Francisco.

Are Boss The American Foreign Trade t ranked as—at $14,000,000,000 as the loss to world commerce occasioned by war, since 1914.

Look at it this way There have not been half that many seconds—no, not by 10,000,000,000 since the dawn of the Christian era

Look at it another way: Convert this amount into silver dollars and it would take 280,000 five-ton trucks, loaded to capacity to transport them; stack them and you have 227,000 miles of a mile high; spaced out they would span a solid silver highway 105 feet wide from New York to San Francisco.

Look at it still another way $14,000,000,000 would pay the value of every farm (including land, buildings, implement, machinery and live stock) in the United States, then give each farmer $24,000 "relief" and still have enough to buy every bushel of wheat, wheat and oat raised in the United States in the last two years.

Look at it this way too. That annual wealth and for all the public schools in the United States, under each with $30,000, give every teacher $25,000 as a next-egg, provide a cash gift for every pupil, the interest on which at 4 per cent, would double their present salaries and pay them four in the year. Then, the interest on which would keep every pupil a little present of $1,000.

Look at it from this viewpoint: It represents a definite economic loss of $500 to every man, woman and child in the United States, Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy.

The "years" have it.—The Christian Science Monitor.

The above article by the Christian Science Monitor is very good of its kind, but the question arises why the writer omits the Canadian Pacific Railway to interpret everything in terms of money Perhaps that's the only rule by which some people measure by, but the Monitor is usually the exception. Does not the fact that two million Boys were killed, mean nothing to estimating the tragedy of the Great War ?

Mr. Bruce Hiven, the editor of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the standing writers of the United States Monitor, has been in this district recent with Mr. Henry Meadows, the editor of the Manitoba Farmers' Journal. While these men are going in the same magazine, the circulation is bound to increase.

Mr Hiven has a drastic article in a recent issue of the Forum on the Lansdown Clubs, and he mentions particularly each luncheon clubs as Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions, and, in fact, all luncheon clubs which are so prevalent in the United States and Canada.

He says that they are industrials and boosterism, that they are silly and futile; that in reality many members do not like these Clubs, but are forced into them by their business associates.

He says that they tend to suppress independent thinking and to promote mass-mindedness, that they are too organized to be effective instruments of civic progress.

Mr. Hiven advocates no half measures, but simply asks that they be abolished. He is arranged for the two of a friend's plans. One might be called Gamble's "Dying." A friend pacing the floor

The other Mr. Hiven says, is more humane. He suggests that the members of each luncheon club be allowed to die a natural death. Then, when the last member of a club has died, the club will automatically cease to exist.

He says that the choice is not between Rotary and perfection, but between Rotary and no luncheon clubs at all. Business organizations, and he says that Mr. Hiven cannot be abolished because it does not measure up to perfection. Mr. Hiven and Mr. Rowspell to address Stettler Rotary !

The Toronto Observer says:—"The Department of Justice might be well ashamed of the game by offering a reward of so much a head for known bootleggers, rum-runners and hi-jackers on the same principle as the bounty on timber wolves and other vermin."

The Observer does not state whether the punishment would be dealt out because the bootleggers are selling whiskey or because they are selling it illegally.

If the former, is not the Government also selling whiskey? If the latter, what difference is there between the smuggling of the bootlegger and the smuggling of rum into Canada by the Government? Is not the latter a case of "Set a thief to catch a thief"?

Municipal taxes have become so high in some towns and keeps the town and country running There is little fresh legislation because committees are not overseers or theorists and know that their business has to bear the best of every-day life Go through the legislation that a provincial public event has enacted in a period of Five years and you will find that much of it is unworkable or of the Fresh variety Go through the work done by the average council, town or county, and you will find that it is nothing if not practical, and they don't talk about it so much

"Why this unseemly effort to obtain human family?" asks the Ottawa Times. "They can be obtained right at Ottawa," yes, and at Edmonton.

Wet Hoover thinks that America has come nearer to the abolition of poverty, fear and want, than human history has ever known before. This is a true picture of the United States and Canada Every citizen has his car and no one knows if he wants it. Every man of small means can have his radio or his gramophone, by which he can hear the best concerts at home. Electricity will soon bring light and power to every home The newspaper is putting distance to an end and the family plane is an established fact of the not far distant future As for material or mechanical possessions are concerned, the people of America have discovered a new way to Whether that shelves either stifled th' human soul will be any better satisfied, remains to be seen. The truth of it is, a measure of things, but lots of those are not paid for.

The remains of a lost civilization are being sought for at present in Soviet territory. Well, they shouldn't have far to go. Russia has been lost to the world ever since the era of Revival. The only difference is that now the streets of Moscow and other large cities without beauty or civic beholders. With all respect to those of that kind in the hands of Russia and e-conserve, no one can deny that Russia is a fine thing The voice of the people is not now-entity the voice of God. It is just as often the voice of Satan.

Saskatchewan — "Percy" Champ Benched by Local Lawyer

"The holding of sales" points through Leduc, and the discovery that everyone will have to be laid under a permanent act instead of a law by-by, remains no very loosely at the famous Saskatchewan pottery case of my early legal days," a well known Edmonton lawyer recently remarked to Saskatchewan, said on Thursday.

It happened fifteen or twenty years ago, the lawyer declared. The farmers were loads acquired on a lake had a channel, and out of revenge, one farmer stole the other's revenue. After it full of cement and sank it in the lake.

The offending farmer was later arrested and brought before the local justice of the peace.

The justice searched every page of the criminal code, but couldn't find anything to fit the offence.

At length, under the heading of "Penny on the high road" he discovered some that seemed to have some bearing.

So this is the charge he laid:— "I accuse Paul in the criminal code page 1,000 that he did unlawfully and maliciously injure the property of the King. The accused is therefore charged that he did by force take the plaintiff's ship (or boat) from him and that he did wilfully sustain and destroy the aforesaid ship (or boat) upon His Majesty's high seas (or lake)."

The evidence was heard and the J P found the accused was guilty.

"Pleader," he said, addressing the convicting prisoner, "I have no option under the code but to impose the only penalty provided for piracy on the high seas," and thereupon proceeded to sentence the offender to be hanged by the neck.

But in there no other penalty?" the terrified lawyer asked.

Under the circumstances, the J P told him, I am sorry, but that's exactly what I have to do. I have no option."

The accused in Edmonton lawyer, who had been in the habit of practising on land, was taken away, thoughtfully, to the cells under the new Penny Police Station.

MOST POWERFUL LOCOMOTIVE IN WORLD

The photographs show two views of the new 3,200 H.P. oil-electric locomotive designed by motive power engineers of the Canadian National Railways and now placed in service. The locomotive weighs 410,000 pounds and is developed to operate fast passenger and freight service when wanted and power for required. Simplicity of operation and economy of maintenance are the main watchwords of the units which mark a new era in motive power for the history of transportation that operates between 9:40 p.m. and 6 a.m. the service of the Great Northern Railway. The locomotive is capable of hauling 1,000 tons of freight at 60 miles per hour, and will be operated by the oil engine driving a generator which will furnish the power to the motors geared to the driving axles. In the cab two views of the locomotive engineer, C. E. Brooks, Chief of Motive Power of the Canadian National Railways, who is largely responsible for this new locomotive.

THE SEALERS

Consider for a moment the rich fairy "merchant" or prominent prominence, the officer carefully groomed, on at the side of them, and in the background, the numbers who bear the brand of battle.

Now then, consider the on-coming "merchant" in the forefront the merchant is dressed in rags, and behind the hero-gods, and to the rear the hero-gods, you catch the contrast? Why? Because in their monotoning strength, an upper mood is created, though its meaning is variable, more frequently the threat under is on one, while upon a fourth nodes occasionally perhaps.

Here, a word about their roots. You moved from one of those under tents.

What About Your Deferred Payments?

(By Erwin Greer)

(Pre-Inlet Greer College of Electrical and Automotive Trades, Chicago, Ill.)

An executive of the Studebaker corporation urges me to tell car purchasers, so to make special inquiry into the amounts they are being charged for carrying their deferred payments.

And it is a timely advice.

Charges exacted by car finance companies may not be twice so much as those asked by banker company, amounting to $60 to $111 more. A cheaper automobile may actually cost more soon up the end than a higher priced one, when higher finance rates are charged as deferred payments.

Here's an example, every car buyer ought to remember when he negotiates the price of a new car. Take a car selling for $1,200 with a third down payment and the rest to be paid in twelve months. The finance company will charge $127.12. Selling price of the car is $1,200 plus $127.12 or $1,327.12. The purchaser pays $400 down payment and $927.12 to be paid in twelve months. The finance company will charge $127.12 for handling the deferred payments.

Now take a car selling for $1,200 with a cash payment of $400 and $800 to be paid in twelve months. The finance company will charge $127.12 for handling the deferred payments. The selling price of the car is $1,200 plus $127.12 or $1,327.12. The purchaser pays $400 down payment and $927.12 to be paid in twelve months. The finance company will charge $127.12 for handling the deferred payments.

A Lean Mixture Is Not Economy

(By Erwin Greer)

(Pre-Inlet Greer College of Electrical and Automotive Trades, Chicago, Ill.)

If the engine of your motor car splutters, misfires or loses power, look above the carburetor. But in most cases of this kind you will find that the valves are burned and pitted and are not properly seated. Sometimes it is deposits of carbon between the valve and its seat hold the valve open, and in turn is caused by an obstruction between the valve stem and the guide rod—causing the valve to be open continually.

You, most probably, insist on a lean carburetor mixture in order to get more mile per gallon of gasoline. But understand this, please—A lean mixture burns less; that is, it is burning when the exhaust valve opens and continues to burn until the intake valve opens to take in a fresh charge. Then the valve is completely ruined by a mixture of 2,500 degrees Fahrenheit, where a [illegible] mixture burns at only [illegible] degrees. The [illegible] is not advisable to lean the mixture below normal for ordinary driving. It also depends on the type carburetor you have whether the mixture can be leaned enough to get real economy out of it. Some carburetors are built to lean the mixture to the extreme because an air leak around the manifold will produce the same effect as a lean carburetor mixture—and you may not know it.

When in doubt, always consult an experienced carburetor specialist, and save him about the proper setting for the device upon you to use.

A Christmas Story

A little boy wandered the country shadows with dread. They crept over the desert waiting him about on the night grew. He had also seen the monarchs' star and had chatted to get with the shepherds. But in answer to their query, he had answered:

"But who will take care of the sheep? Someone must. I will take care of the little lambs who need my care."

Here he regretted not going now, and how he had wished to see the Little King.

The sheep nodded up to each other, there how bleating in keeping with the shadows. All at once he saw a figure approaching through the gloom. A young Boy about his own age, and with a face of unearthly beauty came up. His face instantly left him and he seemed to take the Boy's presence for granted They lay down together amongst the sheep, their heads touching each other

In the morning the shepherds found him lying asleep, while a smile of utter contentment was on his face. The young Stranger had gone. The boy shepherd never forgot his Companion of the night, and he kept Him in his heart a his most precious memory.

Stettler hockey team succeeded in winning an important game from Ponoka on Tuesday night at Ponoka by the score of 2 to 1 As the score indicates, the play was fast and furious with close checking, except for the 2nd period, which was somewhat slack. Stanley Wilson secured the first goal for Stettler in the 1st period, and the play continued about even until the beginning of the 2nd when Ponoka scored their only goal With the score a tie, the Stettler team put considerable punch into the game and a nice run by Walter Duckworth down the ice and a pass to Percy Page resulted in their second goal The next issue kept the team's penny red as most see for the rest of the game and they captured a very creditable win on their opponent's ice. It was the consensus of opinion that Stettler had two things of the play throughout Stan Burtis played a good game in goal in place of Pete McMahon, who was unable to attend. With two good goal tenders, Stettler should be able to give a good account of themselves in future games, and the crucial game of the series between the New Year will take place at Stettler to-night (Thursday) when Red Deer's fast team will play here The locals have won two games and lost 1. The winning stacked up at Red Deer last Thursday night

The rooters at Ponoka on Tuesday night were up for their assignment and at the end of the game by consumable half with the Stettler contingent One of them called Pete Gilroy "Lindbergh" which must have been soothing to that aviator Hoooo, must say the least Pete intended wearing the plaid at the next game so that his nationality will not be misrepresented

Regarding The Elk's Band

The organization was formed some three years ago by the Elks' Lodge of Stettler. It was formed primarily to give the town and district the services of a band when occasion arose for the need of same. It was also formed to give the youth of our town an opportunity to develop their musical talent along those lines if they wished to do so.

The Elks' Lodge financed the initial purchase of the instruments, which was about $400.00. The balance of the cash required to finance the Band has all been met by members of the Band in tattoos from and by receipts from services rendered.

The expenditures have been for uniforms, music, additional instruments and for Mr. Fiderich's services as instructor. These expenditures total nearly $2,500.00

For over two years this organization has been used by various Committees when arranging their programs. They have, on several occasions, given their services freely, such as on Empire Day, baseball tournaments, hockey games, Legion Memorial Parade and at Hoadley on the occasion of the Old Timers' Picnic.

The public are to understand that these services are gladly given. It is part of a bandsman's training to do the same things.

Our present means of revenue must be from concerts and from playing engagements. As few engagements are available at this season, it appears that the only means of revenue lies in the patronage of the town and district at the concerts.

On various occasions, members of the Board of Trade and Town Council have signified their intentions of advertising Saturday evening concerts by the band. These attractives have been proven a success in other towns, as a drawing card and entertainment. There is no reason why the town of Stettler could not have the benefit of advertising if some person, such as the Mayor or the President of the Board of Trade would interest themselves in the move.

The band have not yet decided for funds to finance themselves. A great deal of credit should be due the Committee in charge for the manner in which the organization has been able to carry on.

All citizens of the town and district who have any pride in an organization of this kind should give it such support as is possible. It is a good thing for the town, a good thing for the boys who give so freely of their time and services, so why not boost for it so occasion arises?

Stettler Wins Fast Hockey Game From Red Deer Team

Stettler and Red Deer met in contest at the Arena on Thursday, December 20th, with the result that Stettler scored another victory over their nearest rival; by the score of 6 to 4 The games of the past two years indicate that the teams are evenly matched, but the local team seems to keep to their system better than Red Deer, and generally win out by one or two goal. The score in this game should have been 6 to 2 as the local team was unfortunate enough to put in a goal for their opponents themselves during a scrimmage in front of the net.

Stettler started off well in the 1st period by scoring one goal from the stick of Stanley Wilson, who has steadily improved into a valuable player. The ice was fairly keen, although the evening was mild. The first period ended Stettler 1, Red Deer 0

The 2nd period also belonged to the home team on account of their superior shooting Jack Dunlop got in a nice goal by a hard shot from the side, and Stettler were two up Red Deer, however, got through two goals in quick succession by shots from outside which were hard to see, as the score was even. The home team showed themselves the classier aggregation by getting two more well earned goals, the only Water Duckworth by one of his hard shots and the other by Hamish, who did some nice clean handling through the defence and outwitted the goal keeper Score at the end of 2nd period, Stettler 4 Red Deer 2

The first part of the 3rd period was all Stettler as Red Deer could not locate the net and were shooting wild Stanley Wilson and his second goal by a nice shot from centre This was followed up by a rush by Wright who combined with Walter Duckworth down the ice and scored up an assist from Duckworth This made the score 6 to 2 and practically sewed up the game Red Deer, however, worked hard and scored two goals before the bell rang Their superior weight was used to much a possible, but most of their rushes were broken up The ice had now become sticky and combination was a difficult proposition The home team had no difficulty in retaining the lead of two goals until the finish Final Score Stettler 6, Red Deer 4.

Referee Burrell handled the players well and had no trouble except in a few cases where excitement made the players overstep the rules. An Lacombe defeated Red Deer 7 to 4 at Lacombe on Christmas Day the standing the league to date is as follows—

	W.	L.	Pts.
Stettler	3	1	6
Lacombe	3	1	6
Red Deer	1	3	2
Ponoka	0	3	0

The game tonight at the Arena between Lacombe and Stettler will be an important event, as if Stettler win it will have a commanding lead in the league before it goes away from home Lacombe is said to have a strong team and will come down with a number of supporters

BASHAW GAME

Bashaw came over on Christmas Day to play an exhibition game with the local team, and both teams put up a nice exhibition of hockey The local boy scored nine large and everybody enjoyed the game.

Bashaw started in well and scored the only goal of the 1st period. The Stettler played evenly during this period and the two was in good shape for fast hockey.

In the second period Walter Duckworth soon evened the score by a shot from the right wing Both teams were going fast and the score was kept down to an even basis for the rest of the period. The third period showed the home team forging ahead by superior combination and better staying powers. Stanley Wilson scored a goal with an assist from Gordon Duckworth and Jack Dunlop added another by a nice rush and shot from the left. This ended the scoring, the final result being Stettler 2, Bashaw 1.

The game throughout was a good type of hockey and an appropriate fixture for the holiday season

ROBINSON'S HEAT TIME
ESTIMATE ISSUED

Alberta's 1928 wheat Crop is placed at 147,500,000 bushels, or an average of 22 bushels per acre from the acreage sown in he province, in the crop estimate issue by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics during the past week. This figure compares with 171,200,000 bushels as a crop in the final estimate of the 1927 crop. A considerable reduction from the earlier estimates of the yield in the western provinces has been made as a result of the frost injury to the crop. Alberta's average wheat yield compares very favorably with that for the whole Dominion which is placed at 20.5 bushels per acre.

Sixty Six Girls Won Independent Dolls For Christmas Day

Contest Closes January 15th

If a man had a family of 61 girls, all of whom wanted dolls for Christmas, he would considerably himself a fit patient for the lunatic asylum before he had them all united. In fact he would do better to hand the job over to the Independent, which is taking care of all girls of the doll age who want dolls. It is no trouble to have our doll from the office. Having direct radio connection with the manufacturer, we simply ask for more dolls, and they come along. Many our girls obtained their dolls before Christmas this year and there are still more to come Among the customer twelve live in the town of Gadsby, which came next to Stettler in furnishing the largest number of girls who own dolls. This was due to the work of Mr and Mrs R Shaw, who took upon themselves the pleasant task of calling them who own on the dead list. Analyzing the matter a little more closely, we find that 32 reside west to Stettler, 12 to Lacombe; 6 to Bashaw, 5 to Erskine; 2 to Red Willow; 2 to Penna; and 1 each to Donalda, Leo, Hackett and Donalda. Of course some of the girls at Stettler post office live near the other towns, so that the dolls were evenly distributed throughout the district

The girls ranged in age from one year to fourteen, and from the lightest shade of blonde to the darkest shade of brunette, and the dolls corresponded in various shades of color

To the girls remaining on the list, the field is now open and there is room for lots of dolls more. As the contest closes on January 15th, they will have over two months to complete their lists, and they should have no difficulty in getting the doll they want

The following is the list of girls who won dolls —

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor,
Stettler Independent.
Dear Sir:—

In answer to questions arising "re Evolution and Creation," I should consider it a great favor if you would be so kind as to publish the following in your valuable paper.

Yours etc.,
George Bainbridge.

WHAT THE BIBLE TEACHES

Dear Sir:—

I would like to ask one or two questions, which have been thrown upon my minds, by certain lecturers, and the modernistic trend, and if possible, I will try to answer them for:—As we celebrate again the Birth of the Holy Child Jesus, it is hard to keep our minds on Jesus 2nd—Have those Darwinian Theory Teachers or "Five Point Lecturers" anything better to offer?

In answer to the first question, I wish to say that there is a real joy experienced in the heart of every one who receives and accepts the truth that Jesus came to save.

To the 2nd question I would say definitely: No. I dare say, we have all heard the Infidel. The vendor of error. It is that so many Ministers of the present day neglect in their views and way to follow them, forgetting what the Great Apostle says in Galatians 1st Chapter, Verse 6, 7, 8 and 9 We would suspect the Bible to be dependent on by everyone who is in the employment of by Jesus, but what have we, or what do we hear, some time and in every article appeared in one of our newspapers headed "Evolution Talk to Leth-bridge Canoe Forum," for as the speakers stated that the right thinking men of education have fully accepted evolution. It is being taught in Colleges and Universities, and then asks, what are we going to do about it? I ask, what can we do. Any one who does not accept it & cope with these men will not be educated right thinking

In sending to hear the same date, the Pastor of a Calgary himself said, "What does it matter after all, how we came to this world, we are here, we have duties, etc., but it does matter, we have no desire to be left in the dark concerning these things, and I think I voice the sentiment of many readers of the Independent when I say, if they have any better knowledge than the truth we want to know it. His same speaker said he was not so much concerned with the story of the Garden of Eden and the Fall of Man in the literal sense as he is with the moral of the story. The Serpent Myths, he says, and the Tree of Life are important.

It is very hard indeed to distinguish according to some teachers between "Immoral Truths" and "Literal Facts." But is it not strange that on the right thinking, educated people are not content to look among those they have known, and whose company they ought to enjoy, for their substitutes but must wander off to the jungles or to the zoological gardens.

Therefore, would they have something more definite to offer we shall be content with the statement in Genesis 1, verse 27 "So God created man in His own image."

Many passages in the early chapters of the Book of Genesis are characterized by a depth, a purity, a fire-some

The crowd began to gather at seven, which in order to be sure of getting a seat had to eight the building was packed, even standing room being at a premium.

The Hall was tastefully decorated and the stage tree was lovely with the many decorations and tiny colored lights.

The programme was given by all the school children from Primary grade up to the High School and consisted of various short recitations, dialogues and rol.

Some say that this is the best concert ever given in Botha. We are so heard one young said he would drive a hundred miles to see those dolls again.

At the close of the programme, the High School students presented Mr Page with a handsome gift. The presentation being made by Miss Bessie Sheridgeski. Mr Page was taken completely by surprise. Then the audience demanded a speech. This was a difficult occasion for a young man, not to be handled in very much detail. The home boats arrived and the treats were distributed. 250 sacks were prepared.

A collection was taken to help defray expenses and the sum of $32.00 was realized.

Stettler Defeated Lacombe In Fast Hockey Game 7-2

Stettler Hockey team defeated their old rivals, Lacombe, on Thursday night of last week by the decisive score of 7 to 2. The game was on in the first period when the local team shot up on five goals before the opponents decided to wake up. As the score took the locals started to work with more fast rushes, and their opponents most star was too much for the opposing goals. Walter Dawkins was a star of these goal-by fast to make Dr Wright and Gordon Duckworth and the other two. In the meanwhile, Lacombe succeeded in getting one goal, making the score at the end of the first period, Stettler 5, Lacombe 1. During the second period, the Lacombe players began to get busy and the play was even better than the first part of the game. The home team, however, had the edge, even when their opponents extended themselves in the limit. This was on account of their superior speed. In this period, Walter Dawkins got another goal, making the score 6 to 1 at the end of the second.

The last period was similar to the second, the play being below the rule, due to the intensity of Lacombe to increase their score. Walter Dawkins added another goal to his credit, making the score 7 to 1. Lacombe succeeded in getting one goal before the game ended, Walter Duckworth banking the puck.

The line-up:

Stettler	Position	Lacombe
Dawkins	R	L
Duckworth	C	C
Lamoreux	D	D
Fuchs	D	D

JUVENILE GAME

A juvenile game was played on the same night as the senior game, the score being 4 to 1 in favor of Stettler. Stettler juveniles are the champions of the district, having defeated Lacombe twice.

The Lacombe team had also the best of the play in the juvenile game, as they effort by superior speed and combination work.

Stettler scored the only counter in the first period, Bill Duckworth getting the twine with a hard shot from the side.

Both teams put a fast pace in the second frame, but the splendid work of the first combination was responsible for further scoring in this period.

The last period opened off on even terms, but Lacombe steamed right hard for a goal, and after five minutes they succeeded in doing the trick, Lacombe forcing the trick with a hard drive to shot. Stettler came back strongly and thirty seconds from the finish, Norman Cockburn carried the puck down the rink, passing over to Bill Tom in front of the net, and the Cumnow goalie had no chance to save. Less than one minute later, Ernest Lamoreux got the puck at his own blue line and working past the Cumnow defense, pulled the goal keeper out of his net and scored without any trouble.

Lacombe scored another goal in the dying moments of the game from a free-for-all scramble in front of the Stettler net. Referee Hall ended the scoring and the game finished with the count of seven goals to two.

The line-up for Stettler was as follows:

Goal, Brown; Defense, Rose Patrick, Ernest Barnett; Forwards, Bill Duncan, Jack Dearn, Ernest Lamoreux, Tom Costigan, Norman Cockburn, Ken Melver.

Referee, J. E. Barnett.
Penalties, Nil.

Winter Feeding Of Laying Hens

The high price paid for eggs during the winter should be an incentive to the poultry keeper to continue the liberal feeding possible during the autumn of the year. To secure this the pullets must be well developed before they begin to contribute to the fall and in providing proper housing accommodation for the winter months.

Pullets should be housed in colony houses in extending his pullets to the fall and in providing proper housing accommodation for the winter months.

but he must also feed the proper variety of foods to produce eggs and to the production of the surplus food eaten over and above that required for body maintenance.

For maximum winter egg production, a variety of feeds must be provided. On moment, on free range, the flock has access to secure sufficient minerals and a right proportion of the different kinds of food, but during the winter months it is necessary to imitate these conditions as much as possible by the best results. In addition to a mixture of mineral grains, mashes and scratch feed, meat feed, green bone, skimmed milk and grit should be fed during the time the birds are more or less closely confined.

Skimmed milk should be fed morning and evening in the same dishes fitted with a right indoor drop. The morning feed should be a light one to keep the hens scratching most of the morning, thus increasing exercise. The evening feed of scratch grain should be sufficient to have the birds go to roost with full crops. A suitable mixture of home grown grains for scratch feed would be made by combining 2 parts, barley 1 part and oats one part.

A good dry mash mixture, to be kept before the birds constantly before the flock, may be made of equal parts of bran, shorts, corn meal and oat chop. Flour or finally ground oats and half part beef scrap. To this add 5 per cent. of linseed meal and about 1 per cent. fine table salt. At times when the birds begin to slacken in production a very small amount of moist mash of the same mixture as that fed dry should be fed at noon to increase the amount of mash consumed.

Green feed in some form is essential to maintain a flock of laying hens in vigorous condition. Sprouts, cabbage and mangels make good forms of green feed. Alfalfa meal, cut clover or of alfalfa hays are also good succulent. A liberal supply of green feed daily provides the hens with the required succulence in the ration, tends to keep the hens in better general condition and thus promotes egg production.

Hens producing heavily require the mineral feeds as these can best be supplied in the form of oyster shell, screen cut bone and grit. These mineral elements should be supplied at all times. It is also good practice to have some skim milk or buttermilk constantly before the birds.

FORD NEWS

Automobile wheels have undergone considerable change within the past few years, and many of the most desirable improvements are to be seen in the wheels with which the new model "A" Ford car is equipped.

These new wheels are known as steel spoke wheels and are a special Ford design and manufacture. The wheel department of the Ford Motor Co. here at Ford City, Ontario, is in reality, an industry in itself. Machines take the strips of flat steel and make rims and hub shells. Another set of machines turns out spokes for the wooden wheel. Welding makes the individual features of the new model "A" Ford unit one piece of steel. Like others they combine lightness and graceful appearance with strength and durability to a degree never before obtained in wheels despite the light, but perfect rule that must give long and hard service in many parts of the world and under many and varying conditions.

The steel spokes, of which there are thirty in each wheel, are made of five grade of flat steel, one, specially rolled to the steel rim and the hub shell so that the entire wheel, hub, spokes, and rim, becomes in reality one piece of steel, with no part that can ever work loose and weaken the wheel structure or become noisy Besides, each spoke, before welding into the hub and rim is cut at just that angle in relation to the other spokes which makes it perform the best possible bracing and pulling function. This feature of the design prevents rattles or shocks being transmitted directly to any single spoke in the wheel and distributes the shock equally to all the spokes and to all sections of rim and hub, thus lessening the danger of breakage.

The rim of this new Ford wheel is of the "drop center" type, which gives greater strength to the rim, imparting the same qualities of rigidity that are found in channel and corrugated steel, and which also greatly facilitates the changing of tires, as the tire, once the air is out, may be removed easily, even without the aid of tools.

THE FAITHFUL SERVANT

In the corner of an old neglected English churchyard the following epitaph was found on a moss-covered weather-beaten old grave-stone:

Sacred to the memory of Rhea Harvey,
who departed this life evidently and unexpectedly by a cow kicking him on the 15th day of September, 1855.

"Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

Silver Fox Breeding

Has the trade has played a most important part in Canadian history. From early days adventurers came to this country solely on account of the riches the fur trapping offered. Here was the capital necessary to capitalize the fur-bearing animals are being taken from the country each year while the demands of forests the city is plant more trade.

Some applies to fur. If so are to be supplied with fur at all, we must look to the farm to hand and propagate them under domestic conditions.

The silver fox, bearing one of the most beautiful and expensive coats of any animal whose home is the wilderness.

Fur ranching has been tried in many European countries and is, at present, flourishing in Norway. But the climate of these countries is not entirely suitable Alberta is entirely suitable and already this industry has gained its initial stages. At a sale held last fall, a rather, crossed fox pairs sold for more than $100 each.

Farmers would do well to use this as a side-line, which would be a remedy when they suffer a crop failure through drought, hail or frost

In many instances silver fox has proved a benefactor and put the farmer on his feet. It is proved by figures that two pair of foxes of good breed and sex-a, have made a fortune for not only myself, but women who have gone in for this interesting trade.

One pair of good foxes, properly looked after, will return a greater profit than 10 milk cows, 20 hogs or 100 sheep. In a recent London England, during April, 1924, one pelt sold for $270.00, i.e. as much as 10 steers or 40 hogs or one year's milk production from 10 cows. A story got out, Messrs O M Lampson & Co., London, England, offers an unlimited market for your pelts.

Feeding do—not pre-cost any difficulty. A mature—t rabbit a day is sufficient for a fully grown fox.

Foxes breed once a year in April and May, the average litter being 3.50 puppies. At a months these are fullgrown and ready to pelt. They eat enough to need in one year. Also foxes, the—t—ives, are in 12 years old. The eating for wire, rie is not great. So a fox better life in—ur—ance policy than desire than to be—ome in a pair or two of silver foxes. The founda—t—ion for a fair round herd.

Many fox breeders may laugh at this article, and say that it is easy to reckon what a fortune one can make on paper, and that theory does not work out in practice Truly, but self was badly bitten through believing the "Get rich quick" or "Make a man" in Rhode—is. But, although there have been failures, in fact considerable ones, can ful handled, no a side line, it do not—t—s a man could go very far wr—ong.

Value of Legumes

It is an unfortunate fact that the importance of legumes as the value of manure as a soil improver under the prairie conditions is rather recently and, consequently, not well understood. It is one disputes their value as a feed crop—less properly handled.

At the experimental farm, Indian Head, an experiment has been under way for some time to discover, if possible, value of peas and vetches when plowed under as a green manure crop. These crops are compared with farm manure—fallow and commercial fertilizer which has been treated with barley, and manure. Peas are plowed under early and late in July, and vetches are plowed under in June. Wheat is the crop in July, while the summer-fallow is plowed under once and cuts the seed. Over the farm year period, from 1921 to 1927, the average yield per acre in crops was greater than from manure—fallow for both wheat and barley, and greater than where the latter is not plowed down. The best results were secured when the peas were plowed down early in July the increase in yield over the non fallow land was twelve bushels per wheat and twelve bushels per oats.

Some years ago, a similar experiment was undertaken through a period of nine years, but this failed to show any beneficial effect on the yields from the legumes plowed under.

THE NEW 1929 OAKLAND

Completely new and original in appearance, with a number of interesting refinements, the new Olympic Series Oakland Six, going on display this week in Stettler, is the successor to the Series 50 and 50-Passport. Smaller than the former Oakland Six, yet more powerful, with a longer wheelbase, more room, both bodies of distinctive design and a chassis said to be the best word in Oakland performance, the latest Oakland model bears only a passing resemblance to its predecessor — the New Canadian Oakland Six brought out a year ago. The new Oakland Six Olympic Series accommodates the performance of Canada's Olympic athletes at the Olympic games and the beauty of line is said to be reminiscent of the lithe grace of a trained athlete, perfectly conditioned athlete.

Broadly, the new car offers a big, spacious, more graceful engine; new Oakland type interior upholstery and appointments by Fisher; new Duco color combinations; bodies by Fisher non-fire hazard; adjustable driver's seat; chrome plated body moulding, steady bumpers whole; Lovejoy shock absorbers and spring action; a standard equipment of the new car, number frame and a host of refinements which add to the comfort and convenience of the occupants and to the appearance of the car. Oakland has always been a favorite with the family of the discriminating.

Already a million sales have been piled up by the new car on the General Motors Proving Ground. Although it is not yet in the public, it is thoroughly seasoned product with the equivalent of many years of owner service already to its credit.

Seven passenger types comprise the new line, each equipped with Fisher bodies; 2-door sedan; 4-door sedan and 2-door sedan with rumble seat; convertible landau and convertible cabriolet.

Artisans of the Fisher organization, whose craftsmanship bodies have achieved a new degree of body lines and beauty, have put into the new Oakland Six a luxury and proportion exclusive to the Oakland field. The new composition bodies with the Fisher non-fire hazard quarter section which may be quickly removed or raised has an air of custom-built individuality.

The rear seats of all five passenger models are wide enough to allow full play to provide three-end other rears and to add to the comfort of the passengers. This change is been effected without increasing the total

Closed bodies are fitted with adjustable driver's seats, reveals around windows and ventilation is provided both with moulding starting at radiator and concealed controlling lock, new type of cowl ventilator, new type ventilating ventilators, new type rain vision, and handsome design of instrument panel finished in lustrous black enamel. Fittings and interior hardwares are individually mounted on the dash and directly illuminated by two soft shielded lights.

A strikingly new cabriolet appearance is provided by the new type cowl of the car. The chrome plated radiator has been raised and the line from the base of the cowl to the new flat radiator cap appears perfectly level. A new grill of vertical front bars adds effect to of chrome design with a vertical chrome plated bar completing the full height of the front in the center of the grill.

The Canadian Oakland emblem has been re-designed this year to the form of a shield disk, white and blue enamelling give a touch of color to it.

The famous Oakland pioneered every fine radiator is retained with the high capacity increased.

Finishing the radiator are new full crown fenders, horns and visor than last year, of stainless one-piece design with a beaded edge and a 71 inch opened. Rear fender rods have been shortened hence their ends do not project rearward protection and added beauty. The new Oakland Six brought out a chrome plated tail lamp and vertical louvers in five inches of rear compartment either side to enhance the appearance.

Parking lamps are mounted on the cowl of the car.

A powerful new engine, offering flashing performance at every speed range, has been achieved by changes in the cylinder displacement to 2926 cubic inches as against 212 in the new six-cylinder. The compression with ultra-low engine clearance, results in a speed well over seventy miles an hour and quick acceleration of from ten to twenty-five miles an hour in high gear in six seconds. A new and exclusive Oakland feature is the Fuel-pulsar rubber cover mounting adopted on the model by means of special rubber "bowtie" which insulates the engine from the frame, there is no metal-to-metal contact, a factor which eliminates noise and engine vibration.

Improved displacement was brought about by enlarging the cylinder bore from 2 1-4 inches to 2 1-2 inches. The improved engine develops 68 brake horse-power at 3,200 r.p.m.

Increased engine power with a maximum pound per-square to achieved by new Oakland designed bodies, the mechanical four-wheel type, coil spring, with increased supporting base on all four wheels. Individual adjustment are located at each wheel and spring shackle bolts are entirely eliminated. The brakes operate on large twelve-inch drums and provide 236 square inches of braking surface. The parking brake is of the internal type has been re-designed for increased safety.

Oakland engineers have been largely at instance by the induction of fluid drive in the Oakland equipment on all models by the retention of

DOMINATION
THE majority of Canadian-built cars are equipped with Prest-O-Lite Storage Batteries. More Prest-O-Lites are sold to replace worn-out batteries than any other make of battery. There are more Dealers and Battery Service Stations equipped to handle selling and servicing Prest-O-Lite Storage Batteries than in any similar organization. Prest-O-Lite dominates the Storage Battery field in Canada Because there is no better battery built and the Prest-O-Lite Service Organization stretching across Canada from coast to coast lives up to its reputation as the "Battery Service to Motorists."
Make a point of bringing your battery to us for inspection. We will tell you if it needs repairs and recharging. If you need a new battery we have a powerful, long-lived Prest-O-Lite that has been built especially for your make of car.

In other words, the human machine at the wheel is not equal to the emergency because of the inadequacy of the car.

The solution? Exactly what I have been preaching for years—The Golden Rule as the only effective traffic law that could be put into force.

But who's going to tell the car?

The annual January thaw arrived on Sunday night and the weather has been exceptionally mild since. Both Red Deer and San Francisco, the following week end. It is a story of China town in that famous city before the earthquake. The settings are exquisite, the scenes are beautiful, and the story has a punch from start to finish. Action and thrills all the way. The Country Store on Friday night is becoming more interesting and popular every week. Tuesday given away on, and the family a good night out together.

Settler Theatre News

"Out of Singapore," the feature attraction Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week, is an outstanding example of the old proverb, "a little child shall lead them." It is a story of a man captain, who, on returning to his ship finds to the child a baby, he should go to find a woman to care for the child.

He meets Singapore Sal, a girl of the sea front, and they have her to his ship, leave her in port they tough another. Then he discovers her and puts the baby in her charge.

On their way to San Francisco the child becomes ill and long spell sleepless nights over the infant. Engaged in this story reveals several of these three people sometimes sad to interesting and sympathetic.

Watch for "Old San Francisco," the following week end. It is a story of China town in that famous city before the earthquake.

Next week Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, January 15th, 16th and 17th, Lois Wilson and Lawrence Gibbon in "Sunset Pass," a picture that will please all lovers of the great outdoors.

Coming Friday and Saturday, January 18th and 19th, Ken Maynard in "Wild Mustang."

Dear Sir:—

I noticed in your issue of January 3rd Stettler Independent, you refer-ence the Editor drew up at the meeting held in Community Hall. I am not on the Executive Committee, but am not trying to uphold the contention to defend myself.

But I have many good points in this. In the first place, we find that the Rosalie School Board owns three lots. The land is still right. But on account of the low land value, no open sale can be held. The land is not for sale, but the people do not get the important thing in your remarks you mention "Indeed we are against more taxes." But I am sure the taxes raised will not be near anybody make that statement. But suppose they did Why not? A few more taxes per capita would practically cut in two. I did not see the Editor at the meeting, but I suppose, now, if we are to have a competition, we will be asked to pay for it.

The resolutions drawn up at Community Hall were a summary of what we thought best and perhaps necessary, to Mr. Baker's proposition. By no means did the meeting go on record as favoring the abolishment of the Separate Schools, or of supporting the removal of trustees as suggested. I certainly think that as long as we have men with the courage to stand part, and the interest of all concerned, as displayed by the trustees of the Province, that there will be no need to turn down or oppose them with subjective zone.

Now, I am not a politician, but, while in conversation with you, you expressed much worry that this present Government would develope into a close-legislating body. I have kept in touch with the legislature in past and proposed by members of our Government, and on only two occasions have I noticed any attempt on their legislation First, when the Town Hall tax was proposed and the present amendment of Mr Baker's.

If there are not other democratic that cannot eliminate their children, why not the rural taxpayer to bear the burden alone?

Does the rural tax payer pay any more than the town and city dwellers? Do not the rural districts then any business man in town?

Or does Mr Baker consider it useless to work on the sympathy of the rural taxpayer to have he lays the burden on one class.

If the rural man or body of town men suggest to Mr Baker that on account of unjust and unfair suffering for want of education, that we levy a tax, province-wide, and just watch how quickly the rural taxpayer falls into line.

Sincerely,
D. W. CLARK.

War Veteran Of Great War

German Red Cross Bag Man Of Old Age

Old age has claimed the last of one out of veterans of the World War that were very young and live less throughout the struggle. This is no paradox, for these veterans were days attached to the German Red Cross, and the longest lived of them all is just dead at Hamburg. He had attained 90 years, and since he was demobilized, the dog had been surrounded by comfort in a good German home.

Hourly everywhere in the white man's world, and in many parts of Asia and Africa, there are former soldiers who remember with gratitude what these Red Cross dogs meant to them when they were lying wounded in places where the hospital corps was unable to go. Some time it was an exposed shell-hole sometimes it was under-brush. In the places were the Red Cross dogs found the last twelve months. Each dog carried a little medicine kit, which is affected by either two bits of dog and burn on the light.

ENLIGHTENING

If people are very bright, it is impossible to keep them in the dark.

Round the Country

Since there is always in Canada considerable interest in the capital punishment question, and since the latest contributions to it is made by Lord Lessee, for the past eight years warden of Sing Sing, the most famous prison on the American continent, and one of the most famous in the world, it is important because of his first hand experience with murderers and executions, and doubly so, because when he went to Sing Sing he was a believer in capital punishment. He is no longer a believer, but says that capital punishment tends to make more murderers. In all circumstances against capital punishment, one is sure to hear the story of the Frenchman, name forgotten, who figured himself that it should be abolished, and preceded "Let murderers, the wanton slay begin." It does not seem to have much point to us, but it has been effective in advancing the more timid a brigade of abolition. Some are also put to flight by the "cruel and unusual punishment" and "cold-blooded story of criminals." Those who maintain that capital punishment is a wise and necessary means of dealing with criminals, are also fond of pointing out that the sympathy so frequently expended upon murderers should be diverted instead to their victims and the families of their victims.

Much of this is beside the point. It may be taken for granted that for all practical purposes the murderer has forfeited his rights, and that the question of punishment should be decided without regard to his personality. He should be disposed of in such a way with regard only to the protection of society. In other words, punishment should be dealt with in such a way that their numbers may be reduced. Of course, when there is a lessening of an execution, the number is reduced by one, but Warden Lawes says that executions brutalize men; not the men who are executed, but the men who are executed, but the men who are executed. "The more executions that take place," he says, "the greater the number of people there are to execute." Life imprisonment is a greater deterrent, he says, "the executed man passes quickly from the mind, while the criminal in life imprisonment remains as a living symbol of the awful consequences of an awful act." We remember reading a long time ago that it had been found in France when the guillotine ceased publicity on the theory that it served as a deterrent, that practically every victim had himself some accomplice.

Another reason why Warden Lawes is opposed to capital punishment is that it operates unfairly. The rich and influential murderer can employ the most astute lawyers and the most convincing alibiists and can be found insane or have his case appealed again and again with true bill after public interest wanes, witnesses disappear and he escapes punishment. The poor murderer has to be content, not with the lawyers and witnesses more hungrily endowed with intellect, and in a battle of wits these are commonly got to rest by the prosecution. Moreover the punishment falls most terribly on the family of the executed man. For the murderer himself the end is swift, but the disgrace of his family is lifelong. Neighbors may forget that the former head of the household round the corner is spending his time in prison but they are not likely to forget it if he has been sent to the electric chair.

Perhaps the most important contribution of all with Warden Lawes is the fact that the death penalty is final. Who will say but many innocent men have not been electrocuted? There is a general belief now that Oscar Slater, not long ago released from a British prison, where he was serving a life term for murder, was innocent. There is a similar belief about Mrs. Maybrick whose name re-appeared in public print the other day. Only the most tremendous pressure of public opinion secured both these persons from the gallows. There are millions who believe that Sacco and Vanzetti were innocent of everything but being communists. Warden Lawes has been the administrator and father confessor of 300 persons who went to their death in Sing Sing muddle his eyes, and he knows from experience that not all of them were guilty. He cites one case, for one of men under sentence of death when evidence came to light to clear them. These cases are creeping up with a frequency that ought to terrify those who cling to the death penalty, and remove the remnant of those who are fighting against this anachronism.

Warden Lawes also challenges the notion that there is a born criminal type, which can be identified by his low brows, his shifty eyes, his large ears, his fondness for nuts or cruel other signs done to the judiciary. He says: "Have we an American who looks like Dude Ross or an English man who looks like Jake Bell and will grant the possibility of finding a man who looks like the so-called types have disappeared. The type simply does not exist for lawbreakers are just as normal or abnormal as those who do not break the law." Finally Warden Lawes endorses the proposal made by Governor Smith, of New York, who would take the power of granting reprieves away from the trial judge and vest it in a board of specialists, who would after prolonged study of the case and its effects on the public be the punishment fit not the crime but the criminal.

THAT advertised quality is in a class by itself. Their ads is never sent by the unknown grades which are made to compete with them.

THAT persistent advertising increases quality—because there is no substitute for quality. Quality must stand, creates a desire for more.

THAT persistent advertising of better quality not only attracts new buyers, but keeps present ones and increases consumption because better quality gives a better service.

The method, as detailed by Dr. Sidney Goldsmith, of Hyndi, N. Y., and discussed by Dr. John J. The serum is sprayed with an atomizer on the burned skin surfaces and it is said has produced astonishing results.

SOLVE ARCTIC MYSTERY

Discovery of Two Skeletons in Siberia Throws Light on Polar Disaster

Discovery of two whitened skeletons is believed to have solved the temporary mystery surrounding the exact fate of two members of the 1906-1909 Sir Ernest Expedition of Rosal Amundsen. The skeletons were found recently in northwest Siberia.

The men involved were named Vermen and Knudsen. Both were members of the crew of Amundsen's Polar ship the Maud. They left the expedition at the Chelkashi peninsula with letters, maps and scientific data, all of unalterable value which Amundsen thought of desirable should reach civilization at once Teuson and Knudsen were trying to make Port Dixon. They never arrived and nothing had been learned of them until the discovery of the skeletons.

The Difference

WHEN PA IS SICK

When pa is sick,
He's scared to death,
And ma and we
Just hold our breath.

He crawls in bed
And puffs and groans,
And does all kinds
Of crazy stunts.

He wants the doctor
An' mighty quick,
For when pa's ill,
He's awful sick.

An sort o' sighs,
He snaps and groans,
He talks so queer,
An' rolls his eyes,

His pongo and runs,
An' all of us,
An' all the house,
An' yonder and by
Is mighty cheerful—
Wish pa is sick
It's nothing funny.

WHEN MA IS SICK

When ma is sick
She pegs away,
Not much I say,
She goes right on
A-doin' things,
An' sometimes laughs
'Er even sings.

She says she don't Feel extra well,
But then its just
Ahind of spell,
It'll be alright
Tomorrow sure,
A good ol' sleep
Will be the cure.

An' pa he sniffs
An' makes no kicks
For women folks
Is always sick,
An' ma she smiles,
Let's on she's glad—
When one is sick,
It can't go bad.

Prince Paul, a wealthy young nobleman of color of Arabia, represents all the pride and power of desert chieftainship, clinging to tradition and fiercely persuasive of their women. In Venice he meets Princess, a beautiful and sensuous American girl of the world. Their romance is full of love, intrigue and adventure, but their ideals clash when Princess refuses to be merely one more in the Prince's collection of women. Paul returns to Arabia, believing Princess has left him, but she follows him secretly. Paul blinded by passion, unconsciously avenges her off her feet. They marry, live happily for a while in Paris and then return the position of Sovereign of Sovereigns civilization. Here, despite when she marries Ronald with a former lover, realizing that on Monday, with our home at 1000 Broad.

Pathe's comedy is a jealousy and dominant interference, pointing out that useful reckoning on the Continent differ from them in Arabia. Their clashing viewpoints disrupt their happiness. She is piqued because he has never said in so many words that he loves her, because the men of his race proudly refuse to submit themselves to the yoke of love. When their antagonistic reactions reach the breaking point, Paul returns to Arabia, being by Fabienne to live her life as she chooses. But they still love each other, and Fabienne banishes her pride and seeks him out in his desert home.

She comes while he is away and finds that he has complied with the customs of his people and established a harem. Paul returns and is astounded to find her there. He takes his shelter of keeping his other wives or her. He dismisses them and makes Fabienne his only wife.

But their happiness is short lived, and soon they are again in conflict. With the help of her Parisian friends she manages to escape, but Paul follows.

Then, beneath the tragic stars of the desert, they meet amidst the sand out their destiny to its logical conclusion.

ANNUAL MEETING OF WALL LAKE SCHOOL DISTRICT

The Annual Meeting of the Wall Lake School District, held on Friday, January 11th, was the best and largest attended meeting held by the district for many years, with a good attendance of ratepayers and parents with children attending the school, but little interest was shown in the affairs of the district.

The finances of the district were shown to be in a flourishing condition with a good cash balance, and the low mill rate of 12 mills was again in force. In the comparison of the assessment of 1927 and 1928, a note in the book was not deducted from the 1927 assessment which would have shown the 1928 surplus about the same as 1927.

Plans were exhibited and a discussion was held on the enlargement of the school to two rooms in order to take care of the large school population and a resolution was passed empowering the trustees to go into plans for enlarging the school.

A good discussion of the proposed new school act was entered into, both sides of the question being supported, and though no resolution was adopted, the main difference of opinion was for and against the divisional board, which also about evenly divided.

Mr. C. R. Brown was elected to the vacancy on the Board, created by the expiration of the term of Mr. J. A. Ashford. Mr. Brown getting 8 votes and Mr. Ashford getting 3 votes.

In the 'Old Country' we may be a bit unruly at a "rugger" or "soccer" match, we cheer our side with all our might, and when, maybe, an opposing player does some really good result, we cheer him too. Well, it is all of cheer.

"You should see a base ball match and the row the fans make," say some of my Texas-Admiralty friends. Well, I hope, some day, to have that pleasure. But "hooley" one's opinion does not quite seem 'cricket'—then I suppose one must remember cricket is not played much over here—Old Iron and barrel, and a green — 'a Englishman bats much to learn as I have discovered. Canadian Farmer Steps Out As A Leading Purchaser of Trucks, Motors and Tractors

It seems highly probable that by January 1st, 1935, this nation must approximately ten million, but only one million motor vehicles in use — only one motor vehicle for every ten persons. Even the latest Statistics make a neat and highly profitable market, with a quarter of a million vehicles to be sold and operated at not less cost than to obtain, does very little better in proportion, and no better at all when the cost of labor and maintenance is considered.

In the five years ending 1927, the number of cars registered in Canada increased by about 66 per cent, the number of trucks registered by the War has increased by 80 per cent, which advance with a rate approximately 180 per cent. Canada's increase in motor ownership during the five years mentioned has much greater than the increase in the United States in the same period. In 1927 Canadian factories produced 260,000 motor vehicles, and in 1928 more than the combined total for the years 1911 and 1926. The total number of motor vehicles owned in Canada in 1918.

From these data are ornamentally starts someone who thinks of the motor car as a luxury will be of a very rational sort. So much pessimistic the usual factors of the Dominion during the first year's motor vehicles were none as a short

Salvage Surface

The five years under review have seen the greatest increase in the number of motor vehicles ever recorded. The period has also seen a record increase in the number of motor vehicles owned and operated. Bank deposits have also increased the value of building erected, total trade and employment have each and all been at very high levels.

INCREASED JUDICIAL SERVICE FOR NORTH COUNTRY

Increased judicial service in the northern part of the province is to be provided under arrangements recently made by the Attorney General's Department. DEMAND FOR PULPSTONES

There is a demand for good pulpstones, and over half a million dollars worth are used annually in Canadian pulp mills. The 1926 Canadian production is the highest on record, but only about 10 per cent. of the stones used in Canadian mills are made in Canada.

Lamb Becoming Popular Meat

Statistics Show Consumption Better Than 6 Years Ago

Efforts of the Canadian to open other food industries the packer and other organizations to make lamb a more popular meat in Canada seem to be bearing fruit as the latest statistics from Ottawa show a steady increase in the consumption per capita. Three years ago Canadians were eating barely five pounds of lamb and mutton every year, while almost six pounds in 1930, and 6.11 pounds in 1931, the last year for which figures are available. When the 1932 statistics are announced no doubtedly a further gain will be reported as efforts to increase consumption are continuing and the quality of the lamb turned out, especially, is improving.

While the gain had been steady this country is still a long place behind those places where lamb is really appreciated in New Zealand for instance the consumption for every man, woman and child is placed at 140 pounds and there is no indication that the people there are beginning to look Mr. Sheep despite this record of almost a third of a pound per day

Grain Port Aid Central

Rust is an important disease of rye, wheat, barley and many kinds of wild and cultivated grasses. Besides reducing the yield and quantity of the grain, the rupert bodies cause sickness or death when eating by animals or the domestic feed.

The disease is caused by a fungous parasite, the spores of which enter the floral parts of the plant, when these are open at blossom time, and the result is the development of the rupert bodies in the kernels of grain. These bodies bodies mature at the time on which they grow mature. Some of these fall to the ground, while others find their way into the threshed grain, and in this way the fungus is returned to the soil. In the spring each of the rupert bodies, on or near the surface of the soil, send out hyphae and each of these, in turn, bear many spores, which spread the fungus. Insects, attracted by this honey-dew, carry the spores as they feed to the floral parts of other plants. Rain and wind also help to spread these spores. Warm showers, followed by sunny periods produce favorable conditions for the spread of the disease. After some days the honey-dew stage comes to an end and the familiar, hard, black rupert bodies form.

CONTROL

Controlling the disease becomes a matter of eliminating the rupert from the seed and from the soil. Complete separation from the seed is possible by removing the grain in a solution of common salt, made up by dissolving forty pounds of salt in twenty-five gallons of water. On stirring the grain the rupert bodies come to the surface, where they are skimmed off and thrown destroyed; grain is then washed at once and dried quickly to prevent injury to germination. A combined salt and formaldehyde treatment must not be attempted.

A succession of crops unacceptable to rupert should be avoided so far as possible. It is very important to be on mowing either rye or durum wheat as these crops infected crops of the season, since these two crop-suffer most severely from rupert diseases. The rust resistance in use are rarely affected to any extent and the same is true of barley and oats. Brome, western rye (Lolium) and other wild wheat and rye grasses, which are commonly found about the borders of fields, are also attacked by the rupert fungus.

Drill seeding is much preferable to broadcasting, for, in addition to burying the rupert bodies deeply, the method of homeowning is shortened, thereby reducing the chances for infection. A mixed early and late rye should not be used, nor should the close planting of early and late varieties be practiced. Deep plowing after a badly infested crop is recommended, in order to bury the rupert bodies which have fallen to the ground during harvest. If these are deeply buried they will not be able to germinate successfully and spread the disease. Care should be taken that the plowing be sufficiently deep to prevent the rupert bodies being brought to the surface by subsequent cultivation. Early harvest lessens the number of rupert bodies which fall to the ground. It is also a very profitable practice to mow or destroy other grasses on which are susceptible and growing nearby; the mowing to be done while they are still in bloom. These wild grasses are very often the principal source of infection.

Soy-Beans In Canada

Plant was Introduced Into This Country in Early 'Fay of the Eighteenth Century

The soy bean is an ancient cultivated plant of China and Japan. It is said to have been introduced into North America during the early years of the eighteenth century. It was not, however, till about 1900 that it began to establish itself in the agricultural area of this continent. In Canada the main areas of production are the central and south-western portions of Ontario. Small areas have been grown in every province in the Dominion and the increasing interest in the crop, in connection with the development of earlier maturing varieties, indicates that the future may see a considerable increase in the production of soy-beans in Canada.

FARMERS URGED TO SELECT THE BEST SEED OATS

Farmers throughout the province are being assisted by the Provincial Department of Agriculture in the selection of seed oats for next season's sowing. Under the supervision of the Department of Agriculture, a number of oat fields have been inspected and those which have given evidence of the highest degree of purity and freedom from noxious weeds will be certified as registered seed. Farmers who have fields of this variety which they wish to have inspected should communicate with the Department of Agriculture at once, as the inspection must be made before the cutting season.

REWARD WHEAT TO BE DISTRIBUTED

Two hundred bushels of the new "Reward" wheat are being distributed among one hundred Settlement Board settlers in the southern half of the province, it is announced by W. S. Woods, District Superintendent of the Land Settlement Board, Calgary. Each settler is limited to two bushels of this wheat for which a charge of $3.00 per bushel will be made. Very satisfactory results have been reported, states Mr. Woods, from the quantity of "Reward" wheat which was distributed similarly three years ago.

AS EFOR TARIFF ADJUSTMENTS

Tariff Advisory Board Deals With Several Requests

The tariff advisory board at a recent meeting in Ottawa dismissed the application for reference for tariff adjustments on peanuts and peanut products of milk, clay-working machinery and unsweetened desiccated cocoanut.

Representing the confectionery, biscuit and chocolate industries of Canada, C. B. Bailey submitted a brief asking for a $3 per cent. tariff drawback on table wine used for flavoring confections, shelled in Canadian factories.

R. J. Deachman, Ottawa, representing the International Clay Products, Ltd., Toronto, asked for the removal of the duty on clay-working machinery, which ranges from 22½ and is half to 30 per cent. here and in competition.

It was argued that this type of machinery was not manufactured in Canada owing to its present limited demand. Removal of the duty, however, would permit the Canadian clay products manufacturer to compete on a more equitable basis with the United States manufacturer.

BUYING LINERS

It does not pay to buy the cheapest vacuum, as they are loaded with sawdust, which causes rust in the first smoking, and leaves the cloth flimsy and full of holes. Buy your vacuum with good judgement and laundered with care, will last for years and be as good as new as there is anything left of them.

Colonial table diamonds are a novelty, pretty while in style, but probably not a continuing long. It is best to have just a touch of them for variety, but one should not buy a large supply to last for years. We have to say the cheapest not, pulsers, linen, a cutter's rusty pens and grocers in table linens, as any sold as popular are not the other starting color development of the age.

MANITOBA INDUSTRIAL

Production in Many Lines Shows A Substantial Increase

Production in almost every group of industry in Manitoba has been in excess of the year 1934. The industrial fire inspection service has proceeded far enough to indicate the increases in the leading groups of industry over the previous year. Flour and grist mills have reported 18 per cent. slaughtering was most marking 14 per cent. Over 25,000 of the 36,000 applications come from the Garden of the Gulf. New Brunswick is second with nearly 3,000 and Ontario third with 2,210, in the greatest production making

Similar increases have been shown in the filings at all other land offices in the province, particularly marked gains having occurred in the entries made at Grande Prairie and Peace River offices.

NEW DEPUTY MINISTER OF TELEPHONES APPOINTED

Jas. D. Baker, who, for the past 9 years, has been plant superintendent, has been appointed to the position of general manager of the Alberta Government Telephone System and Deputy Minister of Telephones to succeed E. Brent Baxter, who recently resigned to become general manager of the Calgary Power Co. Mr. Baker's connection with the service extends over the past 23 years and his promotion comes as a recognition of ability as well as ability. The appointment is regarded with general approval while in all departments of the government service.

The position vacated by Mr. Baker has been filled by the appointment of W. C. Brace, who has been traffic engineer, the meeting to be done while the two are still in blossom. These wild grasses are very often the principal source of infection.

Toronto has stepped the greatest shopping season in its history by increasing once more a mamm port, after a lapse of twenty years.

With the completion of the two new grain elevators built on the waterfront, Toronto once more stands ready to receive its share of the golden stream that annually flows east ward from the prairies.

"It is more than twenty years," said Harbourmaster J. H. Allen, "since Toronto last moved the harvested grain."

The two new elevators have a total capacity of 2,750,000 bushels.

REWARD WHEAT TO BE DISTRIBUTED

Two hundred bushels of the new "Reward" wheat are being distributed among one hundred Settlement Board settlers in the southern half of the province, it is announced by W. S. Woods, District Superintendent of the Land Settlement Board, Calgary. Each settler is limited to two bushels of this wheat for which a charge of $3.00 per bushel will be made. Very satisfactory results have been reported, states Mr. Woods, from the quantity of "Reward" wheat which was distributed similarly three years ago.

AS EFOR TARIFF ADJUSTMENTS

Tariff Advisory Board Deals With Several Requests

The tariff advisory board at a recent meeting in Ottawa dismissed the application for reference for tariff adjustments on peanuts and peanut products of milk, clay-working machinery and unsweetened desiccated cocoanut.

Representing the confectionery, biscuit and chocolate industries of Canada, C. B. Bailey submitted a brief asking for a $3 per cent. tariff drawback on table wine used for flavoring confections, shelled in Canadian factories.

R. J. Deachman, Ottawa, representing the International Clay Products, Ltd., Toronto, asked for the removal of the duty on clay-working machinery, which ranges from 22½ and is half to 30 per cent. here and in competition.

It was argued that this type of machinery was not manufactured in Canada owing to its present limited demand. Removal of the duty, however, would permit the Canadian clay products manufacturer to compete on a more equitable basis with the United States manufacturer.

BUYING LINERS

It does not pay to buy the cheapest vacuum, as they are loaded with sawdust, which causes rust in the first smoking, and leaves the cloth flimsy and full of holes. Buy your vacuum with good judgement and laundered with care, will last for years and be as good as new as there is anything left of them.

Colonial table diamonds are a novelty, pretty while in style, but probably not a continuing long. It is best to have just a touch of them for variety, but one should not buy a large supply to last for years. We have to say the cheapest not, pulsers, linen, a cutter's rusty pens and grocers in table linens, as any sold as popular are not the other starting color development of the age.

MANITOBA INDUSTRIAL

Production in Many Lines Shows A Substantial Increase

Production in almost every group of industry in Manitoba has been in excess of the year 1934. The industrial fire inspection service has proceeded far enough to indicate the increases in the leading groups of industry over the previous year. Flour and grist mills have reported 18 per cent. slaughtering was most marking 14 per cent. Over 25,000 of the 36,000 applications come from the Garden of the Gulf. New Brunswick is second with nearly 3,000 and Ontario third with 2,210, in the greatest production making

NEW DEPUTY MINISTER OF TELEPHONES APPOINTED

Jas. D. Baker, who, for the past 9 years, has been plant superintendent, has been appointed to the position of general manager of the Alberta Government Telephone System and Deputy Minister of Telephones to succeed E. Brent Baxter, who recently resigned to become general manager of the Calgary Power Co. Mr. Baker's connection with the service extends over the past 23 years and his promotion comes as a recognition of ability as well as ability. The appointment is regarded with general approval while in all departments of the government service.

The position vacated by Mr. Baker has been filled by the appointment of W. C. Brace, who has been traffic engineer, the meeting to be done while the two are still in blossom. These wild grasses are very often the principal source of infection.

The first real snow of the winter fell on Saturday night and Sunday, and temperatures dropped considerably by lower While the snow is very dry and powdery it has lain still, and the roads are in excellent condition.

Mr. and Mrs. Garth Dorsey are enjoying a honeymoon trip to the coast.

Dr. A. Hare recently left Botha for Rochester, where he is hoping to get relief for one of his boys, which has proved him for a considerable time.

The Hockey Team left here to Wellborn last Wednesday night and a lively game took place. The boys came out victorious, the score being 6 to 3 in favor of Botha.

Friday evening the Hockey Team and a number of supporters motored to Big Valley, where the hockeyists had travelled night along with them. The boys had just put on their skates and got out on the ice when it came on very cold and Mr Shenkeyer thought his skate and felt, breaking one leg. During the game Frank Whitcomb and Cliff Pruzel had hard knocks from the puck, but in spite of accidents the boys succeeded in tying the game.

W. L. Friend and W. F. Sparrow took Ed Shenkeyer to Stettler just as fast as was possible and Dr. Duckworth found that both bones in the leg were broken. At time of writing (Monday evening) he is resting comfortably

On Saturday both the Misses and Senior Hockey Teams journeyed to Gadsby, but were beaten with the exception of two defeats. Although the Senior team must have had an inkling of what was in store for them, they played exciting, all hockey.

Most of the people are improving. George Sorbie was able to begin his shopping again by the middle of last week. Mr. Sorbie has been on our streets once more. There is considered improvement in Mrs. Hall's family. Jean being able to start to school again on Monday.

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Aid was held at Mrs. Garvin's on Thursday afternoon, with a good turn out. Owing to the President, Mrs. J. A. Hockley, being sick, Mrs. E. Hall kindly occupied the Chair.

The ladies are very busy doing embroidery work for a Bazaar, which is to be held in March.

At the close of the meeting Mrs. Garvin, with Mrs. W. L. Friend as joint hostess, served a very dainty lunch.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. J. S. Graves.

We are indebted to Mr Garvin for the following items:—

On Monday evening, January 14th, the new skating rink at Botha was officially opened, a large crowd enjoying the hour or so the skating rink which was open to all without charge.

The curling rink now in fine shape, very keen and true, thanks to Mr. Kirkwood and Mr. Snyder.

Evening classes are now in progress, instruction being given on Tuesday and Thursday from 7 to 9 p.m. Last Tuesday evening saw a fair turn out, on account of another game being played at time evening the games were cut down to 10 ends.

The large crowd witnessed some very good curling, Mr. Kirkwood's rink skipped by Mr. Gadsby rink skipped by Mr. Hinds won Botha rink skipped by Mr. Hinds, 19 to 5.

Erskine rink, skipped by Mr. Lyon, beat Botha rink skipped by Mr. C. Kirkwood, 19 to 5.

Stettler rink skipped by Mr. Sutherland beat to Botha rink skipped by Mr. Kirkwood, 19 to 5.

After the last draw all were invited to the Botha Hall, where a social time in the community had a lovely banquet prepared by the ladies of Botha, who acted as toast master (assumed the President being shot, suppose Mr. Goddard would call it over and as I am sure it wasn't a running shot) called on Mr. Kirkwood, representing the Stettler Curling Club, Mr. Cornforth of Gadsby, Mr. Lyon of Erskine and Mr. Ford of Canter. All spoke very highly of the class of curling and the hospitality.

Mr. Goddard was called on for a few words and he thanked the ladies for the curling game, also the reason each of the Stettler players were chosen and why he was there.

Mr. Graves was then called to the a trophy which the Botha curlers are to play for this winter.

Mr. Goddard asked that a vote of thanks be given to Mr. Prudden, who has been on the job at the skating rink most of the time during his construction and since the rink opened. This was given with hearty applause.

For further particulars re playing of Stettler players, see Mr. Goddard.

Penn Tong, the Chinaman who has been conducting a laundry and grocery in Botha, for several years, has closed out the business and moved to Stettler.

Old Friendship of the Eldest family will be interested in learning that Mrs. Gardner, Mrs. H. B. Millard died a few days ago. She had reached the 93 years of age and had been in the hospital at Red Deer for about a month.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Friend have both been sick with flu for the past week. Mr. Friend is still confined to bed. Mrs. Friend is still (Tuesday) confined to her room.

Tom Hadley had the misfortune to overturn his car while coming from Gadsby on Monday. Frank Hollingshead, who was riding with him had a rib fractured and Tom was badly bruised.

Red Willow

Mr. A. W. Lord was a business visitor to Donalda on Monday of this week.

School started last week with a full attendance of students and the usual staff of teachers.

Pete Dennis and daughter returned to Red Willow last week, after spending the holidays in Edmonton.

It must have been a false report that our old bachelor A. G. Patterson was married six weeks from last season's meet Miss Bessie Farmer.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Reed are busy moving to their new home on the hill.

Mr. Goddard asked that a vote of thanks be given to Mr. Prudden, who has been on the job at the skating rink most of the time during his construction and since the rink opened. This was given with hearty applause.

For further particulars re playing of Stettler players, see Mr. Goddard.

United Farmers' Delegates Approve Changes In Rural School System Of Alberta

Vote on Resolution Was Fifty Cents Per $1,000 of Assessment—Some Additional Powers Granted to Boards of Trustees and Rating Decided.

Voting 232 in favor to 161 against, delegates to the United Farmers' annual convention at Edmonton approved of changes in the rural school system of this province, as proposed by Hon. Perren Baker, minister of education, when this received the division range Wednesday night. The vote was greeted with cheers as it was announced that the government's policy in regard to drastic changes in the School Act would be largely influenced by the stand taken by the farmers' parliament.

Throughout the afternoon, the debate had been carried on while it was rumored for a short time at the noon hour that the provincial executive was called but it was soon that the vote was so divided that a decisive vote was necessary. The debate was watched with keen interest, numerous delegates to the U.F.W.A. convention from other parts of the province having been present in order to hear the discussion. A large number of spectators were also present, the meeting being one of the most important before the U.F.A. convention.

The resolution that was approved came from Hillside U.F.A. Local No. 710, and was in the following terms:

"Resolved, that we township property for the purpose of the rural school changes in the rural school system of this province should be fixed by the minister of education; and Further, that in the raising of the funds for educational purposes as proposed, we believe that the rural school areas of the entire province should be grouped into one district, having a flat mill rate on assessed valuation, and one salary schedule for teachers, based upon qualifications and experience."

An amendment to strike out the resolution as sent from the local was put and carried.

Supported by G. G. Coste, M. P., a resolution from Hanton Local asking that the high school entrance be reduced either by lowering the number of subjects or the general average to them so that the four year course can be covered by the average pupil in four years, was adopted by the convention.

Resolution Rejected

A resolution asking the department of Education to remove the clause in the School Act allowing a pupil to [illegible] days in a school year, [illegible] 262 a resolution from Lac Ste. Anne Provincial association that would have Alberta cabinet ministers eligible from taking a stand on any question for or against any question before the house.

During the evening session, it was announced that 202 delegates are registered at the convention with the number in room 30 in excess of the attendance last year.

Hon. Mr. Baker entered at the afternoon session that the proposed changes would not involve increased amounts of more than $500,000 a year.

During the evening session, many delegates said that many districts were already spending more than the proposed taxing powers. He also declared that if the measure is carried through it might lead to the defeat of the U.F.A. Government.

Taking of a plebiscite of the rural provincial election on proposed changes of a campaign of the United Alberta School Act was suggested by a number of delegates when this came into the threshold of the evening's hour's debate on Wednesday afternoon.

Would Not Object

Hon. Perren Baker, who was present throughout the debate, was asked point blank by one delegate if he was willing to submit a plebiscite to the people. The minister replied that he would not object if such a course was thought wise and necessary. He pointed out, nevertheless, that a plebiscite taken previous to the election would cost a considerable sum, while such a vote at a general election was nothing short of a nuisance.

During the first two hours' discussion, many of the delegates criticized the proposed changes, though there was some support in a few quarters. Then it was decided to have the minister make an explanation of the proposals, after which he was confronted with volleys of questions. At 6 o'clock the convention adjourned for the evening session.

Discussion on the proposed Act opened with the reading of the resolution from Hillside Local.

Not Indorse

With one of the most important of all questions now open for discussion, the delegates prepared to let themselves go. After one speaker had shown that the educational problem was one for the whole province to grapple with, another brought out points to show that conditions are not satisfactory so far as the operations of some trustee boards are concerned. He told of one board levying much more money than what was required. In another case, the salaries of the teacher had been made when a teacher trustee had his vote and influence swayed by the delicate pur-

Round the Country

Down near Priddis, Alberta, resides the tenth Earl of Egmont. A newspaper photographs show that his residence consists of a very ordinary farm house, with a pile of wood behind it, almost as large as the house. The Earl evidently spends the summer splitting wood, and he states that he does not intend to go back to England to claim his seat in the House of Lords and to live on his estate.

There are lots of men in Alberta who split wood all winter and think they have the worst job in creation. But they don't know what they are well off.

Splitting wood at one of the best open air jobs in the world. It gives an unsurpassed physical exercise, plenty of fresh air at zero temperatures, good circulation of the blood, a mind free from worry and a remorseless appetite. There are many multi-millionaires who would donate one million dollars for any one of the above mentioned items who never have had them. They possess the things that money can't buy. They have an ancestry that can further trace back the line of Solyman the Great. The first effective implement known to man was the stone axe, and his rise of mankind from semi-savagery, some to stones, settled communities dated from the time that the man was used to clear the bush, and as a preliminary to courtship and marriage.

What we need in this country is an Association of Woodchoppers with a formal organization, elected officers and constitution. It might be called the Gladstone Gold, or some similar name, and prizes could be given annually for the best manner with the axe. It would be surprising the number of amateur men, in all walks of life, who would join.

Now that the U.F.A. Convention has voted for the new School Act, what are the members at Community Hall going to do about those resolutions?

It will be interesting news to subscribers in California to learn that Mr. F. C. We know, of course, that a number of lady fans have the same appreciative costume and the Sunkist is becoming general to discover with heavy underlying during the winter season in Alberta. All that is required is a sweater or winter coat, when one is in the open air. The old fashion of piling on heavy clothing indoors and out is responsible for more colds and flu than any other agency.

The Editor of the Vegreville Observer must have been led by this time that the rule of a benevolent carries its hazards and penalties. For some time the Observer has been jushing the City of Edmonton, and sending keen and witty shafts towards the citizens of that town which were a source of amusement to readers in other parts of Alberta. Fortunately for Edmonton, the Observer has a correspondent in the person of Mr. Henry Doty, who is now 90 years of age. Notwithstanding his great age, he wields a trenchant pen, and he recently went after the Observer hard for its "nasty" remarks regarding the citizens of Edmonton. The Edmonton Journal quoted his article with much appreciation and states that the Observer is the only paper in Alberta which would treat the citizens of Edmonton in that way.

Evidently the City of Edmonton has not yet reached the state of indifference to humorous criticism answered by the City of New York. It must still be in the small city class. The Observer should send the Journal a copy of Lee-ock's "Sunshine Sketches of a Little Town."

CORRESPONDENCE

The C. L. Whit...
Editor, Central Independent,
Stettler, Alberta.

Dear Sir—

Every taxpayer seems to have offered a suitable cleaning-house for ideas, and the Minister of Education in Alberta's progressive educational system. Right I have a theory of nothing to the statements already made.

The time thing that we must do is to abolish the prime aim of the new system. This aim is nothing more or less than the desire to place our educational system on a business basis. It means a co-operative system, or, if we may state it in another manner, an educational combine. The marketing of wheat through a pool, the selling of commodities through chain stores, the combining of power companies, steel corporations, automobile industries, etc., all with centralized control, is looked upon as sound economic procedure. But on the same plan even the suggestion for our educational system, and our worthy friend throws up both hands in holy dismay. Can you imagine a system of time consuming examinations, not interfering with, and all in the midst of the same community, acting as our school boards do at the present time? Let such a condition arise and within twenty-four hours steps would be taken to form an opposition party and establish a new school board. Why not conduct our educational organization along business-like lines?

Having set forth the aim let us consider the objections made to the scheme. First among these stands the over-powering cry of cost. Co-operation suggests a further reduction of educational cost; somebody tells us that existing costs have been cut, but the items maintained—therefore, why increase operating costs. Hey I submit for the approval of your readers, some few figures and statements that are authentic. The figures given are taken from the end of 1927, the latest available.

The net expenditures of the Department of Education for rural districts rose from $1,764,500 to $2,603,900—15.9% increase since 1923, while the average daily enrolment has increased from 52,014.7 to 113,184.7—roughly 56.9%. The total cost of operating schools by school boards has increased from $7,421,271.22 to $11,439,145, an increase of 15.9%. This clearly shows that economy has not kept pace with the increase in the number of pupils. If some have the impression that the expenditure on education is too great, let them ponder on this: in this province in 1927 liquor and amusements involved an expenditure of four and one half millions of dollars—MORE—than the total cost of operating schools.

Another point worth noting is that no matter how the inspection is increased, and it must be, the cost must correspond increase. This brings to mind a statement made by D.W. Chirk in his letter. To quote: "We feel the time to do not get the inspection they should." This remark completely stumps me, as I had been foolishly laboring under the impression that it was the teachers who were inspected. Ah, well, live and learn. To save expenses why not let the teachers and trustees inspect the pupils?

Now let us turn to the critics of the proposed system. Most of them are people who are not directly in touch with education. What does Mr. Average Man know about education? It would be comical if carpenters guided the affairs of the medical profession; it would be ridiculous to expect hosiery specialists to draft tax regulations of jurists. Yet the same idea is applied to education. It is commendable that the public is interested, and that in education to question its organization. Why not, however, seek the opinion of the people who are directly connected with education; who have studied it and who know something about it? Who is better qualified to judge the merits or lack of merits in an educational system than educationists? "Ignoramus Sketches of a Little Town."

Yours sincerely,

longer than expected to prepare the pamphlets. Dealing generally with the improvement of education, the minister said his conviction was that the type of rural life in a community was limited by the standard of the common school education.

In reference to the attention in Alberta, Hon. Mr. Baker said there were still too many schools running a poor class of the year, there was a lack of money, while there was not a satisfactory system of secondary education for rural districts. Pointing to the variations in assessment, ranging from $5,000 to $400,000 a various districts, the minister said still rates ranged from three to forty, while at eighty was reached last year.

"The teacher is the man makes the school. We need teachers who will make it their life work," declared the minister. "Today there is no uniform salary schedule and 1,000 separate school districts engage 2,000 separate teachers."

The school boards were intelligent enough, said, in most cases, were ask enough to carry out their work, said Mr. Baker. He had a great respect for the men and women who were carrying on the thankless task. But what was required was supervision, rather than inspection.

Dropping then there were many drastic changes, the minister declared that it was only proposed that the grading and planning of textbooks be placed in the hands of other authorities elected by the people. The power of the local board would remain as it is at present in every respect.

One hundred and fifty districts would be grouped to elect each district board, and that body's duty would be the hiring and placing of teachers in that division. Every divisional board would have a supervisor and two supervisors to their district.

For the purpose of raising money there was a wider degree of co-operation. The twenty divisions would operate and work under a general board composed of the chairman of each district.

"Not one penny of power is taken by the department. I submit as the government," declared the minister. "The people will be for they have to know and for the divisional board is not responsible to who are power from the taxpayers. It is a co-operation by proxy, as some speakers had claimed."

A general test was made to applied in whole zone which would include cities, towns or villages, while no new tax collecting machinery would be set up. The general levy would be for the purpose of paying the teachers' salaries at the various divisions.

Summing up the advantages, the minister said there would be full time operating of the schools, better provision for secondary education, a fair distribution of the cost of education; protection to rural districts of many experienced teachers instead of their services being lost, through poor means, greater stability, elimination of the unfitness and greater honesty in school districts.

It would also mean the removal of trouble over school boundaries, said the minister.

Hon. Mr. Baker said he recognized that there was a difference of opinion on the proposals, while there was no attention of crowding into effect a scheme for which the people were not educated. He showed that the proposed district system had been considered years ago in other countries.

"This will have nothing to do with the courts or legislation of any school board. It only applies to the paying of teachers," said the minister, in answer to a question.

Questioned about the removal of the inefficient teacher, Hon. Mr. Baker said the local board could prevent if the local training was inefficient, and the superintendent of the division would readily take cognizance of it.

Questioned on the rates expected Hon. Mr. Baker estimated that if the scheme remained at the present levels the increase would not be more than $500,000 for the whole province, or less than three quarters of a mill. He expected, however, that the salary schedule would be a little higher than at present.

"Will the new system be compulsory?" asked Mr. Ross, to which the minister replied: "I think it would be similar to the present system which could pass a per diem allowance and mileage."

WHEN the New Ford was promised to the motoring public our reputation, established by twenty-three years of undisputed leadership, came to the test. Restrictions as to price, raw materials and labour did not exist. The new car should be a masterpiece—the contribution of its makers to the automotive history of the age. Practical idealism would fashion it into the fleet, sturdy, beautiful car of today.

It was promised. Curtains of rumour and uncertainty cloaked the months. It appeared. One year on the highways of the world proved its speed, power, endurance; one glance, its beauty. The promise is fulfilled.

The result of last company and big supper night was sent on the streets of Red Willow on Tuesday morning, when a dead body was found lying on the road opposite W Bellaby's Livery Barn. Evidence of a horrible conflict having taken place was very plain, for the snow was covered in the form of several feet from where the body, torn almost beyond recognition lay. Prints on the white, the ghastly picture and spend funds made a cross got over as no clues to their identity as whereabouts have yet been ascertained, and poor Collier's death will be unsolved.

Red Willow was threatened by fire on Monday night when W. Bellaby's Livery Barn burned. The fire started in the loft by a lantern dropping from where it hung. Another fire started on Chamblain's house from burning shingles, but was put out by the local fire Fighters. The pool room was threatened in danger, but with the favorable wind, was kept to the main building. All the contents of the barn were saved, and the loss was covered by a very small amount.

Soother Vote Of Censure On Provincial Government Rejected By U.F.A. Friday

Premier Aberhart Refuses to Ask That Bills Affecting Banks and Credit Be Referred to Court of Appeal—Debate Continues Tuesday—Opposition Leader Asks

Rejecting a proposed vote of censure on the premier and government which followed Premier Aberhart's announcement of a monetary conference, delegates to the United Farmers' Convention on Friday afternoon also declined to ask that the provisions of the Dairy Industry Act be extended to cover the whole of the province.

The proposed Provincial monument for the government's arrears in the matter of unemployment relief, the act to all Alberta, which failure has been responsible for the non-payment of relief, declared that the number of voters under special relief lists of the act had not exceeded 100 last year, which on the face of it did not warrant calling the provisions of the act in this respect. Another subject brought out by the delegates from various parts of the south have already expanded to the proportions that it would be important to be removed from the application of special provisions of the act, feeling that it was to be upon their progress and had a detrimental effect upon prosperity within the districts concerned.

An early conference will be held between the primary producers of the province, financial interests, representatives of the U.F.A. and others when the whole situation will be discussed, announced the premier. It reports that the working out of the Debt Adjustment Act will be one of the chief matters taken up at that time.

Premier Brownlee, taking the session back to 1909, described various conditions in a part of the province at that time which necessitated the passing of the Seed Grain Relief Act. This measure had been passed with a view to preventing the loss of seed grain and the taking of land out of the hands of local councillors, owing to their inability to pay. That act had been modified by the present Debt Adjustment Act, he stated, but in some cases it was found necessary to continue supervised, said the premier.

"The first point I want to make," said the premier, "is that the Debt Adjustment Act applies to all parts of Alberta in some form or other." While there were special features for a part of the south, such special features in the act was found to be necessary in the north as it was in the south.

Referring to the Brattler resolution, Mr. Brownlee pointed out that that portion had before it an unusual sort, in that it referred to a matter now in the power company. He believed that even to that case, as much relief had been given as in any other part of the province.

Explaining the special features in the act applying to the south part of the province, the premier said that in that area the land was largely owned by the legislature and had to be offered by the lands department before any other disposition could be made. Also a left over reserve had been created from various parts, and these were also subject to the credit of farmers doing business in the municipality.

Between 10 and 100 cases, certainly not more than under the number for each of the districts mentioned, came under final last year, Mr. Brownlee stated. If the provisions were applied to the north, there would not even be that number.

Would the application of these special features in the north prejudice the interests of the bondholders with borrowers now? That is the practical question that has to be faced," said the premier. "In my opinion, we can on the whole, meet any other way. Last year by the voluntary features of the Debt Adjustment Act, as per year by the laws in Section 7.

The premier also pointed out that at times creditors have had unjustifiable set-backs in court. He felt that the success of the Debt Act has been as great in the south as in the north.

Consider it true that the special feature would be applied to the whole province when only a small percentage of cases are dealt with in a year," said the premier.

H. S. Mackenzie, Brattler district, who had moved adoption of the vote of censure, declared that the people of some had been in mind when the resolutions were drafted. Many things were said on their holdings today if the act had applied to the whole of the province, he said. What was required was some measure that would not set interest and expensive court proceedings. As the act stood it is not give per-per protection to the farmer, he said. When the vote of censure was submitted, it was carried down by a vast majority, but few countries supporting it.

Another resolution from Brattler provincial executive which was concurred in by a resolution from Lac Du Anne Provincial Constituency Association, asked that provisions of the Debt Adjustment Act be applied to the whole of the province. That extension has been requested at the 1927 and 1928 conventions.

During this discussion, one delegate from the south declared that some of the farmers here were all concerning the government for the fact they had not organized to be such a "cat-and-dog" affair. The government, he declared, could not give protection unless it was at the same time. Pleased it was here in regarding these privileges. Some matter behind the scenes, not only is a refusal to ask the act. On this question of the vote, it was also defeated.

Bothe News

Genuine winter has smoothed on at last and before you temperature is common. On Friday the wind came up and piled the snow quite badly in places. Cars still run, yet the road surfaces a good deal.

Gadsby hockey players came to Bothe on Wednesday afternoon of last week. The game was clean throughout and some good hockey was played. The score stands, the score being 3 to 2 in their favor. A large crowd of spectators watched the game.

The Ward Snyder family had a natural attack of the flu last week and were all down but Mr. Snyder. They are now well on the road to recovery.

The Curling Power has attended this locality much the same as any other epidemic and the ladies are the last to succumb.

The most inveterate housewives drop everything when they have a chance at the rocks.

We heard of one young lady who had a regular battle with a pan of bread dough while her mother was darning.

A curling club was organized here Saturday afternoon with Rev. Gowdy as President, Mrs. Mac Hamilton as Vice-President and Miss Ella Bowden as Secretary-Treasurer.

Any lady in the community wishing to join, get in touch at once with Miss Bowden. The members met on Wednesday and Friday afternoons.

After spending almost a month at home, Miss Grace Walker returned to her school duties on Tuesday. Miss Walker had an attack of the while in town, and spent part of her vacation closely confined to the house.

The Gadsby Junior Hockey Team came to Bothe last Saturday afternoon and lustily defeated our Juniors by the score of 7 to 0. Mr. Page not did so refuse.

Wednesday came up and played a good game of hockey here Saturday afternoon. The score was 4 to 3 in favor of Bothe.

Don Mosier of Gadsby refereed the game.

We are needing in several extracts take from an account of the Gadsby Social wedding, which appeared in a recent issue of the Calgary Albertan.

Against an altar banked with ferns and flowers, a pretty wedding ceremony took place at the first church of the Nazarene on January 16th, at 7 p.m., when Florence Margaret, the youngest daughter of Mrs. Mary Bothe, of Calgary, became the bride of Morris Gale, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gale of Gadsby. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. F. Bain.

The bride, who was given away in marriage by her uncle, R. Bothe, of Didsbury, entered the church to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March played by Miss Alberta Bothe, sister of the bride.

The bride made a pretty picture in her gown of white georgette, with silk lace and rhinestone trimmings. Her veil of tulle fell in a soft cloud from her head band of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses and lillies of the Valley. Miss Edith Patterson was the bridesmaid and wore a gown of pink georgette with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. William Comber was the best man.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was held at the Tea Kettle Inn, after which the guests proceeded to the home of the bride's mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Gale left on a short wedding trip to points in the south. The bride chose for travelling a rose wood ensemble dress with hat to match and wore a muskrat coat.

Shortly after their return they will leave for Nampa, Idaho, where they will reside.

Mrs. E. A. Freund was able to be up and dressed for a short time on Monday. Mr. Freund was confined to the house for a few days with the flu.

Mrs. Wilson dances for the past few days. Last Friday evening Mrs. Bell out along as I accompanied him on the piano. The night being also a regular bit your.

Mr. Fulwich is very much pleased with the way the boys' band is developing. While several of the older members have been coming out to play with the boys, he is very anxious to have more of them. If the older members turn out he thinks there is a fine chance of having a better band than last year.

A business meeting is to be held Monday evening and a real band ing Committee were appointed: Mrs. A. Moser returned to Bothe several days ago, and while the doctor at first thought he was to give him any help, he is now greatly improved by the medical treatment there.

Red Cross is doing in Alberta, only there is no one

A better very rather qualified to speak on Red Cross work than Mrs. Colquhoun. A the social general program will be put on Bothe. Keep the date in mind.

PLASH—As we go to press, word comes to us that another rink from Stettler journeyed to Alsu. Skip Everett, Mackie and Goddard, have gone down to defeat in the Bothe Curling Rink, 7 to 10, by the Bothe Bottering Boys, C. R. MacKay. What last cost Mr. MacKay looked as though he might be wondering when they would send some really good curlers out to meet him.

Everywhere we hear of the weather. Some of the thermometers around the town simply have given up the spirit of the recorded at below zero nearly on seven weather. However, a number of tickets had been sold and the public should be out around 200. Pocket's Orchestra was in attendance. The last dogs were substituted for the hogs.

How's forget the U.F.A. dance on February 1st, the Masonic dance on February 6th and the Hospital Aid dance on February 14th. Plans are under way to make the last-mentioned event novel as well as successful.

Meeting Of Stettler Board Of Trade

Minutes of regular monthly meeting of Stettler Board of Trade, held in the Town Hall, on Monday, January 21, at 8:15 p.m.

President W W. Sharpe in the Chair

Minutes of two preceding meetings were read and adopted on motion of W. Dunlop, seconded by W. H Hackie. Motion carried.

ACCOUNTS—
National Hotel, 1928 banquet ..$144.00
E. S. Fair, Telegrams 1.25
Moved by G. M. Ball, seconded by George Skinner that there accounts be paid. Carried.

CORRESPONDENCE—
Western Canada Business College re opening in Stettler.
Chairman of Canadian Freight Association, asking for further information in regard to Stettler's application for distributing rates.
Moved by J. Meagher, seconded by D. R. McIvor, that the Secretary procure and forward to the Freight Association the required information. Carried.

In connection with mail service on the Hanna-Warden line, it was pointed out by D. R. McIvor that this was at present very unsatisfactory, mail from Stettler being delayed several days in transit. He reported having made an application to the postal authorities to have the mail exchanged at Warden and distributed from Warden to Hanna.

Moved by G. M. Ball, seconded by W. E. Hacker that the Secretary write to postal superintendents at Calgary and Ottawa supplementing Mr. McIvor's application. Carried.

In this connection it was pointed out by W. H Ball that he was interested to let the mail traffic from Stettler to points on the Rosebud-Warden line.

G. G. Gimwo brought the attention of the meeting to the fact that the 125th Band proposed to broadcast a concert, some time during the latter part of February, over the Journal station at Edmonton. He proposed a plan whereby business people of the town would have an advance notice of this broadcast printed upon their envelopes, thus insuring as large a circle of listeners as possible, and incidentally the attractiveness of broadcast as an advertising medium. He also suggested, with his purpose, the erection of a broadcasting receiver, featuring advertising of our district, which would be sent on our behalf to the various correspondents for a period of, say, five months. Mr. Gimwo's proposal was left in the hands of the Secretary.

It was pointed out that several rural mail delivery routes will be discontinued from Stettler in the near future.

Meeting adjourned.

HACKETT NEWS

Apologies for our week without any news. Your correspondent was under the weather with the grippe.

At last we are having real winter weather. Quite a bit of snow has fallen and it has also been quite cold.

Quite a number of people in the Hackett district have been down with the grippe but all are now much better, except Mrs. Ross.

Mr. Harold Fraser, formerly of Shooting Lake, west of Vancouver, B. C., has come home for a week's visit. Harold came alone, but is not expecting to return alone. We all wish him the best of luck.

Mr. Henry Beer of Ranching, and Mr. Chas. Bussee of Hackett, went fishing to Buffalo Lake for two days last week, but didn't have very good luck, catching only a few fish. They were not half so enthusiastic when they came home as they were when they left.

Miss Delphine Wilson was operated on for appendicitis in Stettler, and is progressing nicely.

Mrs. T. Kent of Delia is at present visiting at the home of her mother Mr. Hehr.

Mr. Frank De Rose of Ranching, is shipping a car load of cattle to Calgary this week.

Miss Elizabeth Kent, who is residing with her cousin,Walter Mr. Hehr, at Hackett, is at present visiting at her home at Delia.

We would advise Ben Bailey to leave the cows in the chicken house after this, as not every them around to his pasture, when he goes visiting, as they are very ready leaders, as experience has proved.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Black and family wish to thank all friends for their kindness and sympathy during the illness and death of their daughter Jean, also for the beautiful flowers.

CURLING

The Annual Bonspiel will start next Monday and continue for three days. Rinks are expected from Carrum Castor, Gadsby, Botha, Erskine Alta., Strome, Forestburg, Camrose, Big Valley and Red Deer, also a R. M. of Iosing of Calgary is also bringing a rink. The committee has drawn up a nice list of prizes, enough for all, and enough for each. There will be eight sheets in operation and local curlers will do their best stuff to have everything complete.

The Bonspiel has all signs of a record this year, and Stettler can take a leaf out of Calgary's experience regarding Bonspiels. Calgary curlers found that nothing were too good for them because the home rinks were not available enough. Having this year the local rinks can make or break the Annual Bonspiel by their measure of sociability if all visitors have a good time they will come next year

Two shifts of ice will be kept in rink at present commencing at 7 and 9 a.m. All through the cold spell curlers filled their dates, sometimes at 60 below zero. The skips are reminded to keep their rocks off the corners when throwing a good rock. It is likely that such rock will be preserved intact for the Bonspiel as far as possible

Stettler Wins Fast Game From Lacombe

Stettler hockey boys clinched their title as champions of the Big Four League by defeating the Lacombe Leaguers by a score of 5 to 3 on Thursday evening of last week, and taking the Lacombe team into camping a score of 9 to 5 on total goals. The local team was minus the services of Pete Mathieson, the goal tender, and Chris Hansen, the rover, but the Stettler line kept going through the game with a rush, and had to use a camouflage sub as for no hockey outcome was concerned. The win for the purpose of striking terror to the enemy and it apparently had its effect. Lacombe was also minus the services of "Pep" Steele, known as "Pep Two" with the local team, and as a result there was not so much scrapping in the Lacombe game, but "Pep Two" can be addressed as a good player. "Pep" will be able to rejoin the Lacombe team in a few days. The game was a fast exhibition, and both teams went at top speed all the time.

Stettler had the edge throughout and should have won on the regular time, but a Lacombe player unfortunately scored a goal in the dying moments of the period, tying the score, 3-3.

The first few minutes of over-time were scoreless, both goal tenders making some nice stops. Then Up. Wright let loose in his second over-time period and rushed through the Lacombe defense with the necessary goal. We might add that Lacombe did not have Jim Gadsby.

Moved by G. M. Ball, seconded by W. Dunlop that the Executive Committee be empowered with G. G. Gimwo, be a committee to represent the Board in arranging details of proposed broadcast. Carried.

It was pointed out that several rural mail delivery routes will be discontinued from Stettler in the near future.

Meeting adjourned.

HACKETT NEWS

Apologies for our week without any news. Your correspondent was under the weather with the grippe.

At last we are having real winter weather. Quite a bit of snow has fallen and it has also been quite cold.

Quite a number of people in the Hackett district have been down with the grippe but all are now much better, except Mrs. Ross.

Mr. Harold Fraser, formerly of Shooting Lake, west of Vancouver, B. C., has come home for a week's visit. Harold came alone, but is not expecting to return alone. We all wish him the best of luck.

Mr. Henry Beer of Ranching, and Mr. Chas. Bussee of Hackett, went fishing to Buffalo Lake for two days last week, but didn't have very good luck, catching only a few fish. They were not half so enthusiastic when they came home as they were when they left.

Miss Delphine Wilson was operated on for appendicitis in Stettler, and is progressing nicely.

Mrs. T. Kent of Delia is at present visiting at the home of her mother Mr. Hehr.

Mr. Frank De Rose of Ranching, is shipping a car load of cattle to Calgary this week.

Miss Elizabeth Kent, who is residing with her cousin,Walter Mr. Hehr, at Hackett, is at present visiting at her home at Delia.

We would advise Ben Bailey to leave the cows in the chicken house after this, as not every them around to his pasture, when he goes visiting, as they are very ready leaders, as experience has proved.

CARD OF THANKS

Chairman of Canadian Freight Association, asking for further information in regard to Stettler's application for distributing rates.
Moved by J. Meagher, seconded by D. R. McIvor, that the Secretary procure and forward to the Freight Association the required information. Carried.

In connection with mail service on the Hanna-Warden line, it was pointed out by D. R. McIvor that this was at present very unsatisfactory, mail from Stettler being delayed several days in transit. He reported having made an application to the postal authorities to have the mail exchanged at Warden and distributed from Warden to Hanna.

Moved by G. M. Ball, seconded by W. E. Hacker that the Secretary write to postal superintendents at Calgary and Ottawa supplementing Mr. McIvor's application. Carried.

In this connection it was pointed out by W. H Ball that he was interested to let the mail traffic from Stettler to points on the Rosebud-Warden line.

G. G. Gimwo brought the attention of the meeting to the fact that the 125th Band proposed to broadcast a concert, some time during the latter part of February, over the Journal station at Edmonton. He proposed a plan whereby business people of the town would have an advance notice of this broadcast printed upon their envelopes, thus insuring as large a circle of listeners as possible, and incidentally the attractiveness of broadcast as an advertising medium. He also suggested, with his purpose, the erection of a broadcasting receiver, featuring advertising of our district, which would be sent on our behalf to the various correspondents for a period of, say, five months. Mr. Gimwo's proposal was left in the hands of the Secretary to arrange details of proposed broadcast. Carried.

It was pointed out that several rural mail delivery routes will be discontinued from Stettler in the near future.

Meeting adjourned.

Union Hall

Bruce Barton recently wrote a book entitled: "What was a Man Before?"

It is not our purpose now to write a review of this book though we have read it closely. What we wish to emphasize now is: "What Per Cent. of Current Gossip May One Safely Believe?"

Go anywhere at anytime of the day and one finds evil reports flying thick and fast about not only the worst people but the best in the community and these things are told as truths.

If we believe them his estimate of his fellow men is lowered and his mind is poisoned against those whom he also learned to love.

Not more than one per cent. of the evil reports set afloat can be safely believed, and that part should be absolutely ascertained before it is fully accepted.

The tongue is an unruly member, and when backed up by evil purposes is dangerous and damnably slightless.

If every person could be led to the late of scattering the virtues of people, and there are many virtues to broadcast, this would be a fine happy old world to live in.

Let's all try it. It won't do any of us any harm—and it may do us a lot of good.

Proposed New Theatre For Stettler

I want to thank Mr. Wills for the article on the new Theatre in his issue of two weeks ago. Let me confirm his statement to my confidence in Alberta and especially Stettler district. This district has one of the brightest futures of any district in this province. Our geographical situation is ideal and most advantageous.

In no part of Alberta, even Canada, will you find finer nor better type of people, progressive, energetic, cooperative their people.

At this point I want to thank the people for the support they have given me. I more than appreciate it. I have endeavored to make the Theatre serve the community need and operate it in such a way that it would command the respect of the public as a whole.

The town and district has outgrown the present Theatre. Running the latter is too small. To spend $4,000 or $5,000 enlarging the present building would not be good business. The business warrants a new building. I have preliminary plans which will provide the maximum income for the minimum cost. The proposed building will be 67 x 120 feet, consisting of a large store and lobby entrance on street front on ground floor The second floor story consisting of three suites of rooms, the theatre at the back of the building. It is a very attractive structure, would be a credit to any community, built of brick, concrete floor, and as fire proof as is possible to build. The approximate cost $25,000.

To meet a building of this type I will have to give the public an opportunity to participate in the profits. I am going to make an issue of preferred stock bearing 8 per cent. bearing security equal to a first mortgage. The building complete and equipped will get up this start by bang on time.

The second floor will be used for lodges, executed by Mrs. Brookland, Mrs. Lake, or, and Mrs. Gregory meets an excellent bench.

The prizes were won by—
Ladies' Prot—Mrs. Webb.
Gent's Prize—Mrs. The Annuals.
Gent's Prize—Mr. John Stobe.
Gent's Second—Mr. H.C. Brookland.
At the conclusion of the above contests, executed by Mrs. Brookland, Mrs. Lake, or, and Mrs. Gregory meets an excellent bench.

The next drive will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Annuals or, on Wednesday night, February 6th.

This should be the outstanding party of the season as the Annuals social-ites will have to give the public an opportunity to participate in the profits. I am going to make an issue of preferred stock bearing 8 per cent. bearing security equal to a first mortgage. The building complete and equipped

Pea And Oat Mixture for Forage

Pea and oat mixtures are commonly grown and considered desirable forage in the older parts of Canada. In the West, however, they are grown very little, partly because less stock is raised and partly because many attempts to grow a mixture have proved ill. Various mixtures and methods of seeding have been tried out at Southern Experimental Stations and time and labor wasted, as observed from these tests during the last five years.

Three varieties of peas and two of oats have been used in mixtures and the usual disastrous contamination was found to be hairy vetch and Stinking rye. Both are annual, tall growing and mature at about the same time. The effects for harvesting at the best stage for forage, which is when the oats are turning color and the peas are well filled with pea.

Mixtures and methods of sowing are: Peas 25, 50 and 75 per cent, peas mixed with oats and sown together. Peas and oats sown in rows in equal quantities alternately like the potato, sown one week and two weeks before the oats. Where mixtures were sown the drill was set at half quantity of each grain. Six-day peas and Victory oats were also sown alone for purposes of comparison.

Peas sown one week and two weeks before the oats and the 75 per cent. mixture of peas yielded somewhat less than either oats or peas alone. When drilled at equal quantities with the oats the percentage of peas in the harvested crop was about 40 per cent. Peas sown two weeks before the oats gave the best mixture of peas and oats, the drill for each at one-half quantity. Cut while the oats and seeds the drill for each at one-half quantity. Cut while the oats are commencing to turn in color to get the best quality of hay.

The Farm Library

The farm library should be one in which every member of each household can find books to suit his taste. To this end the local newspaper, the farm library and the occasional purchase of books should be carefully planned and considered with a view to the development of the home life.

The home library that is most cherished is the one that is slowly built up by putting a book at a time that really fills a need in life. We all know the place that a few treasured books have taken in the lives of the older writers in those formed our literary likes and dislikes and others were added as the years went by. Books that have been read and re-read, books that have been discussed not only in family and community but also with friends, books that have opened up new lines of thought and enriched our lives, books that have given us a great deal to share. Make friends of them, tell them your troubles and joys, refer to the books and add some of your books to make your home.

How Honey May Be Used

Honey, since the world's only source of sweet is still the best and purest of Nature's sweets. Not only is honey a sweet, but it is also a valuable energy producing food, and as such, deserves a place on the daily menu of every Canadian home. It is especially good for children because it makes their natural appetite to crave sweets and also supplies the necessary energy for their play or work.

Honey, the nectar of flowers, gathered and modified by bees, is composed of sugar, water, small quantities of mineral matter and acids. Honey is one of the most easily digested sweets we receive, but when eaten in excess it causes indigestion. Honey is a valuable food. It contains heavy carbohydrates, which are the principal source of energy in the body. Honey is also a valuable food for the brain and nerves. Honey is a valuable food for the brain and nerves. THE STANDARDS HAVE CHANGED—RUMS.

One of the popular shibboleths at present time is "the standards have changed." When lawyer says that to you, ask him what standards are changed and who changed them, and what authority there was for the change. A question or two like that from lawyer it out that there has been no change, except in the possession of those who want to do something they could not do and usually like that the person who inserted the shibboleth had not the slightest notion what he meant.

Alfredina (Sometimes Bad Boss) Thought to Have Drowned

A certain funny young doctor in Aberdeen, on being told that his friend was very ill, and that the patient himself on the case that a certain famous physician was in the city, replied, "you'll have business if you have a doctor like that." "I believe you're right," was the reply. "I'll have to get a better one." "Well, I'll tell you what I can do," the doctor replied. "I'll have another look at him."

THAT the essential of successful advertising is that it should attract the attention and the desire of the reader.

The public does not expect a store to change its ads every week, but it should be changed often enough to keep pace to buy or persuaded to purchase.

After a while big business may come to the gas-lighted business men, the master of ideas and many of wonders of progress of a hundred fold more day of hoked and advertised stuff, but in the long run the public discovers the chaff and that is bad alike for business and customer trade.

Men—Remember, maybe, so universally foolish as Thomas Carlyle said they were—are still animals in the sense, but somewhere between that and the Archangel Gabriel, there is a happy medium. The modern method is the advertising of the merchant, a proper and modest for his commodities, to apply his father business and to the expense of the work-minded. He needs only be able to supply good goods, of course, by goods, I mean every advertised immediately) at least of the quality and quantity represented in the notices and circulars.

Only if it honestly adheres to the Truth is advertising consistently justifiable or even commercially profitable.

THAT IS WHY I SAY THAT THE ESSENCE AND THE SUBSTANCE OF TRUTH ARE THE ESSENTIALS OF ADVERTISING.

OBITUARY

JEAN AUDREY RICE

(Contributed)

Jean Audrey Rice, born October 31, 1929, died January 17th, 1930.

The relatives and neighbors of Mr. and Mr. Edgar A. Rice, of Stettler, were shocked when they learned of the death of the sudden passing of the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rice, on Friday morning, January 17th.

Jean Audrey Rice was born October 31, 1929, and January 17th, 1930, the parents kept her from school, but on the morning of January 17th she was late. Auntie Bits victim of the pneumonia germ, which attacked the little body, weakening its resistance and soon burst before the mother, or the name but my grandmother passed away in the year 1900.

On Thursday, the 20th, relatives gathered at the home at 2 p.m. and Rev J. G. Goldsmith, pastor, prayed that God would give strength to the sorrowing parents. Interment was made in the Stettler Cemetery.

The little baby casket, banked with flowers, was borne to the hearse by the pall bearers, Messrs. Bert Hamilton, Ernest Bowlsby, Jack Hamilton and Ernest Bowlsby.

Mrs. Campbell, or her sake, accompanied a number of instruments and hymns, and Mrs. Goldsmith sang "Safe in the Arms of Jesus."

The pall bearers were Messrs. Bert Hamilton, Ernest Bowlsby, Jack Hamilton, Patrick Ernest Burnett and John Maddle, and a number of Jean's fresh friends were present. Mrs. Rice did look ill the second time of their little daughter.

The Lord knows why He needed the baby's little one up in Heaven, when she was so much needed by her parents, but today their hearts are aching for their daughter Jean, and the little brother "Buddie" is lost without his companion, and down in the Cemetery a little grave covered with a snow-white blanket, testifies that death is no respecter of persons. We feel for the old and feeble and bedcore in it-self.

And death has tenderly closed the little eyes of Jean Audrey Rice's little body to wake it into a fairer, more beautiful life where the Saviour still says—"Suffer the little children to come unto Me, for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven." Let us today ask the sorrowing ones are saying:

"One precious to our hearts, has gone, But God has called her home, The place made vacant in our home Can never more be filled.

Our Father in His wisdom called The home His love had given, And though in her bright Home He said is sadness.

To comfort the sorrowing parents we would offer these Resolutions:

"They are not gone who pass Beyond the sleep of mind, But they are gone who cause Their sons to be unkind. They are not gone who leave Behind a memory sweet, They are not gone who live In hearts they left desolate.

He is only truth by day
But truer still by night,
And with all suffering's lessons dim,
This dear truth shines most bright;
That those we love but see not
Are nearer unto Him.

To Live Forevermore!

REPORT OF ANNUAL TOWN MEETING HELD LAST FRIDAY EVENING

The annual ratepayers' meeting was held in the Town Hall on Friday evening, January 25th, with a good attendance of ratepayers. Mr. W. Bowlby was appointed Chairman, and the meeting received itself into a business discussion of the affairs of the town.

Councillor Bonnet was first called upon to give the ratepayers a forecast than in regard to the Electric Light and Power Plant. As this plant has now gone out of the control of the Town, the report given will have only an academic interest, for Mr. Bonnet reported a deficit of $1,315.34 on the year's operations. However, the debentures against the plant had been reduced by $4,000.00 during the year. The following is the statement of receipts and expenditures:

Electric Light and Power Operation

Councillor Bonnett was then called upon to discuss his department—that of Sanitation and Relief.

During the year, this department expended $1,703.77 for Mothers' Allowance and relief relief, which included some unpaid accounts for expenses. The remainder of the expense consisted of the usual salary and expenses for caretaker and there was a deficit of $66.34 for the year, due to the higher [illegible] Allowance.

Councillor R. Tarrant then gave a summary of the Skating Rink Department.

This department practically broke even, there being a surplus of $82.66 for the year. It is a good place to keep the hoisters on the right side and Councillor R. Tarrant has been able to do that for the past two or three years. The exact source of its name is the hungry press and the department received $1,035.76 from this source, while the rink itself received $1,192.66. The expenditure was made of skating tickets was $150.00, and from single skating admissions was $164.00. The Carnival and Hawaiian Dance brought in an extra $75.00, while the Lion's Carnival Dance netted $143.47. The total amount $60.15 for 6 ice services. Salaries amounted to $946.32.

In closing Councillor R. Tarrant moved the adoption of the report of the Board of Works.

A total of $8,256.71 was appropriated for this department during the year [illegible] Mr. [illegible] was expended, and the [illegible] was expended for town cropping and filling out of an appropriation of $3,000.00. The amount of [illegible] was [illegible] which left a balance to [illegible] appropriated. [illegible] of the Rest & Co. was $147.00, and the [illegible] amounted to $603.15. CANADIAN IDEAS IN JAPAN

Wm. J. Bolton, representative of public work and secretary of the Imperial Service Garrison Committee, Edmonton, and Private Ramsay Muir, who represented the Canadian National Railways for the benefit of the people of his own country, he was particularly interested in the Canadian exhibit, which was opened in Tokyo on May 3, by H.I.H. Prince Chichibu, second brother of the Emperor. Mr. Bolton represented the Minister for the overseas service, and Mr. Muir, the Canadian National Railways, Calgary district superintendent. Winnipeg and A. McQueen, amateur general superintendent, also accompanied. The former is the designer of the Canadian exhibit, which he had devised from ideas given him by E. D. Bellay, designer and building master of the Canadian National Railways, Calgary division. The exhibit, which is the most successful of all the types tried on the Japanese exhibition, has been viewed by 2,000,000 people. The plant is now in action and the exhibit is a showpiece of the World.

Good Market In Belgium

Cheese Shows Partiality For Many Canadian Products

The extent to which the Department of Trade and Commerce, through its organization, the Canadian trade commissioner in Europe is responsible for the trade for [illegible] firms who desire to go into [illegible] is well known. Only a few months ago Mr. Geary, government commissioner in Belgium, with his headquarters in Brussels, Belgium, was spending six months in Canada. Mr. Geary is returning by way of Antwerp, on the Red Star Liner, Lapland, sailing from Halifax.

A few years ago, he said, Belgium firms generally were somewhat indifferent when Canadian trade commissioners approached them with a view to increasing business. However, said the Dominion representative, [illegible] they could not work up any real enthusiasm. But the situation has changed with end of Canadian firms, the amount of business will be increased very materially." Mr. Geary added.

At the present time Belgium shows a partiality for Canadian wheat, flour, rubber goods, autos, cars, and bees, asbestos, wall paper and [illegible] articles such as the better class of silk goods. As an instance of the [illegible] which has been built up in Belgium, Mr. Geary said that he was approached recently by a firm in Europe which wished to obtain a small shipment of Canadian lobster. Correspondence with a Canadian firm did not produce the desired results, as the latter was not interested in such a trade commissioner, during his visit to Canada, called on the firm they decided to send over a small shipment.

Between last March and September, a period of only six months, the Belgian firm bought [illegible] worth of lobsters from the Canadian firm, how they have satisfied them that they will require an additional [illegible] worth during the present season.

Mr. Geary says still another instance of how Canadian products are favored in Belgium. On this visit he stated how to send over a small shipment of Canadian cheese and put same out of his pocketbook because there is a demand for them in Belgium. Mr. Geary said he felt sure that this month's shipment will have almost the same experience as the other one, and that he will have no cause to regret his [illegible] into the Belgium markets.

"WITCHCRAFT"

The facts in this story are entirely true. Deutch, in the modern reader's mind, may seem far-fetched.

In a small Welsh village, far from town or railway, lived an old woman. A farm house was her dwelling which she shared with her son and [illegible]

Many visitors from all parts of the [illegible] country went to her. Why? Because it was rumored that she was a witch. A true witch of the very worst sense. She cast no evil spells, or did so well, in fact she was overjoined to her bed, so even if she [illegible] during the midday ages she might [illegible] the stake or river.

A young wife would refer to her husband how a very bad [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] old lady would quote in a week many [illegible] one of her remedies. "Go [illegible] home, eat an [illegible] [illegible] farther long. Let your husband and the herb from it, and then take and bury it in the ground as your husband [illegible]

The wife would return home and follow instructions. The husband soon [illegible]

The [illegible] another would visit the witch. "My son has [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] home to your son, and let him eat an [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Labor Leaders in Britain Sir Oppose Tendency For Affectionate Show

Replying to a question in the House of Commons, Right Hon. Sir Robert Sinel-Maitland, minister of labor, stated, the speakers at a recent meeting of the executive committee of Hamilton, Lanarkshire, were two out of six members who had been specially recommended by Labor leaders and others to go to Canada to investigate and see what the conditions actually were. Their reports had been delayed and of course money funds. The speakers of Mons ter had received travelling expenses, but no fees and were not employed by any government department, the minister added.

The speakers in question are both the keenest and opportunities to be found in the Dominion, and a series of such meetings are being organized by the country of labor. It is anticipated they have already resulted in an influx of applications for special government training in agriculture preparatory to emigration to Canada.

BOY I. HERSHEY, EDITOR OF THE HARRISBURG (ILL.) REGISTER, SAYS:—

THAT every person has the idea that some day they will not have to work for a living—that they may obtain a competence in early life to ignore them that the future will not present hardships. They must work to keep from rust in their old days.

The competition is terrible and only to a few will this dream come true. The desire alone will not suffice. When the American home adopts the budget system and learns that systematic saving is the only safe and sure way then will the dreams begin to come true

NEVER IN THE HISTORY OF THE WORLD WAS LIVING MORE WORTH WHILE—NEVER WERE OPPORTUNITIES SO GREAT—IT IS A GREAT AGE.

THE BUSINESS

How unhappy are quite spectacular. Thrilling like the play Dramatic; But fleeting is the mighty one. Is where the unhappy ought to be.

Flaunting with such wondrous grace. But when if they are upon one's floor? Handing from one's fine mesmeric For which one has a mighty zest.

They still will do tote sweeping ups. Dancing near one's lips. 'Tis pleasanter for for them to be Way out upon the mighty sea.

So bring forth soap and sharpen Valet Those lookings shall not dilly dally. Those lookings shall not dilly dally. For what if you this a part so ugly And freeze her lips with your own ice?

A frozen look would she give you, And flee away to pastures new, To find some other, be enslave Who does his supper lip still shave.

In summer months, why let it grow, But are to drop when falls the snow, For who its cold ere drinks hot soup Which makes those icebergs loop the loop.

Brush Up On Your Flying History

By Erwin Gaer
President Gaer College, Chicago, Ill.

The first flight across the ocean was made May 8, 1919, by three U. S. Navy seaplanes, the NC-1, the NC-3 and the NC-4, commanded by Commander Read, manned by the Marine in addition to navigators.

The first attempt at a non-stop Atlantic flight was made by two Englishmen, Alcock and Brown, who left from Newfoundland, May 18th, 1919, and landed in Ireland, 1,900 miles away, three days, 21 hrs., 1,900 miles out. The first successful non-stop flight across the Atlantic was made by Alcock and Brown. They left Newfoundland June 14th, 1919, and landed at Clifden, Ireland, June 15th—time 16 hours and 12 minutes.

The first non-stop flight across the American continent was made in May, 1924, when U. S. Army officers Kelly and Macready flew from Mitchell field Long Island, to the Coast, 2,700 miles in 26 hours and 50 minutes.

Colonel Lindbergh hopped off from New York, May 21st, flying all alone, 3,610 miles to Paris after 33 1-2 hours. He was received in Paris after 33 1-2 hours' flight by 150,000 people and the city's distance about 1,000 miles. But his feat startled the world and made him a household figure. It was the mystery of aviation to known to everyone.

Another long distance record was set by Chamberlin and Levine, who flew from New York, landed in the Hoffman plain at Eisenborough, Germany, 130 miles from Berlin, on June 6th, 1927.

The first successful flight of a commercial airplane across the Atlantic was made in December, 1928, by Wilbur Stultz, a Kitty Hawk, N. C., native and two men in the air for a total of 23 hours and 15 minutes.

Stepping Out In Space

By Erwin Gaer
President Gaer College, Chicago, Ill.

"You go falling down and the earth jumps up to meet you, and you land on your head and it's all over. You don't feel a thing."

That is how Lieut. Lee Ault in an effort to answer persistent inquiries, described the sensation of falling from a height of 1,000 feet without a parachute. Ault was one of the first men to make a successful parachute jump from a plane in flight. Ault's feat was performed at Selfridge field, Mich., May 21, 1919, and was witnessed by Lieut. Harry Chalk, the Navy's star parachute jumper.

Ault was not yet when your body is suddenly dropped off the wing of a plane going at a speed of a hundred miles an hour, you don't feel it, it doesn't hurt you. The first sensation you have from a plane is the landing. When you are all accustomed to the air it seems impossible to believe that you are not held up by air, but rather that the air, and the ground jumps up to meet you. Ault continued:

"Usually when just falling I tumble over and over. This tumbling, however, can be avoided by stepping off in a reclining position with your arms

The POLAR BEAR Is Able to Put up With It ..... BUT CAN YOU?

COLD is fine for Polar Bears, but not so good for folks who belong! A chilly or poorly heated home, for example, is a menace to the health of everyone in the household.

There is only one answer—McClary "Sunshine" Warm Air heating. For real home comfort, for mellow, healthful warmth, no other heating system can compare with it. Like the balmy breath of a June day, the air is kept constantly re-circulated, properly moistened. So unlike the dry hot fumes from radiators!

Burns any kind of fuel, the famous "Ventilator" ring making thorough combustion a certainty, saves money in actual use and it costs much less to install this guaranteed McClary Warm Air System than heat some or steam systems.

CORK INSTALLED
This model is also insulated with cork. Warm air heating systems recommended by engineers of the Underwriters' Assn. A McClary "Sunshine" Coal-heating system for every room in your home.

Round the Country

The Independent does not intend to go much into the figures of the Town's standing at present. It is sufficient to say that the Town is in a good position financially, one of the best in Alberta, due principally to the rule of the power plant by the Water Power Co. The power plant has never been on sound basis. The Town should have conducted a definite and sane campaign. In a few years the plant would have a new building and the equipment of the Town, and the additional capacity would more than cover the receipts. The household rates are getting their light cheaper than before and they need not worry about overload at the plant.

Aside from the value of the power plant the Town is doing about the same as usual. The Revenue Account is, of course, the most important in the annual financial statement and this account is nearly balanced. In the surplus this past year. In 1926, our revenue was $107.46. In 1927 it was $9,107.11, and in 1928 it was only $13.06. Moreover, in 1928, we had no new debentures issued, while in 1927 we issued $9,200.77, while in 1927 there was no debenture expenditure, but for sidewalks of $9,071.65. On the other hand, during 1928 we paid out $3,585.16 for hospital care and other unusual expenses.

The question arises, how it was that we had a large balance in the Town Account in 1926 and 1927, and only a small balance in 1928?

The question arises, how it was that we had a large balance in the Town Account in 1926 and 1927, and only a small balance in 1928?

It is only fair to state that the decline in the assessments and property values for 1928 is largely responsible for the fact that the levy for the year we spent $1,000.00 in excess of the amount collected at about 92.50%. Had the assessment been maintained at about 92.50% the Town would have collected $1,000.00 more than it did, and would have been in 1928 than in the previous year. The deficit, such as it is practically speaking, is due entirely to the fact of municipal power and light plant.

The Power and General Accounts need a lot getting their dues to the Town. Some of the accounts are of such a character that the Town cannot afford to lose them, and the Town should make every effort to collect them. If the Town had paid the $9,000 Prohibition price for the running rate of the Power Plant, we would be in a position to put the plant to work. Well, I guess we have to grin and bear it, and try to give more than due to the shop who became a provincial black-and-white monopoly and put a stop to all free trade.

PROVINCIAL LEGISLATIVE SESSION OPENS

Formal opening of the Third Session of the Sixth Legislature of Alberta, will take place on Thursday afternoon, January 31st. The Speech from the Throne will be read by His Honour Lieutenant-Governor Egbert reviewing the satisfactory progress in many lines of activity during the previous during the past year and referred to a number of important measures on which legislation will be introduced at the present session. The personnel of the ministry is embraced from that of last year with the exception of the Hon. Minister of Lands and Mines, a liberal member from Stettler Riding. In view of the necessary importance of legislation to be considered the session should not exceed three weeks as has been made possible by the change in the end of the fiscal year and the fact that the budget is now available for consideration at an earlier date in the session than in previous years.

Did You Ever Stop To Think

By Edwin A. Bailey

THAT without the aid of advertising, or manufacturing business can succeed, no matter the quality or the price.

I could a concern, who, knowing the merit of their product, planned to manufacture it and then sold local but the field is quality and service.

No concern was opened to make a product that was not of the highest quality, for such a product would be unsaleable very soon; men who tried to make poor quality goods would soon become unemployed and at their wits' end. They made a product that challenged competition.

It was not accomplished fact: they had made the best. They filled their warehouses with manufactured products, and then sat on a number of years of satisfaction. At every hand the dealers answered the salesmen "We never heard of your product. The factory is in their advertisement, and we carry only products that are advertised."

It took this firm one year to wake up to the fact that they could sell a product without advertising, and when they did it was too late—They were in the hands of a receiver.

IF YOU HAVE SOMETHING WORTH SELLING, IT IS WORTH ADVERTISING. IT TAKES ADVERTISING OF QUALITY TO PUT YOU ON THE ROAD TO SUCCESS.

How To Walk And Live Longer

By Erwin Gaer
President Gaer College, Chicago, Ill.

It has often been said that the only good button is a dead button. But the only good pedestrian is a dead pedestrian, the pedestrian causes the most of the accidents on the streets. The work of a motorist is at the time—pedestrian or driver.

Like too my mind, the pedestrian is more to blame than the car driver. I'll tell you why.

I've stood in the Chicago loop during the lunch hour and watched the pedestrians, and watched the pedestrians at play. He comes to be to be a game. Indeed, and it is a wonder that he ever makes from the curb a dozen, or more, cars that dismay him with moving traffic. He seems possessed with the thought that he is perfectly safe while crossing a street and in spite his many very narrow escapes he is no wiser because of the fact that most of cases follow him.

Why do pedestrians do it? Primarily because or hope if you don't watch out, there is going to be a motorist there, and you won't know about it—by either to you to—WATCH OUT!

You can save a motor car driver much inconvenience, and the saving of the business of other people, in case you will remember that you are not the only person on the street or road, and in the lookout, while you are walking, for the other fellow as if you were in a trance.

The pedestrian is the reason for my going habit and those on the heels of a motorist.

I have often said that the $25,000 Prohibition price for the running rate of the Power Plant would be in the hands of Mr. Power has now in is to put the plan to work. Well, I guess we have to grin and bear it, and try to give more than due to the shop who became a provincial black-and-white monopoly and put a stop to all free trade.

The Discussion Club Started and Then Ended Last Night

Failure have two Leagues of Nations that's final effort to launch an international association. For centuries men have sought the solution of some problem. Count Von Bernstorff of Germany appealed to the consolidation for peace, and disarmament. Lloyd George spoke even to open the discussion. The conference was obliged to adjourn many years after it had begun.

Mr. Brownoff asked the discussion in Northern Co-operative Hatchery. A uncertain say changes in system considerably of 150 poultry raisers in the district are anticipated in the association. This output will be handled by the Northern Alberta Co-operative which will look also likely provide accommodation for the hatchery and equipment.

House And Farm Provide Place for Fatal Accidents

Three Farm Fatalities In Assessing Rural Districts Are Reported by Coroner

Did you ever look around your home and farm, and note how many possible causes of accidents are there? Considering the cold-hog and cost the lives of those who are near and dear to you?

Perhaps many of these things are so familiar to you that you scarcely notice them, but the coroner's records for the year already past that your home and farm is anything may be even more dangerous to you than the streets of a big city.

A re-evaluation of the common dangers of the home and its surroundings is recommended in a compilation booklet entitled "Farm Hazards," a copy of which can be obtained by application at supplies to the local branch of the Bank of Montreal. This booklet is issued by the Canadian Bankers' Association and is free to all. Some of the things to guard against, according to the booklet, are: Fire hazards in the home, in designed to overhaul the parts of the metal electrical of the automobile, and many more life or property.

The Literary Society, by Mrs. Field there on Wednesday, February 6th, with a fifth of attendance. Legion in the west. The debate was: "Resolved that the Canadian Legion is doing more for the returned soldier than the Salvation Army." Mrs. Field, Mrs. Hall and Mr. Bowden spoke for the affirmative, and Messrs. H. Rose, Penn and D. Sandilands for the negative. The decision was given in favour of the affirmative.

The children are forward annually to the Sunday School entertainment and will probably begin their preparations soon.

There are but rumors the Old Hotel have come and gone and the backbone of the Gadsby Consolidated School Area Convention is an old memory leading to reminiscence, yet never failing to draw a crowd. The one we remember of ladies of the Hall Committee, who had the forethought to make chandeliers to illuminate the room down the topmost lengths of the ceiling.

All the actors did well, and the presentation of "Mrs. Temperley" during the Wednesday evening event was among the best. Mrs. Temperley was the character of Mr. E. Steele, and part of the proceeds are being handed to the Red Cross Society. Mr. Steele is also the author of "Mrs. Temperley."

The Literary was—Recitation, A. Gordon; Reading, Mrs. L. Jones; Solo, Mrs. Fleming; A. Elmore, G. Armstrong; E. Steele, Mrs. Hall.

Debate: "Resolved, That the Canadian Government is an old fogey." Affirmative—Messrs. Hall, Fleming and Gordon. Negative—Messrs. Steele, Armstrong and Elmore. Mr. Steele was chairman.

Stettler Theatre News

Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton in "Partners in Crime" at the local theatre this week and is probably the best picture these two comedy stars have made since "We're in the Navy Now." It contains quite a few laughs. Beery is a stupid detective, Raymond is a supervisor. Hatton is unfortunate in having a double, and the mistaken identity is the cause of all the fun.

Miss Grey's Story "The Waterhole" on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week is the best Zane Grey picture for some time. Jack is back in the role that made him so popular. Henry Carroll, the heroine, does wonderful work.

ENDIANG NEWS

The annual meeting of the Board of Trade was held Friday, February 8, at 8 p.m. with President T. Rowbotham in the Chair. A very good financial statement was presented by the Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. Ellis.

Last Thursday evening we ran over to Stettler and had a very interesting time, chartered flying in a small way, only direction a few miles from both, and the pilot was very kind. The machine was small, but it flew as clear over the town of it. It flew so close over the house that we able to read quite distinctly "C. P. Rail No. 1." The in the first and small changes are becoming quite common.

Mrs. B. B. Scribbe was taken suddenly ill and was rushed to the Stettler hospital by car, where she is now convalescing.

Alberta Station was a passenger on Saturday morning's train to Stettler, where he visited his mother, who is recovering happily on the wonderful art of Pioneer Widow), followed by a visit to Castor, and will be back at the home of Mrs. George Patrick, Taylor Street on February 20th. Watch for notice and remove the date.

Stettler Theatre News

Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton in "Partners in Crime" at the local theatre this week and is probably the best picture these two comedy stars have made since "We're in the Navy Now." It contains quite a few laughs. Beery is a stupid detective, Raymond is a supervisor. Hatton is unfortunate in having a double, and the mistaken identity is the cause of all the fun.

Miss Grey's Story "The Waterhole" on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week is the best Zane Grey picture for some time. Jack is back in the role that made him so popular. Henry Carroll, the heroine, does wonderful work.

It's A Great Idea At That

By Hewin Grove

President Grove College, Chicago, Ill.

Professor Hayward Ivory Penn, the head of the psychology department of the University of California, has a great idea, one which could be universally adopted by colleges and universities. His method would enable students to study without the usual dull drudgery. Here is the scheme in short—and keep them from dozing over.

"Psychology," he says, "can be employed to make the very facts which are the bane of them that make a mental or a problem driver; or to discover whether the note lessons applicant is capable of understanding to meet requirements to qualify.

"Many people are so constituted that they will never be successful or correctly in a sudden emergency. These types are dangerous in traffic crises. Certain tests can be devised to reveal characteristics in men or women that make them unfit for a driver's license.

"Other tests than those now in use should be employed in determining whether a person has been temporarily rendered unfit to drive by intoxication. Many people are utterly incapacitated by one drink of liquor, while others drive capably after drinking considerable; some even more driving more carefully after having imbibed. The tests now applied by the police in determining intoxication where an accident or reckless driving is involved, all to measure the extent of a person's incapacity after drinking. Too many men, rendered unfit to drive by the use of alcohol, are able to pass the 'drunk test' applied at the police hospitals. And traffic will be made safer when more stringent measures are taken."

RENEW OLD IDEAS

The popular literature of the day is so full of the theory that the thing for a manly man to do is to take his own way. That is what Adam did; so the idea is not a new one.

CHURCH BUILT ON SAND(STONE)

London Preacher To Use Parish Silence Record in Lecture

The Marylebone Chapel, Petter Lane, in the oldest place of Protestant worship in London, having been first opened as such in the reign of Queen Mary, when the congregation met in a shed-like structure built over a disused man-pit.

It possesses another unique distinction in that it is the only place of worship in the Metropolis, and probably in England, in which the preacher has to stand and deliver his sermon in one parish to his hearers seated in another, the boundary line between St. Bride's parish and that of St. Dunstan's-in-the-West running directly in front of the pulpit.

The Reverend Joseph Hughes stepped in 1798, and amongst famous Nonconformists who have preached there were Wesley, Whitefield and Richard Baxter.

Greene gave a demonstration on making hooked rugs.

Mrs. E. E. Franks, sr., sent two crocheted rugs which were much admired.

LLOYDMINSTER DEFEATS THE LOCAL TEAM IN FAST EXHIBITION GAME

Lloydminster played an exhibition game with Stettler at the Arena on Wednesday evening, and displayed clever skill and smartness in good advantage. They were on their way back home from a tour which included Lacombe and Red Deer, both of which teams they took into camp in the professional play-offs. The score at Stettler was 8 to 2 in favor of the visitors, but that does not include the run of play which was very even after the first period.

In the first period the visitors monopolized the game. No one knows just why they scored their goals, but they did. They defeated Edmonton 7 to 1 earlier in the season and must have had some sort of luck in this period. Stettler reasonably plays an open defence and Lloydminster forwards got through in this period without much difficulty.

In the second period the game tightened up considerably, and the visiting goal tender was kept busy, after having to throw himself on the ice to save his goal. Each team got a goal in this period, and Stettler fully held their own, if not having a slight edge on it. The local goal was scored by Jimmie Wilson.

The third period was somewhat like the second, both teams going strong and the play being very even. In fact, if the home team had played through except Coreal, which team they have not met.

Lloydminster will be in Stettler on Friday, February 15th, and will play a return game with the local team. Stettler will be strengthened by a few players, and should make a much better showing than in the game on Wednesday evening.

The line-up:

Stettler	Lloydminster
Goal—Hall	Goal—Hall
Point—Hall	Point—Hall
Cover—Hall	Cover—Hall
Forwards—Hall, Hall, Hall	Forwards—Hall, Hall, Hall

Referee—Hall. Time—Hall.

CRICKET NOTICE

DRUMHELLER, Feb. 12—The Coronation Hockey Club were advised Sunday by President King, of the Alberta Amateur Hockey Association that they had won a bye in the intermediate play-off, and that instead of meeting the Red Deer hockey sight in Drumheller, as Cereal wished, Red Deer would meet the winner of the Lacombe-Lloydminster game being played next week. This means that Cereal will meet the ultimate winner of the Lacombe-Lloydminster-Red Deer series for the championship of Northern Alberta intermediate group, and if Cereal wins, they will meet the winners of the Southern Alberta group for the intermediate hockey championship of Alberta. Cereal is still anxious to play their remaining play-off game or games in the Drumheller Arena, and it is possible that Drumheller, which has been the scene of many splendid senior hockey battles, will be the scene of the high calibre intermediate games.

Stettler Loses To Cereal in Play-Off

Stettler was defeated by Cereal by the score of 4 to 2 last Friday night in a sudden death game at the Arena, in the second round of the Provincial Play-off. The result was unexpected, both by the local team and Cereal itself. Cereal came down Rich a point in the league series by the narrow margin of one goal, and Stettler could not afford the time to spend two or three days on the road, and decided to play the game off at once. The Provincial Secretary was very much pleased at the results to be achieved, especially for teams on the east side of the C. N. E. line. Cereal could not have come here without a stiff cash guarantee by Stettler, and Stettler could not have gone any distance without spending more time and money than the Club could afford. The local team can very well rest on its laurels as champions of the Big Four League. The fans have had lots of good games and will get more locally instead of looking about them at a distance.

WEEKLY LETTER FROM ALBERTA LEGISLATURE

(Edmonton, Alberta)

Crowded with business and filled with interest, the first week of the present session of the Alberta legislature has come and gone. The speech from the throne was read—and read and read—by Lieutenant-Governor Brownlee. The important report of the Provincial Treasurer, Honorable R. G. Reid, was tabled in the House by Hon. George Hoadley, Minister of Lands and Agriculture.

The introduction of the budget speech and the estimates made possible by the new financial year ending on March 31st, adopted by the government. In the budget contained no surprises, but it was a very satisfactory statement of the government's position. Its most important feature was the announcement of a surplus of $1,000,000 for the year ending March 31st, after allowances have been made for all capital items, such as pay-lines and for educational and agricultural purposes. Old age pensions will cost the Government $800,000, and the Provincial Treasurer estimates that a maximum of $1 per cent. will be required for this purpose. The only increased expenditures are for the maintenance of district roads, are the outstanding items of importance in the budget.

Most of the important items of interest in the session have been touched on in the debate on the speech from the throne, the Government's position policy and the matter of natural resources under the new Federal Act. All these and other matters have been dealt with by J. T. Shaw, Bow Valley, the Liberal leader in his opening speech in the Government, which criticized in the proposal of an agreement with the Dominion Government, the tendency to centralization and transference of control in the hands of the Federal Government, and that the Government in the matter of natural resources, the tendency to centralization and transference of control in the hands of the Federal Government, and that the attitude of the Liberal party in connection with bringing Canada into the League of Nations. Government Act compliance with the Government Act could clearly set forth in the votes and proceedings of the House last session.

"THE FOREIGN LEGION"—Celestial Picture to Be Seen at the Local Theatre

The Stettler Theatre will present "The Foreign Legion." Universal's dramatic adaptation of "The Red Mirage," I. A. R. Wylie's sensational novel, as its feature picture beginning Thursday, Friday and Saturday, February 14th, 15th and 16th. This picture should be great news for local motion picture enthusiasts, as the picture is heralded as one of the finest ever produced.

The novel was a gripping story of love and duty, set against the dramatic background of the French Foreign Legion in Algiers. The picture is said to excel the book in the colorful presentation of the lives and adventures, the passions and the tragedy of the men enlisted under they live.

Norma Kerry and Lewis Stone are renowned as the players, men and heroines and both are said to have interpreted their parts in this picture. Supporting them are two popular women, Mary Nolan and Jane Novhren, one the exotic, heartbreaker, the other the adorable sweetheart type. Miss Nolan is remembered as the "vamp" portion of the famous Ziegfeld's Follies. When she left the Follies she went to Germany and starred her screen career there. She is said to be the only one of her first roles since she returned to America.

The story concerns a British sanitary man, and Army officer who becomes infatuated with an unscrupulous vamp, with a blonde of indescribable beauty. Her lovers meet tragic ends, one is said to be snatched from the army and is drop out of sight. He turns up in the Foreign Legion Legion, as a private, under the command of his own fiancee, who had suddenly dropped out of sight himself. The dangerous blonde turns up in Algiers. With her is the British officer, who, in love with the heroine, has taken over the education, the criminal education, of the vamp. Scenes and the final tragedy of all the romance, makes one of the most gripping fire-fronts ever seen on the screen. Supporting the stars, Lewis Stone is the adventurous officer and Mary Nolan is the vamp.

Comedy support will be furnished by Charley Chase—it's alright hope, but give me baseball, there are more home runs.

Dear Sir:

Please find enclosed a Membership Receipt for the Annual Provincial Meeting of Directors 2 and 3, of U. F. Wpg. Inc., to be held in Stettler on February 9th, 1929.

I have been requested to ask you to kindly publish this Resolution in the columns of your valuable paper.

Yours Truly,
W. H. S. ARMSTRONG,
Secretary of the Meeting.

RESOLUTION

"WHEREAS the Baker proposals for a new Rural School Act were endorsed by the Annual Provincial Convention at Lethbridge, and, after a stormy debate defeated by a vote of ten to one, and whereas the Minister of Education stated from the floor that the work of the Convention would be disregarded and the bill submitted to the Legislature.

Therefore, be it resolved that we, your constituents in convention assembled, protest in the strongest manner possible to Hon. Premier Brownlee (Mr. Baker) to oppose the measure in the Legislature to the fullest extent."

Long Beach, Cal.,
February 6th, 1929.

To the Independent,
Stettler, Alberta.

We had a most delightful visit last Sunday. It had rained some Friday and Saturday, but Sunday was fine as a June day, so we had a good crowd and a good time. It was a nice day, about fifty above zero. All had a good time.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Wight of the Sands, were there, and will have soon for Alberta. Says he is not anxious to leave yet, and I don't blame him. There are lots of others there, among them Intelsfield, were present, one of them us for a visit. They visited in Los Angeles and in San Diego and El Cajon and Lakeside and Mr. and Mrs. James of Gadsby. One man came to the tables and thought we must surely know his brother in Winnipeg, as he had been in Canada for forty years, and knew everyone for miles around. He got on Canada is not well advertised in even the States. Also, there were some Swiss, and said he had a brother near Erskine. It proved to be Charles Wilson's brother, and they had a fine time. Also visit with Lee.

You asked how the Stettler district fells were doing here. We'll answer that partly. It is very quiet in building and building, has from two to three houses under way all the time. Tom Watson and Fred Hyde are putting part one of the famous Zeglski's Follies. When she left the Follies she went to Germany and started her screen career there. She is said to be the only one of her first roles since she returned to America.

Oratorical Contest Fills Stettler Theatre

(Contributed)

Old timers do not recall a more enthusiastic gathering than that of Friday evening in the Stettler Theatre. All came prepared to hear orations of a high standard, and none were disappointed. The contestants were Evelyn Erickson of Donalda, Mildred Hart of Gadsby, and Gladys Lee of Stettler. Miss Erickson and Miss Hart gave odes on "Canada's Economic Problems," Miss Lee chose "The Empire of Canada" for her subject. The material of each address was excellent. She in Every was excellent and the language was excellent. The judges were in by the Rev. Mr. Bennett of Donalda, Mr. Cockroft of Gadsby, and Mrs. J. T. Cadogan of Stettler but at da Vicars at the evening, a telephone message reported Mr. Cockroft unable to come owing to bad roads. so the man of judging was left to Mr. Bennett and Mrs. Cadogan, who, at the close reported through the committee manager, to the Chairman, Mayor Blair, a close contest, with Miss Lee the winner. Mr. Blair made the announcement, and coupled with it some very appropriate remarks which he eluded more than once. He expressed to the young ladies who had so pleased the audience with their brilliant speeches. Each senior won full honors in the contest, and he would be and at the end all would have been happy to have met three winner. Instead of one as the Canada Four Central and Northern Alberta. One regretted said that he was going to Rand-n's corner, and we'd beyond Erskine had been invited to be there was a widespread demand that the service be continued.

Mayor A. Blair state that the Council of the Town would in the near future, make a further appropriation of at least $150.00 for this work. President Sharpe mentioned the fact that in the event of the Peven Rebate Scheme of Rural School Organization being accepted by the Province, he would be a logical point for an administrative centre, and stated that the officers of the Board would keep the matter in mind for service at the proper season. He also spoke briefly with the matter of the establishment of health centers.

ENDIANG NEWS

The first Cambrella dance sponsored by the Endiang Women's Institute was a social success, notwithstanding the very stormy day and badly drifted roads of Friday, February 15th, and about fifty children under 15 years of age, in costumes varied and very good, participated in the fun for prizes and frolic from eight to ten thirty o'clock.

The hall was beautifully decorated in red and white hearts of all sizes, and looked like a scene from fairy land with butterflies, fairies, even wild animals, clowns and little girls representing flowers, etc., and two pairs of Gold Dust Twins and an Old Dutch lassie, busy keeping everything in order.

The Chapman Orchestra were in splendid form and Mrs. Chapman had arranged a delightful program of children's dances, which were greatly enjoyed by all.

The judges, who were Miss I. Engstrom, Mrs. A. Knudson, Mr. Duff Lee and Mr. Art Easton, had a difficult task to decide on those most deserving prizes as all were so good. In the end the prizes were awarded:

Best Costume—1st, Arthur McFarlane, Fat Little Nancy; 2nd, Lore Adamson, Bert Ferguson; 1st Marion Greenville, Old Dutch; 2n M. Get far more wear from dainty garments

It isn't because they're so fragile that your crepe garments, fine silks, and laces wear out quickly.

It's the ingenious cleansing in ordinary laundry soaps.

You can get far more wear from the sheerest, daintiest things you own—by laundering them this way:

Use snowy-white, crinkly PALMOLIVE PRINCESS SOAP FLAKES. Nothing but purest soaps. A great foam of suds that gently dissolves all dirt and soil—but never scours the filmiest fabric. And if anything's really brightened and restores delicate colors.

Being pure soap—nothing else—they go farther and clean more thoroughly. That makes them actually economical for use in the washing machine, for all laundering, and for all household purposes at last.

Your dealer has them in handy one-pound packages. Do get some—if only to try—today.

Stettler Juveniles Win First Round In The Play-offs

The Juvenile hockey team journeyed to Lacombe last Friday night to play the return game in the provincial play-offs, and succeeded in defeating Lacombe Juveniles by the score of 6 to 2, thus winning the round by 11 to 5.

All goals scored by the locals were made from close in passes and were as follows:

First goal by Bill Burnett on a pass from Robert Good.

Third goal by Bob Good on a pass from Bill Burnett.

Fourth goal by Ken Mclver on a pass from Tom Costigan.

Miss Linnard was the winner in the first case by the park planning off the grandi's skate, and in the second case by pushing the goal tender clear into the net with the puck.

Stettler made a splendid goal combination as the system of scoring indicates and the result of four Sunday in goal was of a high character for a boy of his size.

The next game will be played in the Red Deer at Red Deer on Saturday night, and the return game will be played here on Monday night. The boys hope for good support at the game at Stettler. Ronald Ingle, who will be able to finance a trip to Lacombe if they win the Red Deer series. The admission will be placed at 35 cents and 15 cents for juniors.

Stettler Lost Game Gleichen Gunners

Stettler lost to the Gleichen Gunners in an exhibition game last Monday night by the score of 4 to 3. This game was a fast exhibition of the old-Bronco between the two teams. The Gunners are all older aggregation and have been playing fast hockey all the season, defeating Strathmore in the provincial play-offs by 9 to 1. They are expert stick handlers, and are considerably faster at the end of the game than at the beginning, showing that they keep in fit shape condition. The local team was also in good form and the game was even throughout. The home got a start in the 1st period when they ran three goals to their opponents' one. Only the fact that they are not fully good a team for the long pull prevented them from carrying off a victory.

In the 1st period, Stettler scored the first five minutes, [illegible] Dunworth scored from the [illegible] during off the goal-mouth. Walter Duckworth scored another shortly after when the puck bobbed in and also glanced off the goal-tender. FORD NEWS

One of the prime secrets of the smooth riding quality and the sturdiness and long life of the new Model 'A' Ford car is the type of transverse, semi-elliptic springs with which it is equipped.

The weight carried by an automobile or other spring-equipped vehicles is divided into two classes—the sprung weight and unsprung weight. The sprung weight is all the weight suspended by flexible springs and the unsprung weight is dead load carried below those flexible spring ends. If this is not clear, imagine a wheel and axle without springs. The weight of the axle and wheel would be unsprung weight, while the weight of the body and chassis would be sprung weight.

The ideal spring suspension would be one in which the unsprung weight would be as little as possible, and the sprung weight as much as possible. The reason for this is that the unsprung weight, having no springs between it and the road, must follow every inequality of the road surface, and the greater the unsprung weight the greater the shock to the car and its occupants.

The Ford Motor Company has always been a leader in the design of light, strong, durable cars, and the Model 'A' Ford car is no exception to this policy. Every improvement in design, material and construction that has proved its worth in the many millions of Ford cars built and sold in the past has been incorporated in the Model 'A' Ford car.

The Model 'A' Ford car is the product of the most modern and efficient automobile factory in the world, and is built to the most exacting standards of quality. Every part is subjected to the most rigid inspection and tests before it is allowed to enter the assembly line. Every operation in the assembly of the car is carefully checked and inspected. Every car is given a thorough road test before it is delivered to the purchaser.

The Model 'A' Ford car is the result of the most careful and painstaking engineering and manufacturing effort that has ever been put into a motor car. It is a car that will give its owner the most dependable and economical transportation service that can be had at any price.

ERSKINE NEWS

The Lord Mayor of Norwich paid a surprise visit one day recently, but he had his beauty. He wanted to be kindly remembered to his friends, and to drop the rumor that he had deposited the Scottish crown where one may use transportation rules govern.

Mr. Wesley takes a keen interest in matters educational, and, at one time felt disappointed that he was not chosen to represent his particular locality, but after a comprehensive survey of events connected with the Centennial gathering came to the conclusion that it would only have made a waste of time to even attempt an election when handicapped by a 10 minute embargo.

But regret to many conditions immediately changed on side-spurs of ideas on our visitor thundered disapproval of shelving this important matter from year to year. Why should an important happening of considerable mileage be discontinued to suit the whim of one individual who side-steps the doorway policy of rejecting the "V" to complete rotary-ing link." Why we rejoiced, imply because "The hand that rocks the cradle" etc., etc.

Mr. Wesley became quite excited during the regretful reason of Provincial interest. He feels very keenly for the existence of those whose lives are cast in unpleasant places and in all the opinions that complete confidence will not be received until everyone is satisfied. If non-support are introduced of an unbiased nature in preference to announcing the arrival by a fanfare of trumpets.

Some somewhat of a rather exact, the old chap beamed at the mere mention of Seven Barrels, and relates experiences in days gone by when an ornamental attempt was made to refresh, and wonder-ful effects could be produced by any handy concoction. As we are one to be determined to rest a bit for the entire season in the report of the GIRLS being hoisted to appear in the recently launched comedy — "Tell Me The Truth."

The most question is one that has caused Mr. Wesley many concern for some considerable time. Governments have spent huge sums in an endeavor to cope with the evil. Advocates of remedies used have warmed and bottled throughout the provinces with little or no effect, until the average farmer, with no thought for the morrow, plods wearily on contributing annually to an enormous waste of choice unbelievable proportion by mowing, cultivating, harvesting, threshing, hauling and paying freight charges on weed-seeds. He was quite elated to learn the amount of attention focused on the matter locally, and felt a move must had been struck in recent gathering, rugby-ting that every farmer in his own weed inspector. It is a question of personal thought and application continued His Worship, and I doubt very much if even Old Nick himself could legislate a remedy.

Our esteemed visitor was deeply impressed with Civic Progress, Electric Light, Curling Rink, Skating Rink, Community Board of Trade, and hoped our district would stand united in the Community Hall Scheme. Anything that tends to bring people closer together is hardly conducive to enclosed His Worship as we exchanged farewells.

Another meeting of the Village Council was held last week for the purpose of electing new Councillors, Messrs. Hall and Hall were elected by acclamation for a three year term.

Mrs. Farley arrived Thursday of last week from Hoosier, Alta., and is spending a brief visit as the guest of Mrs. A. S. Lake.

A Leap Year party was the unanimous verdict of those who attended last week at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Brown at the invitation of the Women's Institute. Miss Mildred Foster and A. W. Excellent lunch was served. At the conclusion of cards delightful refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs. A. Orr were in charge of the arrangements.

Business of the evening was taken up with games, musical numbers and the usual refreshments. The luncheon of Mr Y Shortreme and Mr Brown in arranging for sleighs is deeply appreciated. Bothas News

The fact that no Bothas items appeared in last week's Independent, must be blamed onto the C. P. R. mail service. The letter was mailed in Bothas on Tuesday, February 18th, and reached Stettler on Thursday afternoon, February 21st being too late for publication.

The Institute card party last week was a decided success. There were players for eleven tables. Mrs. Ernest Armstrong won first prize for ladies, while Fred Rosie won first for gents, and Mrs. E. contract received the consolation prize. At midnight luncheon was served. After which the young folk danced while the elders were carried away. These parties are not a great success financially but it gives us a time to see our neighbors and enjoy a pleasant social evening.

Word has been received of the death of Mrs. John Cox at Bournemouth, Ontario, on February 18th. Mrs. Cox died very suddenly and was a most personally young woman, being only 37 years old. The Cox family are well known in this district and Mrs. Cox was a faithful member of our Missionary Society for many years, while both Mr and Mrs. Cox took an active part in the church. A great deal of sympathy is felt for Mr. Cox and the family in their loss.

Mr Storey representative of the Sunshine Waterwork Co., of Edmonton and Regina was in town last week with plans for a new school building. Mr. Reider is again on the sick list. Her daughter Mrs. L. Medical Needs Of Outlying Areas Discussed By Legislature

Doctors and Equipment of Overcrowded Districts Considered

(U. F. A. Member)

Mr. Speaker:

I would like to say a few words in connection with the medical needs of outlying districts. I am sure that every member of this House will agree with me that the health of the people who settle on the outskirts of the cities, towns and villages is just as important as that of the people who live in the centres. The time was not far distant when both children and adults looked upon it as a matter of pride to be born in the centre of a large city.

But, only then, had no one had any opportunity for the securing of medical attendance in the outlying districts. Now, we are compelled to set up schools to meet the growing demand for the education of our children.

Medical Needs Must be Considered

Alderman R. H. Parkyn, (Labor), Calgary, was responsible for the following address, which he had prepared for delivery to a meeting of the Health Advisory Board to which press and public had been invited, although it developed into a discussion of Canadian problems and practices. Other phases of the topic of rapid growth of medical needs in new districts will be dealt with in later issues.

The member from Calgary, announced that he had been requested by Dr. Hendley to urging to get more publicity for the work of the Health Advisory Board, so that the people would know the purpose of the board and be able to take advantage of the services of doctors in large centres. He thought it would be well to have the newspapers publish a report of the proceedings of the meeting.

Dr. Hendley, in reply, said that he was anxious to get the people interested in the work of the board, and that he would be glad to have the newspapers publish a report of the proceedings of the meeting.

Mrs. Parlby, Lacombe, said the question of the distribution of doctors was a very important one. She was not in favor of the surplus in districts. She quoted from the report of the Health Officer to the effect that Dr. Johnson, a lady doctor who had formerly been in Calgary, had been engaged by the city of Winnipeg at the munificent salary of $3,000 per month. She thought that the city had carried before it Dr. Underwood to Vancouver at the same salary. Mr. Hanson, of Vancouver, was also engaged by the Calgary city council to put the right brain and the right hand in the right place. After looking into the Vancouver situation, she was told that the Health Officer of Vancouver was receiving $12,000 a year. Dr. Underwood, a free born Irishman, a free born and loveable character, was the lady doctor who had formerly been in Calgary. She thought that the time of investigating the possibility of securing doctors for the outlying districts was the time that had arrived before it developed into a condition of chaos.

Mrs. Parlby: "Where are you going," she asked, "to get the money?" She quoted Mr. Greenfield's qualifications with regard to the right brain and the right hand, and the appointment of medical officers of health. After being told that the Provincial Government had paid the sum of $2,000 a year to Dr. Johnson, a free born and loveable character, this lady doctor proceeded to "dash and whirl" and like Webster that the terms to secure the medical services of doctors in the outlying districts.

After reading the names of the delegates in attendance, Dr. Weather said it was a body of progressive men, and should be capable of giving good sound advice to the Minister. If that were accomplished to the conclusion that it was necessary to secure doctors then it was all right with him. He then gave a summary of the number of men trained as medical men at the University, showing that many had been found to go South to practice.

Dr. Weather said that the Provincial Government had been doing its best to secure doctors for the outlying districts. He had been in communication with the Minister of Health, Ottawa, and had been told that the Federal Government would not assist in the matter. He had been told that the Provincial Government should look after the matter. He had been told that the Provincial Government should look after the matter.

He stressed also the need of good home training in the building up of character.

Charlie is out of work. He happens into the vicinity of a circus. His fresh face is mistaken by the ringmaster for someone the necessities of a pickpocket. He finds himself in the unlucky spot when the wire walker fails to appear for a performance. He is the hit of the show although he does not know it. The girl under this fact known to him and his demand for big wages is gratified. He protects the girl from the abuse of her father, and, in so doing is discharged from the company.

He goes away to start life over again, and when the girl runs away to escape further attacks from her father she meets Charlie. Charlie recognizes in the circus girl one appeals to the young to embrace per-sistence. Charlie is a rich, fellow in the end, and the father receives the newlyweds. The picture will open, then to join the circus. Charlie is thrown hired to assist the dressed of the daughter, but as the circus carnival is about to begin, Charlie's enemies hatred is recollection of what might have been.

Charlie has reached the height of his career in this comedy creation. It is the most popular book, and comparable for his inimitable appeal.

This is what our critic says—"It seems as if "The Circus" is going to prove the most enduring big picture Chaplin has ever made. The outstanding feature of all Chaplin comedies is the fast and every movement of the humorous actor has a special meaning in other words he mixes acting and intelligence. That is what makes him loved and doubtless over other comedians. The story was written by Chaplin himself, and he directed the picture. It is a colorfully entertaining picture deserving the great actor to a sympathetic rest.

Find Was Confirmed by Cape Town Union Observatory

An amateur astronomer living at Rondebosch, a suburb of Cape Town, South Africa, distinguished himself recently by the discovery of a new comet. His "find" was confirmed immediately by the officials of the Union Observatory in Cape Town. The comet could not be seen with the naked eye. It looked slowly, and had no tail. The astronomer's first congratulatory plan to name it Perian comet, after its discoverer, and as encouragement to beginners.

HELPING THE HOUSE AGE

China Is Now Turning Her Attention to Aviation

China, if the signs are read aright is about to "jump" the automobile age and leap from the donkey cart and railroad to the aeroplane, and all that it embraces. This is not to say that motor car manufacturers may not find a lucrative field in the 18 provinces which comprise China proper, for the automobile is making inroads there, but it is almost certain that before the motor vehicle has become to the east what it has become to the west, aviation will have found acceptance as a common means of conveyance.

ONIONS

It may be said of the onion crop that "a little goes a long way." The powerful vegetable is effective in small quantities.

"Till onion seems hurt within the bone,
And sauce suggested, animate the stone."

However, at least, a small quantity is decreed at all times and many people are fond of eating onions as a side dish and of fried onions with meat sauces.

Recent major problems include avoiding root maggot injury and having the crop mature before frosts, but that it will keep for eight months in dry storage.

At the Experimental Station, Morden, Manitoba, onion maggots have been controlled with a fair degree. This past season, four treatments were given. Best results came from a solution of 1-6 ounce of corrosive sublimate and 1 pint carbonate to one gallon of water, which was used in a small tin distributed in the patch from spring until early June. The treatment giving next best control was that applied to the surface of the ground near the plants.

Other means of preventing loss from maggot injury are the growing of transplants in cotton, raising transplants and the use of nets. Egyptian Top and White Welsh onions are hardy perennials. The better is in good favor and supplies abundance of green onions from late April until the latter becomes strong in June. Onion seed sown in the bed some during the first weeks of March later transplanted and finally set in the field in late May give the heartiest tonnage. Allen Craig and Sweet Spanish are of excellent quality and have proven hibernt yielders at Morden. The difficulty with these transplants is the tendency to the rapid sappy growth which condition is conducive to sprouting of the bulbs in early winter. The set do not grow so rapidly but besides forming excellent green onions, give a large crop which tends to mature early and harden up well.

General impressions of types are that white onions tend to be short keepers, red onions tend to cash quickly, but to rather dark in color, whereas yellow onions are general favorites, even though tests show them to receive longer cooking.

W. R. LESLIE Superintendent,
Dominion Experimental Station,
Morden, Manitoba.

BETTER SEED CAMPAIGN IS PLANNED

The use of better seed grain will again be emphasized for the coming spring throughout Alberta as a result of the efforts of the committee recently appointed by Hon. Geo. Hoadley, Minister of Agriculture, from representatives of a number of the better farming interests of the province. Following a similar campaign which was conducted last season a very marked improvement was noted in the quality of road seed for the 1920 crop and it is hoped that this improvement can be still further increased in 1920. A number of radio addresses are being arranged and through the courtesy of the press a number of articles will be written by prominent men. Lectures will be given with elucidation bringing to the attention of farmers a number of subjects in connection which should be avoided if their crops are to give the best possible yield.

The efforts of the committee will be centred on the period from March 11th to 18th, which will be known as "Better Seed Week." The personnel of the committee includes H. A. Craig, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, Chairman; D. A. McCannel, Publicity Commissioner, Secretary; Major H. G. L. Strange, representing the Canadian Seed Growers' Association, and D. E. Galbraith, R. L. A., and Don Bark, representing the Alberta Seed Growers' Association; G. H. Stewart of the Dominion Seed Branch; F. H. Reed of the Dominion Experimental Farms; Dr. A. S. Asnott, University of Alberta, and W. J. Hepburn, Provincial Field Crops Commissioner.

COAST WANTS CHEESY TRADE

Would Gain Larger Share for Canada, says T. S. Dixon

Ottawa.—Canadian hands for trade from the Atlantic to the Pacific are interlocked in such a way as to secure immense benefits for transportation and restful results from their co-operation, taken, said T. S. Dixon, president of the Vancouver Board of Trade in an address at the 32nd annual meeting of the Ottawa Board of Trade.

Within the next two years, Mr. Dixon declared, Vancouver would see exposition of Canadian business more into the Orient in an attempt to further increase the province of the Dominion in the Far East, and gain a larger share of Oriental trade for the manufacturers and producers of Canada.

Botha News

We hear that the Ladies' Aid are planning a splendid fresh program for the evening of the Banner, March 15th. It consists of Irish folk songs and dances, also a comic play "The Irish Lover Pedlar," so I am sure this will be a good laugh for everyone.

The Ladies' Aid members are reminded that the next meeting will be held on the hall on March 15th. They are requested to bring their Banner articles or leave them at any time before the date at Mrs. G. E. Snyder's.

Any voluntary donations will be thankfully received.

March came in with clear skies and gentle breezes, and the snow is disappearing rapidly.

According to reports broadcasted last week Alberta is drier at present than for many years past. Just how much is solid fact and how much is propaganda to help raise grain prices, we have no means of knowing. But considerably more moisture is needed.

The Ice Carnival was planned for last Friday evening, but the mild weather ruined that fun. In order to give the youngsters a chance to display their costumes they had planned it was held in the Hall. The ice was twelve years old and youngsters were in costume and they had a good time, but had the floor until 10 o'clock, after which a dance was put on for the older ones.

We are unable to give the prizes in their proper sequence, but 6 were awarded to the following children.

Harlow MacKay as "Mother Goose."
Don Preddon as "Bigger Brother."
Dick Friend as "Indian Chief."
Josh Garvin as "Charlie."

The Institute holds fortnightly the supper for the dance.

There is more moving on this spring than any other time in the history of this district.

The Irwin family are moving to the Burdett farm which they purchased last summer and which has been occupied by W. H. Cunningham for the past two years.

Mrs. Payne and family are moving to the Glen place just vacated by the Erwin family.

The McKeen family are leaving the Winnet farm and moving on one of Mr. Hilbery's farms north of Red Willow, recently occupied by the Barlow family.

The Heath family are moving from the Bo-ker farm to the place at Zenith recently occupied by Albert Smith. While the Smith family have moved to Stettler.

W. Harrison and family are moving in with Jack Easson.

Joe Meadows and Bob Mabbs have returned from Vancouver, where they spent the winter. They seem glad to be back in Alberta again as it was exceptionally cold along the Coast this winter.

Grandma Oberlechin is not so well again. Continued sickness has weakened her considerably.

The E. Sec family have been suffering with the flu. Kenneth was not at school most of last week, after he became ill. Clarence was taken sick and now Mrs. Sec is laid up.

The Hinkle family are still suffering from the mumps. Edna is just getting over them, while Howard Hinkle is now in the early stages. The combination of flu and mumps has proved a serious one and the children are left in a decidedly weakened condition.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hart spent the week-end with her friend Miss Eleanor Payne.

For the benefit of those who are wondering just when Botha secured a "Reverend," we wish to state that the item should have read Rom Mc-Naughton.

In our list of movers we neglected to mention the Pearce Hamilton family who have moved today to the farm in the Washington District which they have recently purchased.

W. H. Pennoky left on Tuesday morning's train for Montana, where he was called by the serious illness of his son Jack, a boy of 18 years old.

Stettler Juveniles Lose To Red Deer

The Juvenile hockey team were unfortunate enough to lose their return game with Red Deer at the local arena on Wednesday night by the score of 8 to 4, Red Deer thus winning the round by 9 to 5.

The local boys started in well and at the end of the first period the score was 3 to 1 in their favor. Prospects looked bright for a decisive win, but during the second period, Red Deer got going and by aggressive work on the Stettler goal they managed to tie the score by bulging the net four times. The home boys did not keep up their stiff starting pace, and let the forwards concentrated on their play late and the goals were rushed through both defence combinations and installed back-checking.

In the last period the locals broke into the game again and should have won on this period. Owing to hard luck their shots on goal seemed to be deflected by a miracle and one of them hit the goal post and bounced out again. The play was mostly around the Red Deer goal, but the shots by the Red Deer forwards got through and made the deciding score of the game.

All members of Stettler team played well, and they should have no difficulty in keeping the 3-on down after their poor start on the ice. Red Deer was aggressive throughout and with fast combination they excelled in rushing up to the goals and passing them on the final person. They were ably refereed on ice by Referee Bardwell, who called all off-sides with much discretion. The Red Deer forwards-on player a head game and kept going throughout.

The home team as whole play the schedule for this year and with more experience the team should go far in the finals next year.

The fourth party last Friday night was well attended and all present would be sufficient said for the night enjoyed.

May we be permitted to correct a misapprehension which apparently exists in the mind of the correspondent from Gwynne Corners, assistant in the duties of the sporty and hospitable burg known as Botha. The fact that a letter from Mr. Ed. That the letter finally reached its destination is a matter for congratulation, and, while we would not even presume to suggest the postal authorities could possibly make a mistake, we concede the tendency to be annoying and the temptation to "HALL" 'em out. Elks' Band Concert Was Very Good

The Elks' Band, under the leadership of Thomas Fallowell, broadcasted a most concert at Rotter Theatre on Tuesday evening. March 4th in connection with the Elks' Journal. The Journal was a high success and, while most of the band were engaged in the Journal, they rendered a most enjoyable concert. The band selections were each perfect time and harmony, with a good crowd present to appreciate the band selections rendered and as a result the theatre was filled to capacity. Mr. Robert Ross, Secretary of the Board of Trade, gave a brief talk on the Journal and he was followed by Mr. Wallbank, who in a few words explained the purpose of the Journal. Charlie Chaplin in "THE CIRCUS," at Stettler Theatre, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 7th, 8th and 9th.

THE STORY

Charlie is out of work. He happens into the vicinity of a circus. His freedom is measured when he unknowingly becomes the accomplice of a pickpocket. His fleetness and ingenuity carry him to a place of safety. He runs in to a job in the circus as a handy man. His awkwardness causes him to lose his job. When the workmen about the circus call a strike, Charlie is again hired. He falls in love with the circus owner's daughter.

A new performer in the person of a handsome young man joins the company. The girl falls in love with him, not knowing of Charlie's deep affection for her. Charlie's ability to do almost anything under the big top results in his being pressed into service when the wire walker fails to appear for a performance. He is the hit of the show although he does not know it. The girl realizes that her lover is his and his clumsy but big ways is gratified. He rescues the girl from the grasp of her father, and, in so doing is discharged from the company.

He goes away to start life over again, and when the girl runs away to escape further attacks from her father she meets Charlie. Charlie returns to the circus grounds and appeals to the pompous and boastful performer to marry the girl. After the wedding the three return to the circus and the father receives the newlyweds and prevails upon them to remain in the circus. Charlie is likewise hired again at the demand of the [illegible] and in the circus ensues [illegible] ment on to another clip, [illegible] rence is behind in resolution of what might have been.

KEEP PLANTS COVERED

This is the hardest season of the year on perennial plants. Just now, when the sun is mounting higher and becoming warmer, climbers and shrubbery on the south side of the house particularly, are liable to start bringing sap up from the roots. After coming down there is always deep in temperature and this sap may freeze as it burst the tiny cells inside the stem. This damage is not noticed until later on when bud wastly opened are sent out or perhaps none at all. On the shady side of the house there is less danger but it is well in every case to make sure that roses, ivy and shrubbery are well covered around the roots —straw, old flower stocks, leaves and more make the best cover.

Cheese In The Diet

During the last few years certain changes in the diet of Canadians have been made. The more convenient use of dairy products, fruits, vegetables, and the canned cereals, in great quantities are excellent examples. Cheese and a light dessert rank at first in advisable.

The culinary possibilities of cheese are endless and pursuit of great variety. A cheese dish is particularly appetizing on a cold winter evening, and the following recipe for an old favorite will be perhaps a helpful suggestion to some housekeeper.

CHEESE PUDDING

1 cup stale bread crumbs.
1 cup grated cheese.
2 cups milk
2 eggs.
1 tablespoons butter.
1-4 teaspoon mustard.
Salt.

Beat the eggs and add the other ingredients. Let stand in a buttered baking dish about ten minutes, then set in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven.

It is well to remember that dishes containing cheese as an ingredient should be cooked at a low temperature and for not too long a time. Care in this regard is necessary to get satisfactory results.

has resulted chiefly from a lack of knowledge regarding its proper use and place in the menu. If it is used to replace rather than to supplement other "hearty" foods, it will be digested thoroughly and with ease. Where cheese is the main dish of the meal, vegetables are excellent accompaniments and a light dessert rank at first in advisable.

will have to pass on to Vic cattle to only the beginning.

In the older and more prosperous districts, where the mill rate has been reduced to a low rate, the increase will, in some instances, be considerable, but in the new district however, it need it with. You can easily work out the mill rate in your district, when the school will be your present mill rate. Divide the number of dollars required by your assessment roll, the mill give you the mill rate for your number dollars required, subtract this from 75, and add the difference to your present mill rate and that will give you your new rate.

Those districts where the mill rate is increased, enormously object to paying more taxes under they can see the advantage returns for the money expended, and they seriously question the advantage of changing the existing conditions for the sake of 10 per cent. of the small school districts. Those that at present are able to carry on, are going through now what they had to do during their early prosperous days and they feel that they are out of the prime that will assist pay who are to enjoy the benefits.

It is fair to assume that if this proposition is made law that the cost of education will be more equitably distributed, being out of their hands, that they will not be able to keep expenditures but they cannot afford at the present time.

There are those that object to the principle of believing that a compulsory assessment will be of necessity, a considerable amount will be required, especially in the new districts, in opposing the opinion that they should not pay for what they do not use, and believing that local collection and expenditures are the most economical way to get the most benefit out of the taxes.

Many of those who have been paying taxes for many years object to the policy of Equalization of Taxes at the present time believing that it is too late to start, and too costly to attempt it now. But they must view the country as the early pioneer days, that they had to meet and solve those many problems and that those who now occupy the land should contribute according to their ability to pay for the benefits of the taxes that it can bear, and that they themselves are not yet out of the pioneer struggle, and that until they are more prosperous, the Provincial Government ought not to ask them to help other districts. (The heart is going but their financial strength is not sufficient.)

Suggestions were heard to that effect of the scheme that proposed more assistance and increased supervision, and to that assistance in the most economical method at the right time. Others suggested that the Government should make a more definite study of the various districts and their requirements before any legislation was attempted.

Others thought that the Government could not be asked to do more than they were doing at present, and that they were already contributing as much as they could afford.

Others thought

WETASKIWIN MEMBER ATTACKS GOVERNMENT IMMIGRATION POLICY

Plea to Bring in British Immigrant Boys and Education Them in Alberta's Agricultural Colleges, Shares Discussion in the Alberta Legislature

Raising upon the Government's policy of bringing in British immigrant boys and educating them in Alberta's agricultural colleges, a lively discussion on immigration took place on the Alberta Legislature afternoon proceedings by E. E. Spark, of Wetaskiwin, Conservative member here by charge. The debate arose out of the presentation of some people of Alberta for "over-emphasis in settlement without footwork in the future." resulted directly in the overcrowding of the usual hospital of the province, in failure death from lack of rest to make a strong appeal for the condled facilities in the outlying districts and in general misery to many immigrants.

Premier Brownlee took a hand in the debate, setting forth clearly the Government's policy in favor of bringing in those boys and the Government's opposition to the policy of bringing young boys and educating them in Alberta's agricultural colleges, a policy which, on examination, would prove to be one of the Alberta Legislatures Wednesday afternoon proceedings by E. E. Spark, of Wetaskiwin, Conservative member here by charge.

The whole affair started over an item of $15,000 estimate of $18,000 contained in the estimates of the Department of Agriculture designed to assist "Immigration exhibits encouragement of breeding of the normal hospital of the province, in failure death from lack of rest to make a strong appeal for the Cana-ons boy from the older provinces who were looking around and unsuitably treated by the preference he debated was given to British immigrants, and to voice a warning against the indiscriminate coming of foreign immigrants to Canada.

C. L. Gibbs, Lethbridge, Edmonton, lauded him up with bitter charges for guiding "subsidized immigration for the express purpose of reducing wages and standard of living in Alberta by importation of cheap labor," and that the Alberta Government allowed these poor unskilled immigrants to "ride on the backs of the fringes of civilization."

Premier Brownlee rose in defence of the Government against the complaints, statements made by Dr. Gibbs, R. R. Matheson, U. F. A., Vegreville, voiced a spirited defence of the Government's policy of bringing in British boys and educating them in agricultural colleges.

Premier Brownlee said that as far as the short grain harvest season is concerned, it would be better business to bring farm hands in from the western United States and allow them to return at the end of the harvest season. This idea had been advanced by the Alberta Government to the Federal Government last year but it had been favorably received and Alberta had had to accept part of the British miners in the harvest contingent.

Premier Brownlee reminded the House that they were in session short of supply, considering the estimates. The real point at issue was, should the Government continue the policy of bringing in British boys for farm training at the provincial agricultural school.

He took the opportunity of outlining to the House, however, some of the difficulties encountered by the Government in dealing with the problem of farm-help, so that Alberta farmers would not be without harvest help nor yet the province loaded with unemployed at the end of the harvest season.

Can Take 200

Alberta can assimilate as many as 200 British boys per year for the next five years, declared the Premier, and find suitable homes for them in the Province's communities. At present there are more than 400 applicants for boys on file with the Dreyerhouse Ontario assimilate British boys at the rate of 1,000 per year and actually has supported a farm training school to train them. Australia has a similar policy. Boys can obtain no more easily assimilated than men in the opinion of the Premier.

E. C., Liberal leader brought Hon. George Hoadley, Minister of Health and Agriculture; Hon. G. L. McPherson, Minister of Public Works, and Hon. Perren Baker, Minister of Education, into the arena in defence of the Government's policy of educating the British immigrant boys in the provincial schools of agriculture when he charged the Premier of "shuffleboarding" are with "shufflestrap in education." The Government, he declared from information received in order to save its face, predicted to the extent of 50 per cent. 1,000 dead after the next 5 years.

From figures supplied by Mr. Hoadley, which showed that in 1926 a total of 69 boys were brought out from Great Britain, in 1927 a total of 141, and in 1928, 55. The total extra cost to the Government for whole training was $4,363.78, while the Provincial Government received $13,329.06 from the Overseas Settlement League against the cost of training.

Mr. Shaw said it was plain, the Government had been overcharged to the extent of $9,000 and inquired what the Minister of Agriculture proposed to do about it.

Mr. Hoadley thought the extra amount should be applied in a share for the overhead and operating expenses of the schools.

Question Left Over

Mr. Shaw asked a number of questions which had not been replied to with the answers he received, held up the whole of the estimates while started the discussion and the question was left over.

Hon. Herbert H. Webster, Liberal, Calgary said it had been pointed out, that 33 1-3 per cent. 200 have brought over during the past three years had failed to make good. He did not think that this condition proved that the ... was a success.

WATCH THE LAWN

A careful inspection of the lawn is advisable as soon as frost comes out of the ground. The past winter has been particularly severe on watering systems and some of the coldest weather occurring where there was little cover of snow. As a result, there has been a good deal of freezing and thawing, which alternately contracting and relaxing the top layer of the soil and the roots of many fine roots and then kills the grass and shows. To correct this condition, it is advisable to go over the lawn in early spring with a heavy roller or pounder. Here and there spots should get sown and plenty of it. Sprinkling this over a late snowfall is a good plan especially when the snow is crusty and will disappear in a few hours. The seed will sink into the ground with the moisture in a few days.

Stettler Wins Final Game From Lacombe

Stettler and Lacombe played an exciting final game at the Arena on Saturday night, which was the windup in the play-off for the Big Four League. The rules of the League call for home and home games between the first and second teams and first but last the first game at Lacombe on Friday by the score of 6 to 3.

The local team were therefore four goals down when the game started here and on a few minutes after the second period, Stettler scored a quick goal, on Lacombe got in two goals before the home team scored again. They did not look encouraging at all after the first ten minutes of play. However the situation changed for the better before the period was over as Stettler scored two goal on the rebound of a hard playing the first one by Dr. Wright on a close to shot, and the second by Mr. Wright on a pass from Mr. Reibel. Stettler, still four goals behind on the round, and the first period ended with the score 5 to 4 in favor of Lacombe.

However, they were not four goals behind on the round, and the first few minutes of the third period saw the two teams fighting like tigers, each one determined to get away with the game. Neither side was able to score, however, and the game ended with the score 5 to 4 in favor of Lacombe, and Stettler won the round on the total score 7 to 6.

The line-up was as follows:

Stettler—Goal, Wright; defence, Reibel and Rust; centre, Hutchinson; wings, Hall and Hall; rover, Hall.

Lacombe—Goal, Hall; defence, Hall and Hall; centre, Hall; wings, Hall and Hall; rover, Hall.

Referee, Hall; umpire, Hall.

The game was refereed by Mr. Hall, and was one of the cleanest games of hockey ever played in Stettler. Not a penalty was given in the whole game, and the players were to be congratulated on the clean manner in which they played the game. Both teams have been playing hockey for many years, and they showed that they knew how to play the game.

The team will be entertained by a banquet and dance in the Stettler Hotel this evening, which will be attended by the players and their friends.

The next game will be played in Stettler on Friday, March 22nd, when the Stettler team will play the Edmonton Grads for the championship of Alberta.

"COME OUT OF THE KITCHEN"

"Come Out of the Kitchen," a very charming comedy in three acts, will be played by local talent in the Rex Theatre on Monday, March 25th at 2 p.m. with a children's Matinee, 7.30 p.m. under the auspices of the Prentice Chapter of the I. O. D. E. The proceeds to be devoted to the Piano Library.

This production was a notable success at the Colem Theatre at New York and the Strand Theatre in London for months.

The story centers around a household of young people, the head of the house—Dangerfield who finding himself seriously embarrassed, decides to rent their manor-house home to a rich Yankee friend of his, and move into the lodge. The well-to-do Englishman, stipulates that as a condition of the lease, he will retain the services of Jane Hunt and certain necessary servants. The servants' quarters are practically inaccessible to the family, and one of the daughters of the house, Betty, decides to take Jane's place. However, they were dad four goals behind on the round, and the first few minutes of the third period saw the two teams fighting like tigers, each one determined to get away with the game. Neither side was able to score, however, and the game ended with the score 5 to 4 in favor of Lacombe, and Stettler won the round on the total score 7 to 6.

The line-up was as follows:

Stettler—Goal, Wright; defence, Reibel and Rust; centre, Hutchinson; wings, Hall and Hall; rover, Hall.

Lacombe—Goal, Hall; defence, Hall and Hall; centre, Hall; wings, Hall and Hall; rover, Hall.

HALKIRK NEWS

The remains of Mr Carl Dahmer were laid to rest in the Halkirk cemetery on Tuesday, March 12. The funeral service was held at the home of the deceased, fifteen miles north of Halkirk at 2 p.m. Rev. Clegg officiating. A large number gathered for the service indicating the very high esteem in which deceased was held.

Born on March 30th, 1877, in Huron County, Ontario, married in June, 1902, coming west to Alberta in 1904. Mr. Dahmer was an old timer here.

With his three sons, he had carried on successful farming operations and was very much respected by his neighbors.

Death came following a prolonged illness which kept deceased to his bed for several months past. He leaves to mourn his loss a widow and three sons together with his father, aged 89 and other relatives. The funeral procession consisted of over twenty cars and were difficulty was experienced on the journey of 16 miles to the Cemetery. Sections of the road had been dug out with graders or snow plows in order to make the trip possible over the snow.

Mr. Dahmer's death followed close upon the death of another old timer, Alexander (Sandy) Campbell of Endiang, whose funeral service was held last Saturday. Both men were well known and well respected, and will be missed in the district which they helped to make.

A whist drive contest was staged in Tarlton's Hall, on Friday, March 8th, when a number of ladies and gents, boys and about 3 ladies, gathered to see what local artists could do in the way of bashing. Following several preliminaries by various local Tarlton artists, the contest was staged by Cooper and Carl Schwerdfeger. After the conclusion of seven rounds, the decision of the judges was a draw.

Bob Miller had quite a time posting the cards for the judge's benefit.

A change has recently been effected in the Bank staff here, Mr. Bryant, of Stettler, having been transferred to Brederbeck.

THE CALL TO WORSHIP

LISTEN MEDITATION

"If you wish a keen appreciation of its significance, ask the Church inside the screen the symbol of the Christian religion. In a comprehensive and clear word picture it took only a story and a prayer to express the meaning of Jesus as Christians so reverently worship Him, and behind them by which they follow after and it is very interesting as it presents them also to the life that is within, unselfish and sacrificial. That Easter season challenges our minds to ask ourselves, 'What is packing well my life?' 'something my own eyes and comfort?' 'Something the spirit of Jesus Christ?' This is not to follow Christ. His not even good living; for all good living is essential. We have to strength and stature by self denial."

Donalda News

The D. S. S. play, entitled "Mr. Bob," which was presented on March 8th, was a decided success. The players took their respective parts exceptionally well, and provided a real evening's entertainment. The dance after was well attended.

We regret to report that Henry Paige, creamery manager, has been transferred to Lacombe. Henry has made himself very popular in the last two years that he has been here, and what is one less will be Chipman's gain.

Mr Richardson, who will take over the creamery here, arrived last Monday.

O. B. Anderson was a business visitor to Bentley last Saturday.

Little Mary Pederson, who is taking treatments at the Junior Red Cross hospital in Edmonton, is improving nicely.

Mrs. L. Ballatyne, who is a patient at the Royal Alexander Hospital in Edmonton, is recovering slowly after her recent operation.

The I. O. G. F. bridge party, which was held last week was very successful. The prizes were won by the following:—

Ladies—Mrs. R. S. Greenaway, Mrs. Clifford.
Gents—Mrs. Ellis Murphy, Alex Pierce.

Little Mary Hooper was taken to the Junior Hospital last week where she underwent an operation for appendicitis. We are glad to report that she is making a speedy recovery.

Mr. Philip Lund, of Calgary, was in town last Saturday.

Mr. Ed. Hooper left on March 6th for Bentley, where he has secured employment.

Mrs. Ellis Murphy left on March 6th for Bentley, where she will join her husband.

Don't forget the I. O. G. F. dance which will be held in the Donalda Hall on Friday, March 15th.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Hooker and family motored from Vancouver, B. C., last week, where they spent the winter.

Mrs. W. C. Kidd, who has been visiting friends in Calgary, returned to her home last week.

Botha News

The Institute ladies held their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. W. L. Friend last Wednesday afternoon. Such a very good attendance.

The financial question is being discussed again, and after a considerable discussion a social evening was planned, these attending to pay over the cash for each song they have loved. It is hoped this will bring in enough to pay the debts off.

The Father and Son Banquet was held in the hall last Thursday evening. About 65 sons and fathers were present to a bountiful supper which was served by the ladies.

The tables were tastefully decorated with purple and gold city candelabrums and with streamers in the same colors. The motif for the handsome decorations belongs to Mrs. Joe Hall, who spent a good deal of time on them.

After supper was over a Free program was given and the Twin Boys' took leading parts and managed them well.

Rev. Goddard led in the Community Singing, and after several songs, Alf. Edmonds and Lorne Anderson gave brief speeches of welcome to the "Dads."

The replies were made by Mr. Kirkwood and Mr. Hall.

"What a boy has a right to expect from his school." —— Lorne Armstrong. Reply—Mr. Price.

Reply—Rev. J. A. MacKay.

"What a boy has a right to expect from his Church."—Norman Gowen.

Reply—Rev. Goddard.

W. L. Friend was then called on for an impromptu speech and he proved to be an accurate guesser.

Alfred Edmonds acted as Chairman.

The principal speaker of the evening was Mr Gordon Lapp, of Calgary, who delivered a splendid address. Mr. Lapp gave a very interesting address, laying particular stress on what the Twin reports ought to relate.

The tables were cleared away and all kinds of stunts were indulged in for the balance of the evening.

Much credit is due to Mr. Price for the success of this function as the successful responsibility fell on his shoulders.

Lorne Reader and Miss Elsa Bentley are now serving out in the old home place again.

Harry Barrington was recently taken ill with a severe attack of Pneumonia, and is making fine progress at Cudahy. While she is much improved, she is still unable to sit. Lord relief.

A number of farmers attended the Tractor Schools in Stettler last week. The Twin City people entertained their school on Thursday night. The boys all enjoyed all the attentions so lavished on them.

Most people interested in the concert broadcasted by the Elks' band in Stettler last week. The reception was good and the comments on the program were generally favorable.

Mrs. Bentley is confined to her home with a bad cold.

A baby daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Ball in Stettler hospital last Sunday morning. Mother and baby are both doing well.

Mr Bruce Bentley of Edmonton, visited with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Watterworth, over the week-end.

Mr. Bentley owns considerable land around Edmonton and has some splendid small acreages which he rents out. He is also a government man as finished and has had some attractive propositions. Church services will be held at Bentley next Sunday if the roads continue impassable. Service will commence at 11 a m

In a Lottery or in Gambling thousands lose, only a few win.
In Life Insurance nobody loses. Everyone right is protected. The few dollars the poor man is able to save is protected just as carefully as the many dollars the rich man may be able to save.

Annual Meeting of Stettler Presbyterial Of The W.M.S.

The Stettler Presbyterial of the W. M. S., held their annual meeting in the United Church, Carnarvon, on Wednesday, the 27th of February, with the President, Mrs. Adcock, in the chair; twelve delegates answered the roll. After a short devotional service led by Mrs. Adcock and Mrs. Price, reports were given by the delegates representing the different constituencies from Bloomer Bands and C.G.I.T. Groups, all showing a keen interest in their work. It is worthy of note that Lester branch has added four life members to their list this year.

Mrs. Ashcroft of Veteran, then gave an address on the subject: "Pray, Study, Give," to which many beautiful thoughts were conveyed, typical only of a personality such as hers.

Following a short devotional led by Mrs. Ashcroft and Mrs. McKinnon, the afternoon session opened for business reports were received from the following presbyterial officers: Mrs. Prescott, C.G.I.T., Mrs. Horne, Mission Band; Mrs. Scott, Treasurer; Mrs. Wood, Missionary Society; Mrs. Robinson, Associate Helpers; Mrs. D. R. Campbell, Supply Secretary; Mrs. Sim-mons, Christian Stewardship; Mrs. Colley, Treasurer. After a lengthy discussion, it was decided that a grant of $200.00 on our collection for the year 1929.

Mrs. Price then gave a most inspiring talk on "World Friends." One cannot but refrain from wishing the church had been crowded to hear this splendid address.

During the day, at different intervals, solos were rendered by Mrs. Throughmon, Mrs. Bolintyne Mrs. Campbell and Shirley Hill; a duet by Mrs. Bolintyne and Mrs. Yorke Jollimo and an instrumental duet by Miss Hazel Ashcroft and Miss Hilda Adcock, all of which were heartily received.

At six o'clock the visitors and members with their guests to the parsonage of Rev. Armstrong and Rev. Mrs. Armstrong and their home in the Gleichen district.

We take this opportunity to publicly thank Rev. V. H. Hunt for his gift of seven dollars, the proceeds from a dance.

We gladly accepted an invitation from Mrs. G. Hicks to meet at her home the next April meeting.

The next whole office will be held at Mr. Hodsdon's residence, one mile south of Weeden on the night of March 26.

At the close of our meeting our hostesses served a delicious lunch.

Ladies' 1st—Mrs. R. Lorham.
Ladies' 2nd—Opal Buchanan.
Gent's 1st—Robert Bindell.

THE FIRST POST IN ALBERTA

City of Valley Stands On Site of Old Trading Post

When history was in the making on the wooded slopes of Queenston Heights in 1812, another chapter of Canada's story was being written thousands of miles westward, when one of the Hudson's Bay Company's forts was built at the junction of the north and south branches of the Thompson River, headed for two days with 2,000 Indians gathered at Cumberland. A few months later in the fall of the year, David Stuart built the first Fort Kamloops for John Jacob Astor, and here the tools were carried on for many years. To day the city of Kamloops stands on the site of the old trading post, and a busy smelting ore from the Rossland district, and a busy sawmill, are two of the many industries which help to make Kamloops one of the most important cities in the province.

Waverly Women's Institute

The March meeting was entertained at the D. R. McDavid home with Mrs. Asmble, as joint hostess.

The attendance was very good considering the visiting and also sloth weather, who were unable to be present.

There were two visitors, one being a member of the W.I. branch.

Our president, Mrs. T. V. Burton, gave a very interesting paper on "Interesting Birthday and Anniversaries," for the month of March.

Mrs. Harry Brookhart is to prepare a paper for the month of April, to be given at our April meeting.

In the absence of Mrs. James Clark (due to sickness in her family), Mrs. D. R. McDavid was assisted by Mrs. Ted Asmble in sponsoring a social musical contest which was much enjoyed.

Mrs. Ullman will be responsible for the entertainment during the April contest.

A presentation was made to Mrs. Ullman this month in the new member-ship, with her husband and family. Mrs. Ullman has been a faithful member, who will be very much missed by all of Weeden on the night of March 26.

At the close of our meeting our hostesses served a delicious lunch.

Ladies' 1st—Mrs. R. Lorham.
Ladies' 2nd—Opal Buchanan.
Gent's 1st—Robert Bindell.
Gent's 2nd—Peter Asmble.

Round the Country

It is said that many women in Calgary and Edmonton have been packing their furniture and for coats in order to buy oil stocks one day and sell on the next. A gamble of that kind is a risky proceeding. The day will come when the stocks will begin to fall and the number of buyers will drop off suddenly, and the next day the stocks will fall a little more. Then the small buyers who have loaded up will find that they cannot unload except at a loss they cannot well afford. Many men enjoy the kind of a game and they take their gains or losses as part of the day's work. But women as a rule have little cash at their disposal and what they raise is at the expense of the household. These incidents illustrate the true inwardness of a gambling proposition. We can understand the position of an investor who buys oil stocks as matter to help develop a field. If the field proves to be dry he takes his loss along with the rest, and if it proves productive he shares in the profits. But to buy and sell on the market has only too many elements of dynamite to be attractive to those who can't afford to lose.

The Financial Post states that a well which produces 500 barrels per day will give a dividend of 50 per cent. on a par value share. If the stock was issued at par, the dividend declared to 50 per cent., or if the stock rose to 10 times its par value, the dividend still is 5 per cent. At the present time there are two wells at Turner Valley which are producing 500 barrels—Royalite No. 4 and Home No. 1. All the other wells have future prospects but no present yield to justify a high price for shares. The old economic law of supply and demand operates in an oil lease as in steady business. Hence the question is as certain as the Three Rivers Post—what must be take a chance should do so with the full knowledge that in the long run they will receive for their shares in exact proportion to what the hull produces. Those facts are continuous and it all depends who holds the bag.

The Hon. Perren Baker introduced the proposed Rural School Act in the Legislature last week, and when it reached the second reading, it was allowed stand over, at least for the meantime the people are given an opportunity during the next twelve months to come and discuss it to their heart's content.

Although the Bill, as a whole, finds little favor in the rural sections of the Province at the present time, the chief contention is directed towards the personal taxing board, which the people are afraid of as tending towards bureaucratic tendencies. This feature should not have been introduced, as it is not essential and causes people suspicious of the whole scheme.

Mr. Baker did not help matters any when he stated that the power of taxation to be reduced in 1922 from 36 to 30; a reduction of only 16 per cent. This reduction cannot be held at his own door, but it's Government at that time had an easy complacent and the Edmonton Department was the one to suffer. The rural ratepayers control figure out, if the schools have got along with 30 inspectors during the past six years, why there should be the sudden determination to increase them to 60 in the proposed Bill, considering a chief inspector and two assistants in each of the 20 divisions.

The principle of the Bill, is one open to a quite round. The ratepayers in our own particular districts may not see much need for a change, but take the Province as a whole, there are 930 rural school districts which are not educating their children, owing to the schools being closed for a large part of the year.

Edmonton is a State function. The State is responsible for the education of every child, and in order to attain this end, it may be that the school districts as a whole will be required to bear each other's burdens. But even if they did, the additional cost to each ratepayer in the more favored districts would not be more than two or three dollars per year.

The rural trustees may think that they enjoy local autonomy at the present time, but if they look a little closer into the subject they will find that they will have the same kind of local autonomy under the new system.

At the present time they cannot build a school or run the ratepayers, or appoint a trustee, or lay down a course of studies, or supply text books, or have the school inspected, or have the annual meeting without following the rule—and regulations laid down by the Department of Education. In fact the Department may displace the Board of Trustees entirely if it sees fit.

Only in one respect would the new Bill introduce a dangerous piece of text, that is in the formation of a general taxing basis. If the Bill had confined itself to divisional boards the chief objection would be done away with.

The Independent has no interest in this matter except an educational interest. If the Province, as a whole, will benefit by the new system, that will be sufficient announcement. Would it not be a source of satisfaction to every rural school trustee to know that every school in the Province was running full time and every child in the Province getting an equal opportunity for an education? We know too much of the character of the rural ratepayer to think that he would shrink from a small additional levy, if by this means he can make education a real State institution for all the children who live within the boundaries of the Province. But the proposed Bill must be one that will have his confidence.

Baker Figures Education Cost Under New Bill

Minister of Education Says Assessment Will be 7 1-2 Mills on Total

EDMONTON, March 15.—Hon. Perren Baker, Minister of Education, addressed a meeting in support of the second reading of the new School Act at 10:30 p.m. Thursday and was still speaking when the House rose at 11:15 p.m.

"The department does not take one vestige of power from elected boards and neither the department nor the Minister has any power under the new Act that they did not have under the old one," he said.

In opening he said he felt the justice and commendable features of the Bill would immediate themselves to members of the House. Though the Bill was late in being brought down, yet he had a number could complain about ignorance of its contents as it had been before them in some form for several years.

In general the new measure was a result of the existing bill and made a laudable, understandable document. The new bill promoted an improvement in the scheme of administration of rural education.

The most pressing problems of the Province today he thought, was rural education—a problem which was confronting educationists throughout the Dominion. Weakness in the old system consisted of, among other things, the operation of schools only for part time, owing chiefly to the lack of means.

There was adequate provision for secondary education in rural areas in the Bill, a feature which has become more and more urgent in the last few years.

Last June, (quote 8 classes had been and a half times as great as in [illegible] considered it high schools were retained 11 per cent of the whole, whereas, a few years ago it was only 5 per cent.

No Fair Distributing

At present there was not a fair distribution of cost. Assessments varied from $5,000 to $400,000 and mill rate for taxation from 3 to 30.

The efficiency and effectiveness of the schools were directly affected by teachers having to take more hazardous positions elsewhere or to marry.

He claimed that many were lost to the profession of schools and examine on the job if rural teaching was compared with the remuneration and future to give positions requiring a similar amount of training. Your $1,000 was a good start but salaries seldom went beyond that.

At present placing of teachers was haphazard. There was no supervision and no supervision and there was no satisfactory way of estimating the efficient. This was no indictment of the teachers. It was a weakness of the system itself and could not be eliminated until there was a change in the system of administration.

One of the pressing needs was for a larger unit of administration so the desired results could be obtained. Furthermore the teaching profession of the world to what it should be until there was a salary schedule.

Provisions of Bill

The Bill presently before the House [illegible] the local school district as the unit of administration. It provided for the division of the district into three-six and for a local school board, a divisional school board of five and a provincial board of 25, one being drawn from each division, but divisional board would manage only those teachers while the local board would have it functions delegated.

The 20 inspectors would act together for the whole of the Province. Though the Bill was late in being brought down, yet he had a number could complain about ignorance of its contents as it had been before them in some form for several years.

In general the new measure was a salaries of the present rate would amount to $2,000,000. The expenses of the 20 divisional boards with expenses and allowance for 12 meetings a year were estimated at $60,000 a year. The 60 additional supervisors required, at an average salary of $2,000 with an additional $1,000 for expenses, would be $180,000. The total yearly expenses of the general board and office were estimated at $75,000.

Then there would be a grand total of expenses of $2,372,728.

Under revenue the Minister said that the total sum—and value of school districts was $242,000,000.

The estimated assessment rate of 7 1-2 mills would yield $1,710,000.

In addition there were grants amounting to $620,000, then making a grand total of $2,372,728.

There was in his estimate, therefore, a favorable balance of $220,764 which it would be [illegible] amount currently would cover any deficiency in his estimating of expenses. Any increase in expenditure would be an accession of increased valuation because of additional high assessment imposed.

"That is a skyscraper," said the prize.

Lowest Costs with Three-Fuel Power

Three hundred and twenty acres plowed in 42 consecutive hours at a cost of only 6 cents an acre for fuel and oil—that's the record of a Texas Hart-Parr owner. Six cents an acre for one-way-disc plowing, 4½ cents an acre for seed bed work. Only a three-fuel Hart-Parr, operating on a cheap Texas low-grade fuel could make such a record, for Hart-Parr is the one tractor that develops true-rated power from gasoline, kerosene or distillate. Hart-Parrs are made for small, medium or large farms, and have three forward speeds to speed up hauling and field work. Put a three-fuel Hart-Parr to work on your farm and cut farming costs.

Supplementary Revenue Act As Amended Almost Double The Urban Provincial Tax

Alberta Cities Unite In Protest Against Legislation

EDMONTON EARLY BIRD

Proposed "Life Bill From Blue" Is Lost Sheep of Session

Protests emphatic, vigorous, emphatic and unanimous were made in behalf of Alberta cities and towns at a meeting with the Government Monday morning, against the Bill amending the supplementary revenue act now before the Legislature. The proposed legislation was characterized as entirely inopportune and particular exception was taken to the fact that it had been "sprung" without notice in the dying hours of the session and without the urban municipalities having opportunity to consider it.

Mayor Osborne of Calgary, warned it all up by saying that he hoped the present would bear fruit.

"Don't be too optimistic about it," replied Premier Bowen

"Of course, there's a difference in views," remarked City Solicitor L. W. Brockington also of Calgary. "There are reasons and there are reasons and we are not anxious for any more of the latter."

All the cities in the province and some of the towns were represented in the delegation, and all were of one accord in objecting both to the manner in which the Bill had been brought in, to its form, to its contents, and to the amendment to the supplementary revenue act, which is now in connection with another new act establishing the Alberta Assessment Commission. These two measures, declared Mr. Brockington in opening up the discussion, are a distinct departure from present policy and will result in a serious additional burden on the towns and cities.

What the trouble boils down to is that the Government proposes to make the supplementary revenue tax apply to buildings and improvements in the urban centres as well as to land. The 3 mill rate for the latter, as at present levied, is considered a fair rate for improvements. Mr. Brockington wanted to know if that interpretation had as it was, was correct.

Hon. R. G. Reid, said in reply that the prospect legislation is an attempt to equalize taxation. He thought that the municipalities the only direct tax in the province in which there is now a flat rate of taxation. Recently certain legislation has been in force to distribute the revenue over a period of several years. Appeal to the board of public utilities is provided for.

Speaking for Calgary, Mayor Osborne stated that that city is now contributing about $25,000 to supplementary revenues, and if the amendment as both bills now stand will be put at 100 per cent., as may be done under the new act, the amount will jump to $75,000. And this when it had been hoped that the supplementary revenue was only a temporary imposition instead of being increased. The cities had also hoped to be relieved of some of the burden they are now carrying for mothers' allowances, hospital dues and other social costs.

Mr. Reid said it was not intended to tax buildings at 100 per cent. but to take the value of the lands into consideration and equalize the assessments.

Is Principle Fair?

"The first thing to consider," interrupted Premier Brownlee, "is whether or not the principle of consideration is fair. We have evidence to show that some farmers are paying more in taxes than the whole of the village in which their farms adjoin."

"But the farmer shouldn't be relieved at the expense of the city householder," replied Solicitor Brockington. "The financial condition of the province has greatly improved, and yet you propose an additional tax that will be an undue burden."

"No more so," answered the Premier, "than in any other province."

Bill Must Be Withdrawn

Edmonton will enter it lastly, Mayor Burt proceeded to show. With land assessments of $28,000,000 and $37,000,000, the new law will mean that the city's contribution in supplementary revenue will be practically doubled.

"It has come on us like a bolt from the blue," declared the Mayor. "We submit that land are a fair basis of supplementary tax levy, and the property basis, as between city and country, is not fair. We plead with you to let this matter stand over and get more facts and figures about it."

Mayor Bullivant of Medicine Hat, Mayor Barrowman of Lethbridge, Mayor Montgomery of Wetaskiwin, and Mayor Snell of Red Deer (the latter by wire) all took a similar view of the situation and united in the protest. Both Lethbridge and Medicine Hat will be liable for $15,000 to $15,000 more than that at present, and in the case of the former city, Solicitor Bell pointed out that the additional tax would have a seriously discouraging effect on the building of houses already scarce.

As between towns and rural municipalities, the Wetaskiwin Mayor declared that an discrimination against the latter is fully offset by the assistance they get in road grants.

George Web-ter, former Mayor of Calgary, stated that he is not willing to admit that there is such a difference between the rural municipalities and the cities.

Should Be Postponed

Commissioner David Mitchell of Edmonton called the proposed legislation "drastic action" and protested accordingly. In the case of Edmonton, he said, any reduction in the city may be able to make in the mill rate will be nullified by the addition in the supplementary revenue.

The taxation commission's report under Dr. Tory was referred to and Mayor Osborne thought the Government should not take only half-recommendations from it, but should consider it in its entirety.

Premier Brownlee assured the delegation that the Government is not anticipating such more revenue, if any, from the change, its purpose being rather to equalize the assessments and the taxation based upon them. A unfair situation obtains now he insisted and must be adjusted.

A change in the method of assessment is contemplated in the assessment act, the Premier went on to say, that being necessary because the quinquennial assessment now in vogue is due again next year, and if the method so changed stage must be taken this year in the way of preliminary legislation. The process only begins this

POLICY HOLDERS

What do you think of the Policyholders' Association and its attack on the Sun Life Assurance Company?

We do not think you need pay very much attention to the attacks upon the Sun Life Assurance Company, sponsored by the Policyholders' Association. The gentlemen who has contrived this organization with the announced intention of investigating is J. J. Harpell and a large part of his life has been spent in forming associations for this purpose and that.

The organization meeting of the Policyholders' Association was held at St. Anne de Bellevue, Quebec, in November and a report, published in a Montreal newspaper, said that 166 industrial workers were present. The newspaper, however, was one owned and published by Mr. Harpell, and as his paper is at Cedarcrofe, just across the bridge from Ste. Anne, we would suggest a guess that those to 20 per cent. of the 'industrial workers' were employees of Mr. Harpell who felt impelled to attend any meeting called by the boss.

The chair at this meeting was filled, and the secretary was R. C. Reed, both of whom were employees of Mr. Harpell. Most of the officers elected to the Association were recognized as employees of Mr. Harpell by the Montreal Star. Mr. Harpell is driving at and do not pretend to make a guess, but if his Policyholders' Association does not investigation." Mr. Brownlee remarked, "and the Government will have to decide upon its course and stand or fall by it. But we shall take all your representations into consideration."

Financial Post Recommends Sun Life Insurance

In answer to the criticisms that have been supported against Sun Life Insurance Company, the Financial Post of February 16th, 1929, publishes the following reply to the question of one of its subscribers. The local agent of Sun Life in Stettler is Mr. Robert Hoe and h- will be glad to write your policy at any time, in this outstanding Company:

POLICY HOLDERS

What do you think of the Policyholders' Association and its attack on the Sun Life Assurance Company?

We do not think you need pay very much attention to the attacks upon the Sun Life Assurance Company, sponsored by the Policyholders' Association. The gentlemen who has contrived this organization with the announced intention of investigating is J. J. Harpell and a large part of his life has been spent in forming associations for this purpose and that.

The organization meeting of the Policyholders' Association was held at St. Anne de Bellevue, Quebec, in November and a report, published in a Montreal newspaper, said that 166 industrial workers were present. The newspaper, however, was one owned and published by Mr. Harpell, and as his paper is at Cedarcrofe, just across the bridge from Ste. Anne, we would suggest a guess that those to 20 per cent. of the 'industrial workers' were employees of Mr. Harpell who felt impelled to attend any meeting called by the boss.

The chair at this meeting was filled, and the secretary was R. C. Reed, both of whom were employees of Mr. Harpell. Most of the officers elected to the Association were recognized as employees of Mr. Harpell by the Montreal Star. Mr. Harpell is driving at and do not pretend to make a guess, but if his Policyholders' Association does not investigation." Mr. Brownlee remarked, "and the Government will have to decide upon its course and stand or fall by it. But we shall take all your representations into consideration."

LAST WEEK IN THE ALBERTA LEGISLATURE

(Our Fusilier Writer)

Crowded with important legislation and from among reports the most important of the entire session, the sixth week of the Alberta Legislature saw the conclusion of several important matters in the House and adjournment on Friday with the end of the present session in sight by the middle of next week.

Commencing with the power debate on the resolution proposed by J. T. Shaw, K. C., Liberal leader, which culminated in the passage of a Government amendment to the original motion, and ending with debate on the second reading of the new famous new School Act, the week contained also an animated debate on the old age pensions legislation, introduced by the Government, a warm discussion on the subject of pensions for Alberta school teachers, introduction of a private bill weakening the power of sanitary authorities, passages of a large number of bills through several readings and committee of the whole House, a heated debate on the principle of Government guarantee for co-operative marketing activities and amendments to the Game Act designed to protect the fur-bearing animals of Alberta and the keen fallen resident enjoyment from the depredations of the "bootlegger," who, northern members claim, threaten to wipe out with in a few years that important industry in the northern part of the Province.

The chief difference between the power resolution originally proposed by the Liberal leader and the subsequent advanced by the Government and eventually passed, lay in the fact that the Government proposed to go into "partnership" as investigations of the power resources, whereas Mr. Shaw proposed to institute such an enquiry on the very lines that former efforts had been ineffective.

The Liberal resolution further proposed to prevent completely any possible alienation of any of the power resources of the Province during the period of investigation, so that, should the Government propose, as a result of the enquiry, to develop the power resources itself, it would be in a satisfactory position to do so. The Government, however, declined to "tie up" the power resources in this way, and refused to apply for a safe guard in this respect.

In the course of the debate, John Irwin, Conservative, Calgary, introduced an amendment which forced the discussion away from the original suggestion of a survey, upon which both Liberal- and Government were agreed, and sought to bring the Government to a definite declaration for or against Government ownership and operation of the power interests of the Province. By the carriage of the Government's non-amendment, however, the Conservative amendment was automatically thrust aside.

Hector Lang, Liberal, Medicine Hat, for the third time during this, his first session in the Legislative Assembly, was successful in securing unanimous consideration for a resolution which he proposed and under which those Alberta school teachers, who, after long service in the pioneering days, under difficult circumstances and on low salaries, now find themselves by reason either of ill health or old age, unable to continue in the profession, will receive financial consideration from the Government upon investigation of their cases by the Minister of Education. The motion as adopted was a substitute for the one originally proposed by Mr. Lang and later withdrawn by him in the face of Government opposition, which had the same purpose in view but set up an interim arrangement for a contributory pension scheme for teachers "pending enactment of a pension scheme for teachers." During the debate the Liberal, Conservative and Labor opposition presented a solid front to the attitude of the Government henceforth the enactment of a teachers' pension scheme.

Mr. Lang, who this session has secured his interest to a very great extent upon matters of education was also first to open fire from the opposition benches upon the new School Act, as widely discussed throughout the Province, and introduced by Hon. Perren Baker, Minister of Education, his amendment to the second reading etc. declaring that they would predict the Bill as it stands than to risk its accidental completely.

A good deal of business still remains on the order paper, but it is a matter of certainty that the seventh week of the session will see prorogation of the House.

SETTLERS INTERESTED IN IRRIGATED LANDS

A market activity in lots, acreages and farms in the Brooks District is reported. Further evidence of the rapid settlement of this irrigated area is given by the fact that 1,000 settlers have taken up land in the district during the past year. The majority of the new settlers are coming from the Dominion provinces, and from the Western States.

ALBERTA'S 101 SILOATS ARE SHIPPED TO ENGLAND

Ten pairs of live monkeys were shipped from Edmonton during the past week to England. This shipment is the first of its kind to be made from Western Canada, and forms the nucleus of breeding stock for a large English fur rearing concern. The shipment was made by A. C. McFadyen, who states that if the trial proves successful several thousand more rats will be shipped through the next few years. Further reports of the rapid growth of this industry is given by Dr. Hewitt, Superintendent of the C. P. R. Demonstration Farm at Brooks. Dr. Hewitt states that many new settlers are coming into the irrigation district this year than the total of the movement during the past five years. The majority of the new settlers are coming from the Dominion provinces, and from the Western States.

The New Education

(Of the Highriver Rural Staff, Edmonton.)

I read in the Journal a criticism of a suggestion I made some time ago to Rainbow Bureau re cultivated farm tops and education. As near as I can remember, my suggestion was to the effect that it would be a fine thing for Alberta and her farmers if rural farmers could boast about our town history, geometry, the fine arts, and the various other trappings of what we are fit to call "education," and devote their thoughts and energies to the utmost and honorable calling of farming. I had not thought I was going into trouble for making or even a suggestion, but apparently I have aroused the ire of [illegible] critic—brother.

The criticism of my suggestion came from the pen of Mrs. W. A. Foster.

Now asks whether I have not erred from the subject and got the answer mixed up with his children. I think not. The crux of the whole subject in this province is not so much the young people themselves: it is rather the ideas entertained by their elders. From what I hear, see and read, the one nightmare that haunts the farmers of this province is the dreadful fear that their sons might be farmers!

Mrs. Foster accuses me of referring to the "educating the farmer" in a sense. Of course I did nothing of the kind. What I did refer to was "the nonsense which at present is called 'educating the masses.'" Of course, I believe "the masses" should be educated! If I had my way they would be educated far more thoroughly than they are now, but they would get an education that would have some practical bearing on their work in life as citizens of Alberta, whether city or rural, and not merely an impressive list of jargon to enable them to imitate the usual [illegible] of a [illegible] working on a farm is unhappy because of a burning zeal for scholarship or for an honorable career in some profession where [illegible] education is necessary, I will remain but that [illegible] scholarship and not merely an impressive collection of the [illegible] problem as it is now to a very large extent. I suggest that education to be [illegible] should [illegible] based on a system of [illegible] examinations open to all people of all [illegible] and creeds, and that most [illegible] in this competitive examinations the institute would be [illegible] against his fellows and not against an arbitrary [illegible] mark or [illegible].

I suggest that if a boy or girl either in the city or [illegible] should be one of the successful examinees but has not the means to attend high school, the State ought to furnish a scholarship to cover such a case. This would go a long way towards eliminating class and class, both in the rational and military. It [illegible] I believe, be a better way to [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Clean Seed Grain And The Noxious Weed Problem

(By W. J. Hughes, Provincial Field Crops Commissioner.)

Statistics from Western Canada show that the revenue derived from grain production and agriculture as a general is rapidly increasing and each month is shown theirfrom. Still there are leaks in the system which can be overlooked. For instance, the farmers of Western Canada are contributing tremendous losses as a result of the weeds. It is estimated that in 1928 weeds cost the West a loss of from fifty to seventy-five millions of dollars! In fact, a solution to this problem is the most outstanding contribution to Statistics, a survey made by the Dominion Seed Branch in 1925-26-27 under Carlson per cent of the farmers in Western Canada is the source to recovery by weeds and a number in addition have grain which contains weed seeds. The survey also showed that in one season as many as 47 different weeds were found on one farm and as many as 30 on a quarter.

We know and you, much under what conditions these weeds flourish. Weeds are a menace to the farmer, for many reasons, but principally because they reduce the yield of crops. Weeds also contribute to the spread of insect pests and plant diseases. They are also much responsible for the inability to now land and spring crops at the proper time. Weeds are extremely susceptible to the modern methods of farming and have to be controlled in order to obtain good crops and profitable returns. Weeding is an important one. Farmers have proven the value of clean seed and good cultivation methods.

Improvement on farmers have proven the value of clean seed. The requirements for the registration of pure seed, pedigreed seed and commercial seeds. It has been shown that the production of pedigreed seed is one of the most profitable branches of the grain growing industry in Western Canada. Larger premiums are offered for registered seed and more attention is created.

It is, therefore, clear that the matter of weed control, when considered with the question of insect control and the herd of disease, must keep up with the general principle when we is make agriculture an industry that is both practical and scientific.

Let us hope that every farmer in Western Canada will not only practice the use of better seed and good farming principles, but that he will put his knowledge into practice. Best attention to the various factors in good farming practice will go far towards providing a solution to the Noxious Weed Problem.

NEW STANDARDS OF THE NEW FORD

Every fine car of today is beautiful in line and color. It is only checking up the points of inbuilt worth—speed, economy, riding comfort, economy of operation, handling ability—that the superiority of the Ford becomes strikingly evident. The Model "A" Ford stands by itself in the matter of performance and economy up to a new standard of construction heretofore only in the highest priced cars.

Since people buy without investigation of facts and on snap or emotional judgment. Every year it is estimated a million car buyers change their ideas on their car after they have purchased. Investigate the following facts before purchasing your net car—and then decide for yourself which car offers the most value for the money.

DO YOU KNOW

1. That no car under $2,000.00, outside of Ford, is provided with Bendix Double Acting Shock Absorbers as standard equipment?

2. That no car under $1,500.00, except Ford, has triplex shatterproof windshield glass as standard equipment?

3. That Ford is one of the few cars in the low price field to have three-quarter floating axle?

4. That Ford is the only car under Buick with Torque Tube and Radius Drive construction?

5. Ford is the only car under $1,500.00 with free-housed lubrication?

6. That the New Ford has 25 roller and ball bearings in its motor?

7. Ford is one of the few cars in the low price field with a manufacturer irreversible steering system?

8. Ford is one of few cars built today that has five bearings in its standard crankshaft?

9. That Ford is the only car under the high priced cars with silent, six brake, internal, expanding, all-enclosed system?

10. That the new Ford is considerably lighter than other cars built?

11. That aluminum alloy pistons are fashioned to an accuracy of two grams? This is the finest balance of any pistons in any car, regardless of price?

12. That when car is travelling 50 miles an hour, the revolutions per minute of motor is only 1,977?

13. That gear ratio of New Ford is 4.27

14. That the actual road clearance of Ford is 9¾ inches—highest of any American stock car?

15—That the New Ford has proven itself in public hands in the past year as one of the finest performance cars ever built—from standpoint of pick-up, hill-climbing ability, speed and riding comfort.

16—That the New Ford has proven itself beyond doubt as the most wonderful winter car ever built. It starts easy in cold weather and looks snow beyond belief—such its sweep.

17—That the Ford is one of the easiest running motors built?

18—That service and dealer responsibility behind the New Ford that is unequalled by that of any other car built?

19—That the New Ford holds the road at high speeds as good on rare being sold at highest prices?

20—That the New Ford stands out supreme in its field in mechanical design, specifications, equipment, quality and precision workmanship?

21—That the swing to Ford predominance is greater than ever before?—1938 registrations are proving this more to be a fleet every month.

22—That the beautiful color options and custom body lines give the car the exclusive quality appearance as decreed by the most discriminating buyers?

23—It is an admitted fact among steel experts that Ford steel quality is surpassed by none and equalled by few?

24—There are many more points of quality, durability, performance, safety, comfort and economy we would like to show you. A demonstration will convince you. Phone or give us a call.

A Typical Result

Plan, 20 Payment Life; Age at issue, 35; Amount, $1,000.00; Premium, $35.00; Policy issued, 1903; Policy paid up 1928
At end of 15 years:

Total profits accumulated	$170.81
Amount required to prepay future premiums	127.26
Surplus Profits	$ 43.90

The profits accumulated at end of 15 years were more than sufficient to repay all future premiums. Thus this policyholder, instead of having five more premiums to pay, had a fully paid up policy and $43.56 surplus profits. Paid-up policies continue to receive a dividend every year as long as they remain in force.

This is a typical example of what the excellent profits paid by the Great-West Life can do. Profits being paid today are higher than ever before, while the premiums continue at the same low rate.

"Old Iron Sides," the famous picturization this week on a most worthy of note. This picture was a great success in New York.

Under the soft Mediterranean moon, romance grows opulent in lush groves of rustling lace and lovely sea flight. Its Fun to Fight-Two fisted fight; the man go into battle on the upper decks of two gallant sailing ships—But one sees Paris under the banner of love.

Oh! what a cast! Wallace Beery, a soldier and a man of a gun ready to fight or fight. Esther Ralston and Charles Farrell in strong love, a love that laughed at danger. George Bancroft, one of the underworld as a ruthless gunner who would rather fight than eat.

All hands on deck in a great storm. The old gunner will lose hands and thrill the silver sheet fans.

The Country Store is providing some popular every Friday night.

A REASONABLE REASON

"Why do you like ladies where they have best seats?"

"I'm not quite sure," answered Miss Cayenne. "I'm unable to decide whether its because I hope that the gentleman will take my mind off the food, or that the food will take my mind off the gentleman."—Washington Star.

Miss Florence Draper of the Canteen, Hot Box, and Mr. Sun Dog, all from the Technical School, Calgary, spent the holidays with their father Mr. Fred Draper, here.

A most interesting event took place on Tuesday evening when the C.G.I.T. held their "Mother and Daughter banquet" in the Masonic Hall. The decorations were very pretty, combining the table decorations and place cards in blue and white. A delicious supper was served, followed by singing and the toast list. Miss Marie Brimacombe made a capable toastmistress and in her address of welcome stressed the pleasure the girls felt in having with them their former leaders Mrs. J. D. Mosher and Miss Ethel Barton as well as their pleasure in being able to entertain the mothers.

Following is the toast list:—

To the Church, and Sunday School, by Miss Pearl Gould, leader of the "Wide-Awake" Class, and Mrs. Mosher.

To our Mothers, by Mildred Hart and Mrs. W. D. Rich.

To Our Girls, by Mrs. R. Menzies and Norma Gravely.

To the C.G.I.T. by Edith Rich and Mrs. S. Steele, leader of the Sewatis Group.

To the Waitresses, by Winnie Schroeder and Ada Ghent.

The speeches were interspersed with singing C.G.I.T. songs with Mrs. Mosher leading at the organ. The points of the addresses of service mentions, particularly that of Mr. Miller, wherein he spoke of the meaning of the letters C.G.I.T.—Christian Citizenship, Girls Training for all and Training.

Mr. Menzies touched her banquet by very neatly and pat a real tribute to the leaders and

Mr. Steele gave a splendid outline of the C.G.I.T. work in Canada since its start in 1918, pointing out that from a small beginning, thirty-six thousand girls are enjoying the training.

The evening of the banquet was ably carried out by Miss Pearl Gould, assisted by Mrs. Mosher and Miss Ethel Barton.

Mr. Menzies and their leaders deserve much credit for a most successful banquet.

Mr. Grant Pasker from the Calgary Technical is spending his holidays at his home here, accompanied by his friend, Mr. George Bramith.

The death of Mr. Percy Quance comes as a real shock to the community. The funeral is being held from the United Church on Wednesday. Mr. H. Pitcairn was in charge of interment in connection with funeral arrangements.

WILL COMMENCE SEASON'S PROGRAM OF ROAD CONSTRUCTION

A start will be made on Alberta's 1929-1930 program of highway construction as soon as weather conditions permit, it was announced by Hon. C. C. McPherson, Minister of Public Works. The work to be undertaken will include an expenditure of some $1,200,000. The straddling of the road between Medicine Hat and Pincher Creek has already been started and a number of other jobs will be commenced within a short time.

MORE HOMESTEADS TO BE AVAILABLE IN THE NORTH

Some 8,000 homesteads or approximately 1,000,000 acres in the Grande Prairie district and in the Peace River block in British Columbia will be thrown open for entry in the near future according to word received at Grande Prairie recently from the Department of the Interior, Ottawa. The area includes land formerly held as forestry preserves lying between the sixth meridian and the B. C. boundary line and bounded on the north by the south line of Township 81 and on the south by the Wapiti River. An additional area will also be surveyed and thrown open to homesteading. It is expected that entry may be made for some of these lands by about April 14.

Botha News

At early Easter does not always bring an early Spring as the past week has proven. Many March days have been found only in January. Seeding is in many districts in full swing and the acreage will be greatly increased this year. Fall wheat is looking fine.

Mr. Bannister has been appointed to the Board of Trustees for the Botha district as a result of the meeting held in the Rosedale hall.

A large number of Bothaites people attended the funeral of Mr. Percy Quance, held in Sunday last Wednesday afternoon.

On Wednesday evening of last week, a number of neighbors gathered at the home of Mr and Mrs. Thornton Irwin to welcome them to the Mayville district. The evening passed most pleasantly with games and music. About 11:30 the ladies served a most bountiful lunch. At the close of the evening, Mr Kenny made a speech, in which he thanked Mr and Mrs. Irwin for their kind hospitality and wished them happiness and success in their new location.

Mr. Irwin replied, saying they appreciated the neighbors coming, and that they would always find a warm welcome. After singing "For They are Jolly Good Fellows," the guests left for home, all agreeing that it was one of these evenings long to be remembered.

Bella came extremely close to being a comedian Edee last week, but by Saturday evening most of the ladies had returned as conditions are once more normal.

Mr and Mrs. Ori Ball motored to Calgary last Thursday. Mrs. W. H. Cunningham, Mrs. Ed. Bannister and Mrs Graves accompanied them and visited with Mr. and Mrs. Bert Graves.

Mrs. Ball, Mrs. Cunningham and Fern returned on Monday afternoon's train, but Mr. Ball remained to visit Mr. Ball will motor back on Wednesday.

Mrs. Roy Snyder and Miss Ellen Bassler took little Pearl Snyder to the children's hospital in Edmonton last week. Pearl has been troubled with her feet.

The Institute ladies held their April meeting in the Hall, last Thursday afternoon. As many were absent and a few sick, the meeting was decidedly small.

Mrs. Greves, on behalf of the Institute presented Mrs. Garvin with a Mendy vase, in recognition of her fine work as Secretary-Treasurer.

The Institute ladies have been working on the question of the Government clinic, which visited several places near Botha a year ago.

Our own School Board, and the trustees of adjacent rural districts have been consulted, and the consensus of opinion was that we are not a suitable district and, as we have good medical treatment close to home we should at least consult our own doctor.

Accordingly a committee, composed of Mrs. E. A. Underwood, Mrs. H. March and Mrs. H. Horton interviewed all the members of the Board. Those who were, every one, perfectly willing to co-operate with the ladies in every way possible.

The doctors will care for the throat, performing any necessary operations for tonsils and adenoids; also will attend to the teeth. Those unable to pay will care for the teeth. Our doctors agree to most cleric prices, but hospital fees will be extra, an effort will be made to get special rates.

The committee were greatly impressed by the attitude of our medical men. Each one seemed most anxious that not that every child in the municipality had a fair chance in life with good physical handicaps.

It is hoped and expected that the clinic will be held in the near future. If so, it would be well to have a number of children to inspect, and would like to suggest any parents who are interested to have it considered in Botha, arrangements can be made. This clinic must be settled by the parents, so kindly let the committee know your wishes in regard to this matter.

Word has been received from Edmonton that the Government is willing to co-operate with the local doctors, and will send a nurse to examine the children in the district to determine if existing is the scheme.

As the details are worked out they will appear in these notes.

Annual Meeting Of Stettler Golf Club

The annual meeting of the Stettler Golf Club was held in the Town Hall on Thursday evening, April 4th, at 8 o'clock. There was a good attendance of members, and an enthusiastic meeting was held.

The President, Mr. Cook, took the chair with 25 members present, and F. C. Burnett acted as Secretary.

The following were the election officers for 1929:

President—Dr. Kassby
Vice-President—Herb. Allen
Executive Committee—Messrs. Ingram, Duckworth, Willis, Bamford and Cathey
Secretary-Treasurer—M. Mackie
Auditors—Messrs. Cook and Allen.

There was a long discussion about the fees and it was finally decided on motion of Wills, Law, that the following be adopted:

Single tickets, Men, $15.00, outside players and beginners, $10.00; Family tickets, $25.00; Ladies, $5.00, outside ladies and beginners, $5.00; High school students, $7.00; Town fees, 25 cents for 9 holes.

The Club intend overhauling the course this years and putting in a number of improvements. This plan necessitates more funds and its fees are therefore higher than last year, and any one on a par motorist pleases such a Rolls-Royce, Lincoln and Lanchester.

Mr. Allen moved a vote of thanks to the retiring executive for their services during the past year, and this was carried with acclamation.

Another full discussion took place regarding the Club House. It was felt that this meeting, that a full House of some kind should be erected, towards which a start could be made.

It was moved by Les Watson, that the matter be left over till the next meeting, the members of which will get in touch with other clubs in the district, to see what they have done along this line and the cost of same.

President Kennedy suggested that May 24th be not made each year for the Annual Tournament. This date was suggested in order to start the season well, as Easter is the big Tournament in June, Red Deer in July, Innisfail in July, Lacombe in August, and Camrose in September. The course should be in good shape by Victoria Day.

It was moved by Duckworth and Gilchrist that the Annual Tournament be held on May 24th which falls on Friday this year, to be completed on the following Monday.

The Executive will take up the matter of engaging a manager for full time on the course, so that the course will be kept in the best possible condition throughout the season.

A vote of thanks was given to all those who helped on the links.

It is expected that this will be the best year that the Ladies' Section of the Golf Club can instal the bogey competition, and make the Club a benefit to all players. The revised rates for new members will enable them to get their School for the year, and it is expected that a pro will visit the Club occasionally to put the members on their game. The Club asks support this year from all interested in outdoor sports.

Spring Cleaning

Spring is the season of spring poetry, spring rain, the robin and—spring cleaning—The first fourth of Spring seems to arouse in the breast of the housewife a desire to clean all the cobwebs from the house. Why put them on? Is it an irresistible desire to turn the house inside out and suffer in general? It is a purely selfish, un-Christian. It would pay every business man and every resident of the town to take a trip occasionally and see other towns. Then, when he came back, he would see his own store or own residence in a new light. He would know at a glance, when he came back, whether his sales attendants were on-ought, or was someone needed improvement. Too much familiarity with a place of business or your dwelling does seem to observe the vision and prevents the seeing of things as they are. It would also pay the town to send the overseer or other employees on a holiday once in a while, where they could take notes on the advances made by other towns, on the various methods of keeping up streets and on town affairs generally.

If the citizens of a town can't get away, the only alternative is to put themselves in the position of strangers and see the community as others see it. There must be some things in Stettler which would repel strangers, but which are taken as a matter of course by the town residents. Are the streets in good shape and the roads tramped at the heights of the tourist season? Does the town look like a good, clean commercial centre or a pioneer community? Are the store windows as attractive as expert help can make them? Do we look after the trees and the boulevards, or let weeds grow up on the residential streets? Are the surroundings of our public buildings such as would attract visitors? In other words, are we on the map as a going concern?

The town is putting in sewerage this year. This improvement will take care of the sanitary conditions of the town and country as a health centre. The town has cheap power and light. That should make it attractive for industries and for new residents. The town has a good high and public school. That fact should be valuable to families which have children.

The demand for a good, live, wide-awake community exactly exceeds the supply. Every day people are asking: "Where is there a good town in which to locate?" "Where is a good town for a certain industry?" "Where is a good town for a distribution plant?"

There is in Chinese show, season of corporations or firms which have special departments to do nothing else but find good locations for various industrial enterprises. Corporations of all kinds are always on the look-out for good towns.

Towns sell themselves in the same way as dry goods and groceries. Selling a town is less selling everything else—You must have the quality behind it. Before you can sell a town to strangers, a certain amount of study and analysis is necessary and also a certain amount of advertising.

The Spring birds are coming back gradually this year, and a couple of bluebirds were reported by Judge Gray on his farm last Sunday. When the mellow note of the b nbird sounds from the nearest fence post, it seems to thaw out something in our ears. From that moment winter is on the defensive, and Spring is definitely on the way.

Apart from the bluebird, bright colors are scarce among the Spring arrivals. Most of them are clad in grey and the sombest hue seems to be the most colorful of the lot on account of the central crescent of black on the yellow breast. Sometime the larks arrive before the swallows but both are grey birds. They walk around like the crow when not on the wing. The blue jay is scarce in the vicinity and it is said that its blue and white face can be seen at any time.

April is a wood-pecker month as are every year. Almost any day late in the month you will see a downy head and hear its rat-tat-tat on the woods. The Flicker will also put in an appearance and he is well known by the flash of white on his rump when he starts to fly from the ground. He is the most unwood-pecker-like of his family and has deserted the tree-climbing method to feed from the ground.

It is hard to say what bird nests first in the Spring. The crow comes early, but does not nest until it warms up. We would put our bet on the great horned owl, which stays here all winter and seeks out some old hawk's or squirrel's nest in April, and lays its eggs in it, whether there is snow around or not. But these owls are not common and they do not wait to build their own nest, but take any old nest that is handy.

The sloughs are still frozen up, but here and there you can see a duck and the ducks know where to find it without trouble. Ice is their greatest enemy, and they won't nest until the danger of a frozen-up is practically over. The loon can smell out water quicker than any other bird, and when we see a large bird, with a goose-like body, long neck and long pointed bill, flying like a bullet, we may be sure that there is open water to the north-wards, for a loon never makes a mistake.

Just as the loon can sight out the first bit of clear water, so the plants can anticipate the first insect. He is a little duck-feathered and tail-trapping bird, the first to arrive among the family of fly-catchers. But the canny days under be the rule before he ventures to come back. He takes no chances, like the odd Spring birds, probably because he can't live on old weed seeds or dried berries.

Dear Sir:

During the past few years, the words "Farm Relief" have occupied a prominent place in the U. S. papers. This has been a subject of endless discussion and verimination. It seems to me only natural that the farmers of the country should organize themselves and see the community as others see it. There must be some things in Stettler which would repel strangers, but which are taken as a matter of course by the town residents. Are the streets in good shape and the roads tramped at the heights of the tourist season? Does the town look like a good, clean commercial centre or a pioneer community? The loon can smell out water quicker than any other bird, and when we see a large bird, with a goose-like body, long neck and long pointed bill, flying like a bullet, we may be sure that there is open water to the northwards, for a loon never makes a mistake.

Just as the loon can sight out the first bit of clear water, so the plants can anticipate the first insect. He is suffer. Let us say to avoid the punishment into which the U. S. farmer has fallen.

First, keep Canada Merrily. Keep the door open for the British, Irish, Scotch and Ukrainian immigrants, and to our friends from the Status as well. They assimilate easily. Scandinavians and Germans learn the language easily. Our political institutions appeal to them. They are familiar with co-operative movements and easily linked up. We must come from the problem of curtailed production in certain agricultural products. This cannot be effected without a high state of intelligence in the producing class. Do not be misled by the proponents of the large corporations, who desire cheap labor. Our great asset is neither a large mineral-bearing immigration, nor greater production of staple lines. It is greater diversity in farming and more economic marketing. It would bring a higher standard of living.

We must study our markets and learn what they require. We must better and still better methods of farming. Power farming does not solve the need.

Let us put trained men in every locality as agricultural experts. Our Demonstration Farms and Farm Schools are alright but reach comparatively few. We need experts who know the business of farming, to assist the whole class of farmers. That is not humiliating, it is good business. Every successful large business has its staff of experts. The rural economist and checks up on the production costs. The production manager goes to efficient production. And the manager studies the markets and sees to efficient distribution—nothing haphazard about their methods. They succeed.

If the farmer will put his business on a similar basis, estimate save production and diversify he will not be compelled to use the hateful word "Farm Relief" Rather he will have the independent, self-respecting feeling that he is a potent factor in the life of the nation.

Yours truly,

CORRESPONDENCE

Stettler, Alta.

The Editor,
Stettler Independent.

Dear Sir,

In reply to a letter suggesting a Football Club for Stettler, I heartily second this proposal. Although I am of the opinion that rugby would be the most suitable for this country. Red Deer has a Rugger Club, and, providing that we can raise a good fifteen, we should be able to arrange some matches a matches. The ground, goal posts, balls, etc., would necessitate a small subscription, but this should be quite reasonable. During the summer cricket would prove a splendid attraction for lads and "old" alike, as sporting Stettlerites.

Yours truly,
H. BARDEN.

BAD SLEEPING SICKNESS

Mrs. Elizabeth Wieler Away After Long Illness

(Bellefountaine Examiner)

Mrs. Elizabeth Wieler Jacobs, 61, wife of W. D. Jacobs, passed away at an early hour Friday morning at the family home, 548 Hamilton Street. Death followed an extended illness of about 18 years, in which Mrs. Jacobs had suffered from sleeping sickness, with the past few years had been the victim of paralysis. The funeral occurred just two weeks previous to her death.

Elizabeth, daughter of Isaac and Barbara Wieler, was born in Elkhart county, near Goshen, Ind., June 18th, 1867. She was one of a family of six children, four of whom survive. They are Albert Wieler of Indianapolis; Oliver Wieler of California; Mrs. J. J. DeFrees, of Mt. Green, Oregon; and Mrs. Barry I. Pearce of Urbana, Ill. One brother died some years ago. One sister, Edith, died in infancy.

On Dec. 31st, 1891, June 14, 1893, Elizabeth Wieler was united in marriage to W. D. Jacobs, of Logan county with whom she had spent almost 37 years of happy wedded life.

During that time Mr. and Mrs. Jacobs had lived in several places in Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania, and have spent 22 years in Alberta, having come to this province from Alberta in 1907. They have resided in Bellefountaine since 1911.

Mrs. Jacobs was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, and was a faithful member of the Bellefountaine Missionary Society. A beautiful flower was a tribute to her memory.

The Canadian Legion held a very successful dance on April 5th in connection of Vimy. Music was supplied by members of the Pentor and Legion orchestras.

Mrs. Chas Balmoder is absent from the staff of the Royal Bank on three months' leave.

Mr. J. Jensen has taken Blundell's Lake school for the balance of the term.

Little Jimmy Robinson was under the doctor's care recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Hansen entertained during the holidays at an engagement evening of bridge and dancing. Those present at cards were by Mr. and Mrs. Jacobs, Miss Ada Gibert and Mr. Tip.

Mr. Cudmore was a recent business visitor in town.

Mr. Les McMillan and his family are now occupying the farm where Mr. Kinchen lived formerly.

The Bulwark Players are presenting the three play: "Are You a Mason" in the Hall on Friday, April 19th. Advance reports of this play are very good and reserved seats are being announced for. A dance will follow.

Mr. Sharpe of Didsbury, is spending a picture show in the hall every 2 weeks. The pictures are for here from very popular, and the show on Thursday, April 25th will be "The Wolf of Wall Street," with George Bancroft.

Mildred Porter, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Porter.

Mr. Lloyd Jackson of Calgary was a week-end visitor with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Jackson.

The annual U. F. A. dancing and literary competition was held last Friday night. There was a splendid attendance though the contest itself was disappointing as there being but so many entries as usual. This is probably unavoidable and there is always hoped next year's one will be better. Mr. Gibert acted as the event, so was that Osborne couple. Also, there is a feeling that the contest might be standardized for the entire season.

Mr. D. Dennis was chairman and the judges were Reeves Messrs. H. Rathbun and T. Bennett; Secretary Mrs. J. A. Miller and Mr. S. Steele.

Mr. A. L. Bunnett gave a short address to the audience. Following is the list of winners, as it seems counting:

Senior Boys' Duet: Phyllis Bennett, Ellen Gibert; 10th: Albert, Catherine Grey and Lyman Gardner.

Baritone Solo: Professor Jean Burton, Barbara Beach; Betty Berry, Alfred Young. Ella Gibert. Jean Mc-Clinton, Jean Ann Love Boyd, Harold Bark, Thomas Samuel, Elwin Schroeder, Lawrence Clarke and Elsie Gibert.

A cancer can take the evening with music by the Stettler four piece orchestra.

Mr. H. Mercer of Bulwark, popularly known as "Bud" has returned to assume charge of the care of the Cemetery.

Mrs. F. E. Jardine is relieving at Foremost during the Mrs. Cosby's absence at her home at Surrey.

Mrs. A. Bruce and Mrs. H. Postlewaite were Bulwark visitors last week.

A Tremendous Increase in Public Acceptance

FOR years McLaughlin-Buick has led the world in line-car sales.

For years the proven McLaughlin-Buick engineering principles have been acclaimed by an ever-increasing majority.

But now a tremendous increase in public acceptance has resulted in outdistancing the past records, a new sales record for all times.

Because here, in addition to the powerful, triple-sealed, valve-in-head engine; the famous four-wheel brake drive; the cantilever rear springs and the wonderful sealed chassis are new, revolutionary standards of performance and riding ease, and new beauty and luxury of interior. Bodies by Fisher!

You have but to drive this great car to understand why it is literally breaking all sales records for cars at or above its price.

ERSKINE NEWS

Friday of last week the residents on the north-eastern of Rumsey Avenue witnessed the furious opening of the new roadside, situated directly south of Rosebush Hotel. Motorists had difficulty either in attempting to cross or by chance and demonstrate the skill of the driver in keeping the car on the road. The Village Councillors were responsible for the extended roadside judgment.

Finally His Worship, the Mayor, declared that an investigation was necessary and ordered the chauffeur to be handed to the scene of operations and was so obsessed with the delightful surroundings that he decided to remain for the balance of the night.

Special Meeting Of Waverly Council

Held in the Municipal Office at Erskine, on Thursday, April 18th, 1929 at 2:30 p.m.

PRESENT—

Messrs. P. Clark, F. W. Cusick, S.S. Vanderford, David Lyle, Bert North and G. T. Thompson.

After each Councillor had signed a waiver of notice of the meeting the Secretary stated that Mr. Annandale, the government road inspector would reach Erskine shortly after three p.m. in time with the market roads grant in 1929. It was decided that the following would be considered at the meeting:

Market Wards

Secondary Highways.

1929 Divisional Appointments.

Hospital 1929 Levy and Mill-rate.

SECONDARY HIGHWAYS—

These letters were read from districts interested with Waverly in the Canmore-Munson Highway, and one of these suggested that a committee from each municipal district should meet and discuss the proposal.

Mr. Bergman: That this municipal district approves of the suggestion, and that Waverly appoint two representatives. Carried.

Mr. Lyle: That Messrs. Vanderford and Bergman act for Waverly on the suggested Committee. Carried.

Mr. Cusick voting against Mr. Bergman as not, in his opinion, sufficiently intimate with the roads in best areas in the district.

DIVISIONAL APPORTIONMENT.

A reply from the Department of the Municipal Affairs to the Councils decision of April 6th stated that the Department thought the resolution was not in order "in that it provided for 75 per cent. of the total taxes for the year 1929 to be apportioned in equal amounts."

Mr. Bergman That the resolution of April 6th, equally dividing the amount set for public works in 1929 to the six divisions be reserved. Carried.

For the resolution: Messrs. Bergman, Vanderford, Lyle and North.

Against—Messrs. Clark and Cusick.

Mr. Vanderford: That 75 per cent. of the 1929 taxes in each division be apportioned to public works in each division.

Carried by 4 votes to 2, the Councillors voting as in the previous motion.

1929 HOSPITAL LEVY—

A letter from the Hospital Board of the Municipal District of Waverly, a reduction from 3 cents per acre to 2 1-2 cents. Many Councillors expressed the opinion that the decrease was not sufficient in view of the full treatment being enforced in 1929, with no hospital service.

Mr. Bergman: That the hospital estimate in Waverly in 1929 be 1.65, to raise the amount asked for. Carried unanimously.

1929 ASSESSMENT—

It was pointed out that the March 12th resolution re the assessment had not been rescinded when the Council met on discussing the assessment question at the April 6th meeting.

Mr. Cusick: That the resolution of March 12th re the assessment in 1929 be rescinded. Carried.

HALKIRK NEWS

Excitement prevailed Monday afternoon when it was discovered that Mr. Burke Black's chicken house was on fire. A car was being loaded at the time and it is thought that the fire was caused by a hot box.

Only the prompt action on the part of the fire brigade prevented the total destruction of the elevator. The brigade worked all afternoon with fire extinguishers and buckets—until danger of further damage by fire was definitely certain. But it was necessary to keep watch through the night and Mr. Burke Black was on duty until 5:30 a.m. Tuesday morning when all the residents were assured that danger was over. Mr. Black was relieved by Bob Miller who operates the elevator. The fire took the top of the chicken house—the roof to be sure—but all danger was soon averted.

Pulleys and ropes were damaged by the fire and the floor had to be torn up in places but the elevator is standing.

The fire had got a real hold and if it had reached the barn, would have been beyond control.

In the matter of liquor consumption Washington is like any other large American city. Only more so. It is more so because many liquor men by immoral and unscrupulous methods have made it so. Washington, moreover, as the social capital of the United States and the town that commanded the imbibing of all alcoholic drains has had its phenomenal increase. We do not suggest that the practice is likely to increase greatly in places where public customs compromise, but enough has been said to show that if the ordeal should go forth from

THE CALL TO WORSHIP

This is none other than the House of God; this is the House of Peace.

11 a.m.—The Church School. Classes for all.

7:30 p.m.—Public Worship. Speaker—Rev. Charles Endicott, B.D.

The United Church will have an their guest Sunday, the Rev. Dr. Charles Endicott, who is representing the United Church of Canada in the three Prairie Provinces in behalf of world peace.

Brother United invites all.

Mrs. R. Price—Superintendent of the Church School.

Rev. J. E. Hammond—Minister.
Mr. C. L. Wills, Choir Leader.

THOSE STATS

(A parody on a popular song, written by one of our delivery drivers and dedicated to a patoner who rebuilds the inside of a building without an elevator.)

He's got the nicest stairs;
I never had much love for stairs,
But he's got the steepest stairs,
An that's my weakness now.
They used to get my goat for fair;
There is no elevator there;
Just got to climb, but I don't care,
That's my weakness now.

Oh, my! Oh, my!
I've got lots of blood and my wind is good, you see;
Right next to the sky, just out of sight
Sometimes I wish there was one closer—$1245.

But, how would I breathe if there was?

Good-night!
That's my weakness now!

There should be a rule that says, "Before"

To mention attempting to climb those stairs

Followed by "Don't" with capital letter to begin with by.

And so end that weakness now
But the river ran a certainly great,
I could climb those stairs, I am free to state,
Till the boss in my Oxford palpitate,
That's my weakness now.

Some of the farmers of the district have commenced seeding the end of last week, but the wet weather of Monday and Tuesday put a stop to it. It is likely that seeding will commence again about Thursday.

Starting May 1st, a direct mail service between Stettler and Hanna via Warden will be put into operation. This will be a great convenience to the public as heretofore all mail for points on the Hanna-Warden line had to go around by way of Munson.

THREE STUMS

(A parody on a popular song, written by one of our delivery drivers and indicated to a printer who inhabits the top floor of a building without an elevator.)

He's got the most stairs;
I never had much love for stairs,
But he's got the steepest stairs,
As that's my weakness now.
They tend to get my goat for fair;

how under, just sprinkle her a bit and let her go to hell."

An executive meeting of Stettler Golf Club was held on Saturday evening at Sanford's store when the following were elected—President A. E. Kennedy, W. Dunlop, C. L. Willis; F. T. Colley; Jim Duckworth, C. Sanford and Secretary Mello. Matters concerning the club were discussed for a couple of hours and arrangements were made to hire a caretaker, the same being left in the hands of Vice President Allen. A long distance took place on a club house and a statement of costs was intended at by the Crown Lumber Company. The cost according to these figures would range around $500.00 for labor and material, the material for a 16 x 24 club house with a large verandah around two sides coming approximately $300.00 It was thought that the club room would be a little too large and the size 16 x 24 was considered better. Those wishing to become members will find that they will have a good course to play over and also that they will have a good outdoor sport all summer. Messrs. Willmore and Allen form the committee of membership.

Alberta's Mineral Production Greater

Alberta with a mineral production valued at $82,202,791 contributed 11.34 per cent. of the total production in Canada in 1928, according to the recently issued preliminary report of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. In addition indication of the steadily growing importance of Alberta's mining industry, the corresponding figures for the five previous years are $69,500,000 in 1927 and $59,977,077 in 1926. In the value of production Alberta stands fourth among the provinces of the Dominion, being exceeded in this respect by Ontario, British Columbia and Quebec.

The importance of the mineral developments which have taken place in the province is indicated by the following quotation from the report:—

"Alberta, so far, has little to show in the way of metal mining. Coal production made good headway. Natural gas production also reached a new record. Crude petroleum reached a new record output. Bituminous sand deposits were carefully developed during the year and much prospected ground. Cement and other building materials were all produced in quite large quantities and the total production indicated a very real growth in the mining industry of the province."

The greatest contribution to the year's production was made by the coal mines of the province with an output of 7,255,450 tons valued at $25,-913,080. Oil and gas wells in the province yielded 14,337,155,000 cubic feet of natural gas valued at $3,585,289 and 698,302 barrels of petroleum worth $1,397,607. In this connection, it is interesting to note that Alberta entered gas made up 63.5 per cent. of the Dominion production as volume and 41 per cent. in value and in the case of petroleum the output of Alberta wells represents 9 per cent. of the volume and 56.5 per cent. of the value of the total Dominion production.

Clay products and brick manufacture in the province during the past year are valued at $1,466,960, and in this respect Alberta's production stands next to that of Ontario and Quebec. Cement, lime, stone and sand and gravel contribute a further $2,-163,130 while 94 tons of bituminous coals, valued at $274 are included in the Alberta report are 46 fine ounces of gold worth $1,486 and 7 fine ounces of silver valued at $4.

Speaking Of Conferences

(By J. J. Bruchesi)

Like a bolt from the blue, in a speech from the Leader of the Government, came an original idea—a rather bright suggestion, fresh with the breath of summer, that, during the stages of progress, they have suggested Commonwealth Conferences or so on Dominion Reports. Mr. Bennett's own was that an Empire Economic Conference should be called at Ottawa to discuss questions of settlement, development and marketing. Conferences have a habit of being barren. But individual result—by trend of thought, it deserves to be considered, for it is obvious that the same is true of a matter. Here, generally speaking, some to a conference in a spirit of compromise and not with cups on the shoulders. The very nature of the gathering is a guarantee to suggest that a certain course of reasoning should be followed by the majority of conference assemblies. There is plenty of room for it. Any proposal to consider the matter at the League of Nations will probably take a couple of years to get under way and it is time to develop within ourselves more knowledge of the Empire as a whole. With the end in view, we assume, if you will excuse of the difficulties of travel, these should not be magnified. There is no suggestion that the Conference should necessarily be held in hidden rocks. Still the revolutionary idea has been put forward and authorities may help to grow to a consensus of the work ahead.

More Settlement

[illegible] the delusion that the Empire is overpopulated. They are not. They need more settlement. Any number of millions of acres can be settled in Canada, proven the like by most, the problem is not of land—that is abundant. It is a matter of transportation, of markets, of getting the right settlers to the right land. Unfortunately conditions must be purchased, that takes time. Lands that are now held by the Crown are some distance from the railway and settlement is a problem in many cases there are no roads laid, which must be cleared. You cannot bring a man out one year, give him a quarter section of money, tell him to find and he sure that he will be self-supporting in two years. Experience with returned soldiers is proof that a great many settlers will never be self-supporting. These facts might as well be faced. Many of the settlers who have succeeded would have succeeded anywhere. Eight thousand families—that two thousand [illegible] What did they go back? They went back because they were poor and not alone! The Party which is responsible for the original policy of settlement is the party which has forced high tariffs, by opposing the Liberal policy of the Tariff Board aiming for an [illegible] course in the direction upon our own—Canadian manufacturers of iron and steel. Party Canadian manufacturers of [illegible] opposition to this suggestion—not [illegible] but necessary to them. They counsel no increase in the tariff and their raw material. Among those who opposed the representative of Sugar Wheat and Farming List. The President of the Ottawa Wheat is the [illegible] right hand man of Mr. Bennett, a strong supporter of both tariffs when he is speaking for "political purposes." He is a farmer and a subscriber of the Wheat. When it came to the practical test he was strongly and emphatically against any increase in the duties upon iron and steel. One wonders what Mr. Vaughan, the manufacturer would feel like if he read the 1927 budget speech of Mr. Vaughan, the manufacturer.

Mr. C. W. Bell, M. P. of Hamilton a member of the Party to which Mr. Bennett belongs. Mr. Bell was present at the Iron and Steel hearing. He represented Dominion Foundries and Steel Ltd. This company wanted the duties reduced upon pig iron, because to the idea that protection should be on with the products which this company manufactured and to be spent [illegible] "the other fellow go hang." Part of Canada Ltd. was also represented at the hearing. It will be remembered that when the tariff was framed on manufacturers, representatives of the Ford Company were strongly

The next five years are the years of Opportunity for Alberta. The years when is laid on the route of important processes in agriculture, in coke and in industries. The Town of Stettler has always been favoured upon agriculture. It has the opportunity during the next half decade to develop the industrial side of its existence in a truer sense. Stettler has enjoyed many years of industrial existence of any kind. It has had a harmonious growth—slow, sure and even better town would no doubt be given large industrial issues for the future. It will install 'sewerage this year, which will place it in the front rank among the larger towns of the province as a suitable location for industries.

Big men and big undertakings belong to the smaller towns as they have never looked before. In a recent issue of the American Magazine, Henry Ford said: "It is sufficient for business men to pay both land prices and high wages at congested centres. Let them go where cost per exorbitant rents." By moving out, business could get better land prices, more room for labor or rents—and for better living—small towns for its people."

There is another thing that is bringing industries to the smaller towns—Dependable transportation. And the country towns are better served in touch with the larger markets both by rail and automobile. This has come about so quickly and so steadily as to be almost unnoticed. It has become a familiar remark among motorists on entering a unknown town "What do you make here?" A town with industries will be so common in the province as a town with good agricultural surroundings now with fine educational opportunities.

The drift from the country to the cities is still going on, but there is another drift—that of industries from the cities to the towns. This change is one of the significant developments of the last two or three years and it will continue in increasing volume during the next decade. The lesson to be learned from these facts is that keeping transportation is one of our chief concerns. Its continued existence is inside the future of a town as well as outside the future of the rural part of the community. The existence of traffic if kept in good condition will hold even greatly increased rates and will make and retain things he needs and uses.

Conference Greetings

Conference greetings are being sent from many parts of the British Empire. Australia would welcome, representing the retention and development of the Australian Treaty. New Zealand would be there, cordially welcoming the visit of Mr. Bennett." The delegates would be met at Vancouver by Mr. Barnard, M.P., and the leading dairymen of the province of Alberta and they would have to present their case to the Premier. Trade with Australia and New Zealand would mean that butter now and that lower duties upon paper and lumber to Australia was the only subject for discussion. At the other end of Canada, the delegates from Newfoundland would be met by Sir Richard Squires and the Canadian Pacific Steamships. All devoted to the cult of keeping out British trade and cotton goods. If there be any doubt of their position, it is only necessary to read, from week to week, the editorials appearing in the Canadian Textile Journal. It applauds the tariff policy of Australia which makes the tariff against Great Britain, so high that cotton from Japan can enter the tariff against other countries higher still—substantially keeping that it is giving a tariff preference to Great Britain.

The application to the Tariff Board of the Canadian Woollen and Knit Goods Manufacturers, contained this statement:

"We therefore respectfully submit that under present conditions, governing our raw material, the re-establishment of the general tariff rate is necessary."

The application of woollen goods is typical for the re-imposition of the general tariff rates and for the abolition of the British Preference Clause. The manufacturers of linen were equally explicit in their request. The wording of their application was:—

"We respectfully ask that a similar duty of 20 per cent. and valuation be imposed by a separate Customs clause of Ireland, compared wholly or in part of linen."

It will be seen from these extracts that the Canadian manufacturers have admitted the representative Canadian Manufacturers' would be a reduction in preference. They would be a repeal of the general preferential tariff. The spirit of give and take would be absent and the progress would be small. As a matter of fact, Canadian manufacturers are rejoicing today with every move which is made to increase the British tariff. They express their rejoicing also at the increase in the American tariff. There is in their attitude, no desire to extend international trade. They remain just where they have been for a generation, with no desire for a change—so with for trade expansion.

Speaking Of Conferences

for the return of higher tariff. The Ford Company, at the present hearing before the Tariff Board not be increased upon iron and steel. It was part of their new material! A little [illegible] of harmony and comprehension and cooperation of the Leaders of the Opposition might help bring about the spirit of harmony and compromise, which would lead to success in a matter of this kind.

Another note he might be commented to the counsel of the Conservative Party in the suspension would be Mr. Perry Sparks. Mr. Sparks is a manufacturer of overalls. He sees in an outside a unknown town "What do you make here?" A town with industries will be so common in the province as a town with good agricultural surroundings now with fine educational opportunities.

As the last possible effort the water breaks, he posted by my soul after They, O. Lamb.

Alfalfa For Hog Pasture

Experience at the Beaverlodge Experimental Sub-station favors alfalfa in cows as the ideal hog pasture, open to two requests. The first drawback is that, being a perennial, it tempts the proprietor to run his hogs on the same ground year after year. From the standpoint of controlling worms and other parasites, of course, a rotation of pasture once every two years would be ideal. The second objection is that alfalfa the object can be served by having an area large enough that only half or one-third of the ground need be pastured in any year. This remainder being cropped and to hay or seed or used as a pasture for some other class of stock.

The first objection to that very young pigs must be ground grazing in an alfalfa field if they may not run freely of it, having most roots for rotation rotation and sometimes harvesting put-fished in consequence.

For hog pastures rows are preferable to broadcasting alfalfa, for these reasons:

1.—Less seed per acre is required, four or five pounds being sufficient.

2.—Interchange may be practiced to control weeds.

3.—The young calf a good deal between the rows and not crop the grass down so much as they do a broadcast alfalfa field.

Certain objections to rows from a hay production standpoint do not apply to pasture in the case of pastures.

Seeding may be accomplished to advantage with the ordinary grain drill. For a piece of experimental work simply cut a the bottom of the grain box and seal a hole above every fifth or grass run. Mix inoculated alfalfa seed of a handy variety—not to mention a different parts of the seed when time which the hand material has been sifted out of the box to be sown. Sow the seed in the usual manner per acre. Experiment to ascertain the correct rates. Watch the results on different soils. Build up fertility and it is needless to add on worn ones.

The seed bed must be firm and well worked down. The final use of the cultivator on the season may be profitable. Inoculation is necessary. Inoculate with all kinds left in old stands during the years. Afterwards a dressing of lime is employed if necessary.

If some of the plants grow away from the hogs they will hold more to provide water production. With care a pasture should last for years. Be sure to maintain soil fertility. At the first sign of weakness, plow under a new seeding.

Particularly profitable results were obtained from alfalfa pastures in 1927 when ten Yorkshires averaged 1,144.5 pounds each. Alfalfa suffers severely in wet years of ages. After being used for pasture it will grow thicker and will not readily two months on alfalfa pasture. Two acres is a useful area for a pasture. On that feed they will make a good strong frame for one acre, after-ed. I turned into a young Principal of Schools.

Jack Miner Has Interesting Observations

Canada's Greatest Lover of Birds and Friend of Hunter Tells the Story

Jack Miner's observatory has become known among through the wild geese which visit there, but equal interest has been given by Mr. Miner to the study of song and insectivorous birds. By dissecting their crops and stomachs he has been able to find out the most valuable birds to the farmer and country as a whole.

It was he who years ago helped put the mounting dove on the song and insectivorous bird list, which means no shooting. And he now is making an effort to have the "Bob White Quail" placed on the same list when he knows of their value. But, as Jack Miner is a friend of the hunter, he feels that Bonaparte partridge should be brought in and influence to give the hunter the spot he has shooting with.

To give the public an idea of the value of the mounting dove he found one in front of his home this manner, which left a telephone wire as it was running in to town and no thing the crop full, he sent it to Professor L. L. Snyder of the Royal Ontario Museum of Zoology at Avenue Road and Bloor St., Toronto, who examined its crop and follow-up to what it contained. 5,333 seeds of the three and one-half varieties, 30 seeds of cultivated 1 small gravel. Mr. Snyder also report: There was the same amount as its stomach, but as it was ground up it couldn't be counted.

Later on in the season Jack Miner found a quail dead, but not long before he was. It was also sent to Mr. Snyder, and he reported on the following: I am sorry, I haven't spoken I had hoped. I shall send it back, I shall investigate it, much obliged. I mean of one, I shall be glad to have the specimen returned. It contains 3 plus seeds, 30 small grass seeds, 4 bean grains, 15 acorns, 3 seeded mustard, 250 seeds of black nightshade, 20 seeds of green foxtail, 12 seeds of old which grass, 30 unidentified weed seeds.

Jack Miner points out that this is opposed every twenty-four hours. Thus one quarter estimate the value of the mounting dove and quail to the farmer?

WHAT HE WANTED

Mark Twain was a great author and he often spent happy weeks communing with his friend, H. H. Rogers, in his summer yacht. Once they were caught in a storm off Cuba in a heavy sea, the sky part of a long chapter and violent rain. The Caribbean was heaving as it can sound and for some hours Twain was upset by the rolling and pitching of the ship. He hovered over the bed rail and chilly de-porcelain.

"Oh, Clemens, can't I get you something?" asked the shrewd, unfeeling Rogers.

"Yes," Mark gasped, convulsively. "Yes, get me an island."

Cons: "Does that rich person wear all those costly garments between?"

Pros: "I don't know. The ones that get gone in her jury pot." Boston Transcript.

Mother: "I've offered Robert a penny for the candle at both ends."

Father: "Shall I? That boy has cut the candle at both ends."

Mother: "Yes, and he's only got one end."

Senator Vest's Tribute To A Dog

A reader asks LABOR to reprint, Senator George W Vest's famous "Eulogy on a Dog."

Promptly there are not a half dozen readers by American public who would have been quoted as widely as this brief address to a jury in a backwoods Missouri court room.

A man had wantonly shot a a dog. The owner asked for $500 damages. Colonel Burnam in Vest, the jury returned a verdict for $500.

Here is the speech in full.

"Gentlemen of the Jury. The best friend a man has in the world may turn against him and become his enemy.

"His own daughter that he has loved with loving care may prove ungrateful.

"Those who are nearest and dearest to us, those whom we trust with our confidence and our good name, may become traitors to their faith.

"The money that man has he may lose. In flees away from him, perhaps when he needs it most.

"A man's reputation may be sacrificed on a moment of ill-considered action.

"The people who are prone to fall on their knees to do us honor when fortune smiles can, may be the first to throw the stones of malice when fickle winds of misfortune blow.

"He who stands with friends around him may see them all scatter at the first sign of storm. Friendless and homeless, the faithful dog asks no favor save the right to accompany him in good against danger, to fight against his enemies, and even to guard the last of all earthly friends, and dauntless the master in his misfortune and his body is laid away in its last resting place, there by his graveside will the noble dog be found, his head between his paws, his eyes sad, but open in alert watchfulness, faithful and true even to death.

"He will lick the hand that has no food to offer; he will lick the wounds and sores that come in encounter with the roughness of the world.

"He guards the sleep of his pauper master as if he were a prince.

"When all other friends desert, he remains.

"When riches take wings and reputation tarnishes, then does the dog stay by his master's side.

"He will kiss the hand that has no power save that of love and fidelity. His eyes drown fiercely, if only he may be near his master's side.

"He will follow his master through sleet and snow and rain, his head bowed down in sorrow, if only he may be near his master's side.

"He will do all this and more, if he be given the chance, and when the last scene of all comes, when death takes the master in his embrace and his body is laid away in the dust, there by his graveside will the noble dog be found, his head between his paws, his eyes sad, but open in alert watchfulness, faithful and true even to death.

Botha News

The weather still continues cold with freezing temperatures every night. The talk of the wheat crop in the ground by the end of the week and many are putting in an early garden still from experimentally also this Spring.

The Base-ball season opened in Bethel last Wednesday evening when the Gadsby Stars came out and played our High School team.

A very good game resulted, the score being 12 to 2 in favor of Botha.

The High School girls played the mixed men on last Thursday evening and we regret that it has been totally impossible for us to find out the natural results of this game.

Whether the rural keeper had a bad attack of writer's cramp or ran out of paper, we can't know, but he failed to keep over during the latter part of the game. The only result we have obtained is the out-one, par-ent naturally supposed that the other girls won. The girls say that it is "That the men claim they are."

Some of our girls have moved away, but Fall now appearing to return. Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Alison and family are returning to Botha. Mr. Alison has purchased an interest in the Pendan Mercantile Co.

E. A. MacMillan is also back in Botha for a time.

The Ladies Aid met with Mrs. Mac Lennan at her home on May 2. A Mr. Ray Li Tay, Mrs. Thos. Mc-Millan and Mrs. Jas. Alison are going to spend the week-end with Mrs. Mc-Millan as the only remaining member of being great grandmother.

The ladies' dance was transferred and the whole party went to the Pendant Hotel, and, Mrs. Kennedy was the only one present. Mrs. Kennedy was the only one of the meeting the luncheon, Mr. Mackay, T. Johnson, Kennedy and Banks served a most delicious lunch.

Members are asked to take notice that the programs arranged for June will be put on in October, while the October program will go on next month. This is due to the fact that Mr. Elsa Speaker does not appear here in October.

The Junior Golf and High School boys mastered to Gadsby Sunday afternoon for another round of baseball and back another set of players, as the girls winning 23 to 6, and the boys 7 to 1.

P. Pope, G. Hasler, V. Graff and H. McNaughton accompanied the players there. We hardly know whether they would be classed as nurses or chaperones.

Mrs. Ben Armstrong has been sick for the past two weeks, being confined to bed the greater part of the time. There seems to be no definite improvement as yet.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ball accompanied Ward Pepler when he motored to Calgary on Saturday. They met Miss Ringo Robinson, who returned with them on Sunday as an escort to stay with Mr. and Mrs. Snyder this summer.

Sunday School will be held in the Hall every Sunday morning at 11.30 a. m. Rev. Goddard will preach every two weeks. Preaching service will be at 12.30

Robert Friend came up from Trevor on Saturday evening and spent Sunday and Monday with home folks.

Our school will observe Arbor Day on Friday when the afternoon will be spent cleaning the school yard.

Little George Isaacson is suffering from an attack of mumps.

Mr. Jas. Pool elocution shows up plenty at the Loadout Rating. This is the third elevator to go up there in the past few years, which looks like a district will have a splendid crop this year.

Donalda News

Mr. R. S. Greenaway and Archie returned home from Edmonton, on Friday, where Archie received medical treatment from Dr. Lamb, child specialist.

F. R. Bishop spent the week end at his home in Morris.

Jim Pitts—spent the week in at his home here, returning to Federal on Monday.

The I. O. O. F. Anniversary held on Monday in the large hall was largely attended and thoroughly enjoyed by all. The address delivered by Rev. D. Wylie Sinclair of Stettler, was a splendid one and was enjoyed by all. The choir of the Presbyterian Church rendered several selections during the service, a medal literature was extended to all in pass-ing and the ladies served in the Lodge room.

A number of Gadsbyites and Botha-ites from Stettler motored up to the Donalda I. O. O. F. anniversary service on Monday.

Mrs. Russell who has spent the winter with her daughter Mrs. Blakely, returned to her home in Stettler on Tuesday.

The Rebekah Lodge held a delightful party on the lodge room last Monday evening. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Blakely, Mr. and Mrs. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. Greenaway, Mr. and Mrs. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Hall

Well constructed highways are necessary in Canada to meet the insistent demands of traffic, but well maintained rural side even of more importance in the interest of economy. Consequently, provincial road administrative organs and governors are devoting a great deal of thought and attention to the care and protection of roads. Round the Country

Items our last article on developing a town through factories, the city of Red Deer has secured a branch of the Eddy Match Company for their town. Red Deer is fortunate in getting a factory of this high character. That town is situated on the Red Deer River, and some idea [illegible] for manufacture can be selected on the river bank. Every town in Alberta wishes Red Deer well for future industries.

Stettler may secure factories or it may not. The Western Canada Laundry is the late-d industry to start up in town and others may follow. The town has everything needed for factories, sufficient cheap power and a very large opening in the near future. There is no denying the value of factories to any community. New industries and more industries would be constantly sought for that may town to fail to realize the value of anything that is nearly as important that is automobile traffic.

Every automobile that comes into Stettler from the country or from other parts of Alberta brings in new money of some kind. The occupants of each visiting automobile patronize the stores and the garages, the restaurants and the other business houses, while on Sundays they attend churches. The business secured from auto traffic is good business and the money they spend is good money. Merchandise purchased by people who come to the town as tourists is a cash transaction if they come from other parts of Alberta, or from other provinces; it is just as good as cash if they come in from the country.

Apart from the autos which come to town from our own district, it has been estimated that every visiting automobile brings on an average, one dollar per car to the town in passing through. Therefore, a town located on a good highway, or in an unusually good position to obtain a steady revenue from passenger cars. Stettler is on the main highway running east and west, and this highway will get better each year, until it is a standard provincial road.

Automobiles will not stop in town, however, if the roads are not good. If they have trouble in getting around they will proceed to the next town. They always stop at a town where the automobiles are attractive in the way of paved roads. Motor traffic is not hard to get. If the town in its centre its have, it becomes no every point after it is the right way.

The value of the question to [illegible] to the welfare of town [illegible] It is a question for every citizen to [illegible] town officials in regard to the work that are doing for the town. Most of the work done by the city and the local official [illegible] for what they have done. But [illegible] would [illegible] the citizens generally, as a matter of economics, if they are satisfied with our town roads, or if they think they can be improved upon.

The writer made a trip to Ontario last August, and not all that there were in every district, but in every district the morning he left town. The next time still there when he got back, and they have been [illegible] since August, 1928. They may not be the same rut, but like the poet, they are with us always, whether they are the same rut or not), and they occur on every residential street in town.

This is not a wet Spring, but whether, or wet or dry, the roads in town are generally in a bad condition.

As we said before, we are not criticising any particular official for the state of the town roads. The town overseer is busy at other work all the time, and the road committee, if there exists such a committee, have troubles of their own in keeping the streets in good condition. What we think the town should have is a man in charge of the roads all the time, putting his whole time to the work, and hiring teams, if necessary, to get the roads in good shape. Last year the town saved quite a sum of money by not doing much work on the roads, but this policy has proved to be penny wise and pound foolish, as our roads are getting worse the more we save money on them.

Stettler needs a systematic road policy not only for the convenience of its own citizens, but for the accommodation of those who come to the town in automobiles, particularly the motorists from the country, who come here regularly every week. The town could well afford to put aside every year, a reasonable sum of money for the roads and spend the money to the best of the appropriation. In bad years a small afford to spend more than the appropriation. In good years could afford to pay a salary to a good road master from May to October every year.

Lady Masquerades As Man For Years

All England has been talking about the extraordinary exploits of Lilian Iris Valerie Barker, who, changing her Christian name to Victor and adding the military title of a colonel, posed for several years as a man. Moreover, she took to herself a wife with whom she spent what she represented as a honeymoon, and lived for a couple of years thereafter as supposed husband and happy wife [illegible] came, as she admitted, her affections had been bestowed upon another woman. I am sure we wonder that all England discussed the affair when it came to light? No more than we can doubt that all readers of this column will discuss it and ask [illegible] how it was possible [illegible] should say that it was not possible, and the only thing that restrains us is the ascertained fact that it occurred. We recall the story of the negro who was one of the "stowaways" on one of a lady mate who, after he had been cut off, parked it up and walked two hundred paces with it, as attended by witnesses who breathly attest such facts. When confronted with this statement the master remarked: "I can believe everything after the first one."

So we say that while it might not have been in the highest degree improbable that Lilian Iris Valerie Barker was a man [illegible] people who came in contact with her every day, we have no explanation of the fact that she went through a marriage ceremony with another woman, and that the supposed wife did not know that her husband was another woman after living together for two years. Of course, a small one, intended for the small and finer things which the [illegible] and used [illegible] of night. The others are for [illegible] chiffonette.

Al Jolson in "Say Singer"

Stettler Theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday, May 9, 10 and 11

The matchless musical, king of the singing singers, most beloved entertainer of the world, Al Jolson, has left the stage for the movies and the international front of his community genius is sure to be seen—Stettler are brought to admirers at the Stettler Theatre.

New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and other of the larger cities have performed Jolson and "The Jazz Singer" as the greatest combination of the generation. And, by the way, the story of the play, parallels the life of Al Jolson. The hero is real life son of an orthodox mother, and leaving from home he becomes a star. It is the moment of triumph, when his true play is to have for premiere in New York, that vows comes that his father, too ill to sing the renewed song of consolation in the synagogue, hoping the errant son to come and do it for him.

The simple story soon is bound between the love of the world and the woman who has made him—a co-plaintiff until the old folks at home. The story by intensely dramatic and breathes the spirit of tolerance. Every tear is balanced by a down laughs and there are points of pathos and humor alternate power.

But it is the personality of Jolson, compelling, certain, sublime, pouring, dashing, kneeling in pagan, pouring out his soul in pain or in the haunting song, Jolson of mixed feelings that sets the screen's wild [illegible] to produce that so much commented on style of delivery has been greatly any other star, do those that greet Al Jolson or neither do they accomplish what Jolson so he appears in the torrential [illegible] of "The Jazz Singer."

Jolson's vocalized has done marvelous directing, various supporters depicting the cross-cut Stettler, New York's famous "Winter Garden," scene of so many Jolson triumphs, beautiful home and palace and stage, are brilliantly interwoven with the characters of this tale of human hearts. First Fortnightly Crop Report

(Issued by the Department of Agriculture, Government of Alberta, Edmonton, May 11th, 1929.)

Approximately seventy five per cent of the wheat crop in the province has been seeded and steady progress is being made with the seeding of coarse grains, according to telegraphic reports received on Friday by the Department of Agriculture. A peculiar situation exists, as in the part of the province where moisture has been most abundant, spring work has in consequence been retarded to the greatest extent. A number of central and southern sections report that wheat seeding has been completed. The growth of vegetation over the south-eastern part of the province, not more than thirty or forty per cent of the wheat has been sown in some localities.

Most favorable conditions are reported to be generally satisfactory, particularly in the south where the effects of the open fall and the light snowfall of the past winter have been largely offset by the recent precipitation. In some northern districts, winds have been more than usually prevalent and while the soil moisture is sufficient to promote germination, further rains will be required at an early date if rapid growth is to be expected.

An increase of from five to ten per cent. in the wheat acreage of the province is anticipated, as compared with last year. The gain will be especially noticeable in central and northern sections where a large amount of new land will be brought under cultivation, in conditions for the present year's crop. Some little difference is expected in the acreage seeded to coarse grains, except in those sections where moisture has been peculiarly high.

Good stands of fall wheat and rye are reported as those crops have gone through with a magnificent amount of moisture. Only a small number of acres are increased acreage will be seeded to winter flower and other forage and fodder crops.

Wheat seeding has been practically completed in the Peace River country, and moisture conditions are satisfactory. During the present week, although additional rains will be needed shortly to support the present excellent prospects. In the extreme southern sections of the province, where the drought has been the most severe, seeding operations are progressing rapidly, and in some cases are almost completed. All crops are Good showers scattered at the beginning of the week and we have sufficient moisture to start everything in fine shape. Warm weather is badly needed, much more than usual, to put growing above the ground, but a few warm days would make a wonderful difference in both fields and gardens.

Mothers' Day was observed as usual at Bethune on Sunday with special services and music. Mrs. Morgan of Gadsby, was the speaker this year. The children turned out in full force last Friday afternoon and thoroughly cleaned the school yard. The usual wood came up considerably during the winter, and while they were burning trash and the like got away from them, running out over the ball park.

The boys worked like Trojans to have the grandstand and finally tackle combat. The wood has been very treacherous lately, causing in a most unexpected manner.

The children are busy hunting hen's eggs. The managership is paying 2 1-2 cents per egg, also 2 1-2 cents per pair for crows' legs. This bounty is large enough to make the work worth while and should materially help to keep the amount of young crows hatched this spring.

Riding abreast of the times

You expect more from your motor car today than you did ten years ago. And you get it. Greater speed, smoother power and more responsive performance are common to modern cars as a result of the development of higher speed, higher compression motors.

These improved engines demand a better oil—fuller-bodied, with greater resistance to heat and wear.

To ensure a better motor oil, Imperial Oil Limited goes all the way to Pora for the crude from which to make Marvelube. Marvelube Pora crude is a base that is rich in all the qualities necessary for better lubrication of the modern motor. It is further the oil standard for high-speed motors from coast to coast.

Marvelube is preferred by over half a million motorists in Canada and is the choice of aircraft operators because of its superior lubricating qualities.

There is a grade of Marvelube refined to meet exactly the specifications of your car, truck or tractor. Consult the Marvelube Chart at Imperial Oil stations and dealers.

Round the Country

Empire Shopping Week will be held from Saturday, May 24th to Saturday, June 1st. We have had all kinds of Weeks, from Remembering Week to Getting-the-Baby-Christened-Week but Empire Shopping Week is one of the most important of all, and it is just as well to stop a moment and consider what we gain by shopping within the Empire.

Central Britain, Australia and other parts of the Empire buy most of our wheat. The British Empire is our best customer. In 1928, Canada's export to the Empire amounted to $543,000,000, 888.29, and import from the Empire amounted to $320,000,000, making a balance of trade in our favor of $223,000,000. While we buy two hundred and forty million dollars' worth of goods per head from other parts of the Empire, we buy eight hundred and twenty-six million dollars' worth from United States, and they buy from us only four hundred and ninety million dollars' per head.

To sum up, we buy from our best customer, the British Empire, and we buy almost as much as we buy from the United States, but they buy from us only four hundred and ninety million dollars' per head, while we buy eight hundred and twenty million dollars' per head from the United States. Now, according to the figures of Empire, as a generation passed before only of her money back and forth between the two countries, but she was the man who made Bisley and Maine was the first large consumer of the product of Canada's factories, and they keep from us only four hundred and ninety million dollars' per head.

Without considering the matter from the point of view that Canada is a partner in the great organization known as the British Empire, it is quite sufficient to stop it from the angle that we should give our best customer a little better treatment in future. We have a chance to do so during Empire Shopping Week. The I. O. D. E. is one of the numerous organizations behind the movement. Let us have a good Empire Shopping Week in Stettler from May 24th to June 1st. The stores during the week is "Empire Buyers are Empire Builders."

The Western Provinces are gratifying with interest the outcome of Saskatchewan's experiment with a provincial health organization in rural and semi-rural districts.

"Pull Time Health District Number One," was organized just a few weeks ago. It covers eight rural municipalities, fourteen villages and one town. Dr. Gigoudeau is in charge of the district. It will be run very much like the health department in a big city, and will cost a full-time medical staff of health, a public health nurse and a sanitary inspector.

This development is quite in line with the most advanced thought in public health circles, where it is commonly accepted that the present system of taking care of public health is most costly and inefficient. This new district, however, will be watched with the same interest as has been achieved in, for example, Quebec, where the death rate has been lowered in several communities by similar "county health" units, while at the same time the sickness has been prevented.

Saskatchewan at any rate has the lowest death rate in a British Empire, and it is felt that this forward step will be but the first of many in the nation in the near future.

Under the Public Health Act passed in 1926, the municipalities served by these units are to bear one half of the cost, while the other half, for the first ten ring, is being divided between the provincial government and the Rockefeller Foundation.

It is estimated that the cost to the taxpayer for this first-class health protection, will be only 35c per person per year!

A RATIONAL MORALITY

"We need a morality based upon love of life, upon pleasure in growth and positive achievement, not upon expression and prohibition. A man should be regarded as 'good' if he is happy, expansive, generous, and kind when others are happy; if he, a few years unless he is a moral failure. Health is important. But a man who acquires a fortune by cruelty and exploitation should be regarded as an immoral man, and what is called an 'immoral' man need be should be so regarded even if he goes to church regularly and gives a portion of his ill-gotten gains to public objects. To bring this about, it is only necessary to instil a rational attitude towards ethical questions, in the control of the ministers of superstition and conversion which still passes muster as 'virtue' among important persons."—Hon. Bertrand Russell, in Rational Ethics."

The above paragraph is republished from the U. F. A. Magazine and we wish that our leaders and educators would write like that all the time, instead of lukewarm's prohibition of the same kind.

Superstition and oppression is the stock in trade of most moral reformers, and they have been getting away with a few many years, dating back to the time when they burned old women as witches, or damned the juvenile for not being baptized.

We might note that a couple of years ago the U. F. W. A. at Camrose passed a resolution that holder should not be elected than a certain number of years. Perhaps, when it reached the general convention there were some sensible men there who saw no reason why the girls should not display their pretty limbs if they wished to do so. If short skirts will make the ladies happier and more expressive, by all means let them wear them. If a man's clothes bother him he is a nuisance and hampered in his work, and they, by all means let him avoid them. That is a rational attitude to take towards ethical questions."

Prohibitionists Honor Gen. Neal Dow's Memory

It is natural enough that the prohibitionists of the United States, who had the noble experiment which has engulfed their country, should celebrate the first important anniversary of the late General Neal Dow, who followed the passage of the 18th amendment. That anniversary was the 125th anniversary of his birthday that there is not the least doubt that in the United States by any measure, but he was the man who made Maine dry and Maine was the first large community on this continent to adopt prohibition. Therefore, Gen. Neal Dow is held in great and remembrance by his fellow prohibitionists. For a few years Maine remained the only state to accept public vote from the ravages of liquor, as a generation passed before only of her money back and forth between the two countries, but she

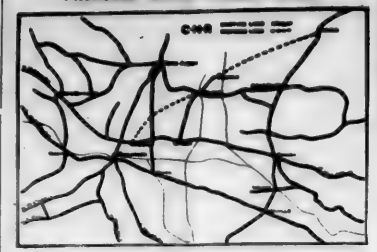
PROPOSED C.N.R. BRANCH LINES



As the Lure of Gold drew crowds to the Cariboo in 1862, so does the promise of rich returns from Garnet wheat attract settlers to the Stettler district. Pre-eminent as a wheat growing area in Canada, Stettler is the natural centre for the Garnet wheat belt. Here are the facts and figures that prove it.

The Grading Of Garnet Wheat

A meeting of representatives of Canadian wheat producers, millers and Government officials, called by the Minister of Agriculture, was held in the office of the Hon. Mr. Motherwell on February 18th, for the purpose of giving consideration to the problem confronting the farmers, millers and grain bodies of the Dominion in the matter of the grading of the Garnet wheat that has taken such a prominent place in the grain trade of Western Canada this year. Added importance was given to the meeting in that it should be attended Garnet wheat by reason of the early frost which struck this province in 1929, causing the low maturing variation of wheat to be more or less scattered throughout the area of the early-maturing Garnet, the greater proportion suffered by frost injury.

Those present at the meeting included:—

Hon. Dr. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture for Canada.
Hon. C. M. Hamilton, Minister of Agriculture for Saskatchewan.
Dr. J. H. Grisdale, Deputy Minister of Agriculture.
H. S. Wallace, Western Canada Flour Mills.
A. J. Banks, Ogilvie Flour Mills.
C. Whiteside, Cereal Division, Central Farm.
J. G. S. Fraser, Cereal Division, Central Farm.
J. H. Parson, Lake of the Woods Milling Co.
R. Robertson, Lake of the Woods Milling Co.
A. W. Alcock, Western Canada Flour Mills.
C. H. G. Short, Dominion Milling Co.
W. F. Kay, M. P., Chairman Agricultural Committee of the House of Commons.
Charles Bird, Robin Hood Flour Mills.
H. H. McLean, M. P., Halifax, Nova Scotia.
Robert Milne, M. P., Hespeler, Ontario.
E. J. Garland, M. P., New Westminster, B.C.
R. R. Dobell, Manager, Ogilvie Flour Mills.
G. H. Clark, Seed Commissioner, Department of Agriculture.
Dr. H. M. Tory, Chairman, Research Council of Canada.
Miss E. H. Hamilton, Chemistry Division, Central Farm.
C. B. Sanderson, Chemistry Division, Central Farm.
Dr. A. T. Charron, Assistant Deputy Minister of Agriculture.
Dr. F. J. Shutard, Chief, Grain Research Laboratory.
J. D. Fraser, Chief, Inspection Division, Grain Branch.
J. G. Hobbard, McDonald and Hobbs, Vallevfield.
Dr. T. V. Hoidt, Dominion Chemist, Department of Agriculture.
H. Hewetson, Dominion Cerealist, Department of Agriculture.
J. L. V. Mallette, Secretary, Canadian National Millers' Association.
C. B. Watts, Secretary, Dominion Millers' Association.

In 1927, the Inspection Department of the Board of Grain Commissioners decided that the maximum grade that should be allowed for this new variety, Garnet, should be No. 1 Northern. In deciding upon the maximum grade that should be allowed for 1928 they concluded, after a very careful study of all the data available, that the maximum grade for Garnet should be allowed for 1928 should be made. The fact of the impossibility of keeping Garnet grade higher than No. 1 Northern, although fully matured, and unaffected by frost, and of good quality, caused a good deal of dissatisfaction among the farmers of the western provinces, not only among those who themselves grew Garnet wheat this last year, but also among their neighbors who had seen the results obtained and understood that an injustice had been done Garnet growers. Considerable discussion of the question has resulted, and the dissatisfaction and discontent have been expressed in numerous letters to the Government Department and to Members of Parliament as well as in the press.

In addition to this, the millers of this country had, on different occasions, been asked by the Federal or Provincial Departments, especially the Department of Immigration, to buy Garnet on a high a milling value as old favorites, and they have, as a matter of fact, Mr. Fraser, Chief Inspector of Grain, Winnipeg, stated that the milling of his Department had been in no way influenced by the millers. The question to grade had been considered on the basis of published examination supported by hundreds of milling tests carried by the Dominion Experimental Farms' Branch and by the Grain Research Laboratory, Winnipeg. Because of this, the Inspection Department felt that the grade given to Garnet to which so many objections had been raised was a proper one, particularly as Grain Act requires that for wheat to grade No. 1 Northern, it must be equal to Marquis and the evidence available had not quite so high milling and baking quality.

At today's meeting it was stated by the millers that Garnet was a rather difficult wheat to mill, and somewhat unsatisfactory in connection with flour, although it for either the domestic or export flour market. The millers related a number of criticisms of this variety in this connection, the most important being the difficulty, early in tempering the wheat before grinding, and also that the grade produced. The difficulty in tempering was not of so much consequence when the wheat was commercially handled as Garnet, but much of the wheat that came forward in the 1929 crop was in many instances very wide apart in tempering quality and when an attempt was made to temper Garnet wheat properly, or nearly so, from it a satisfactory return in flour output and quality. They disclosed, however, at the conclusion of the discussion that the grading of the wheat and this was admitted to be a true distinction by the Inspection Department, for no dented wheat.

The millers' dissatisfaction was due in no small measure, to the fact that they judged that milling practices which were so strongly in evidence in 1927, would very probably be equally in evidence in connection with the 1928 crop, and they felt that consequently, Garnet wheat, for which they received payment on the basis of No. 1 Northern, might very well find its way into No. 1 Northern mixtures, or, at any rate, be used to raise a No. 2 grade wheat to No. 1.

After a thorough airing of the views of the different interests represented the meeting adjourned to Tuesday next, when it was hoped to reach a decision.

It was suggested by the millers that possibly the grading of Garnet in a special class so as to be sure with Kota, Durum, etc., and giving it grades similar to those now in force for these, but this was objected to by the growers on the ground that the spirit of everything that could be done they thought that mitigated against Garnet. They further pointed out that increasing the classes meant more trouble for the grower when selling Garnet in a class by itself would involve the overcrowding of a less number on the part of both foreign and domestic buyers, which would be more or less against the interests of all.

After some further debate, and after the examination of the relative importance of the home and foreign markets for wheat, in the course of which it was developed that Canadian millers bought about one quarter of the merchantable wheat produced in the Dominion, it was suggested that a shipment consisting of mixed grade of the Dominion

UNIVERSITY RESOLVES PROMINENT CANADIANS

The important service rendered to Canadian agricultural and industrial life by two prominent Canadians were fittingly recognized at the recent convocation of the University of Alberta when the degree of LL.D. (honoris causa) was conferred on H. W. Wood, President of the United Farmers of Alberta, and Chas. C. Camsell, Deputy Minister of Mines for the Federal Government. Mr. Wood in so many years been an outstanding figure in the development of agriculture and co-operation in Western Canada and Mr. Camsell has contributed greatly to the mining expansion which has taken place in the Dominion in recent years.

Stettler Wins First Home Game

The first home game of the season was played on the ball ground on Tuesday evening between Stettler and Castor. The game was all that could be desired and exciting contests and all-round work by Stettler by the score of 5 to 1. Only seven innings were played as the fans were anxious to attend the play "Hands Up" at the theatre, and seven innings was more than enough for the visitors.

One of the features of the game was a home run by Dr. Wright, in the 5th inning, which added the extra run needed to win the game. Erskine had the bulge at the start, as they scored two runs in the first inning, but after that Stettler settled down and blanked them for the next four innings. They scored another two in the 4th but were blanked again in their half of the 5th. Stettler did not get going until the 3rd, when they scored one run. The 4th was a blank and the home run occurred in the 5th. In the 6th the home team broke loose and scored three runs on hits by Lamont, McIvor and H. Bennett, Albright and Kirkpatrick. Stettler pitched a splendid game striking out 11 men, while Savage of Erskine, also did some work, striking out 8. He had only one bad inning in the 5th.

The Score:

Line-up:—

STETTLER — McIvor, p; Smith, 1; Albright, 2b; Kirkpatrick, of; Garnett, rf; Chapman, lf; Hunt, 2b; C. Bennett, 1b; H. Bennett, c.

ERSKINE—Savage, p; Kerr, c; Anderson, 2b; Lynn, rf; Bennett, 1b; Jones, lf; Beaven, 3b; Welsh, 1b; Chapman ss.

Jack Dunlop was hurt in the first by a ball in the 3rd inning and had to retire. Wright taking his place.

STETTLER at CLARET

On Monday night Stettler journeyed to Condeby, and succeeded in winning there by the same score 5 to 4. Condeby started in well by making 2 runs in the first and one in the second, but after that they were blanked for six innings. Stettler broke loose in the 7th inning and scored four runs on hits by Wright, Garnett, Chapman and H. Bennett. Wright's hit being for three bases. Both pitchers pitched great, each one 11 men, and in the 2nd inning he struck out Wright, Gerwold and Lamont in order, but he weakened in the 7th. Chapman, for Stettler, struck out 2, but he kept the hits scattered throughout. Three triple-wows were made during the game, two by Wright and one by Holmes of Stettler, and the locals had their batting strokes on hand, but Condeby did the same to Gadsby's 6, four of them being in the 7th, when the clouts were done.

The Score:—

Stettler	0	0	1	0	0	0	4	0	5

Tacoma Fighter To Meet Belus Here

Billy Lang Will Swap Punches With Phil Belus In Stettler

Next Wednesday night the flight fans will have the opportunity of seeing Phil Belus in a ten-round bout with Billy Lang of Tacoma. Lang comes here with quite a reputation as a scrapper, having just won a close cut victory over Kid Holland at Blairmore on Saturday, May 18th.

Belus has formed his connection with Tommy White and signed articles to meet, what will undoubtedly prove to be the best bout to be staged yet, and the fans will be out strong to witness this scrap.

The bout will be staged in Cardon's Hall, under the auspices of the Western Canada Boxing Association, with Jack Jiada of Big Valley in charge of affairs.

A six-round semi-final between Young Kosinuk of Drumheller and Jimmy Cameron, should prove interesting. Two good preliminaries are being arranged for.

Jim Shenkowie, of Drumheller, will be the third man in the ring.

C. W. L. Presents Successful Play

A capacity house greeted the performance staged by the Canadian Women's League, under the auspices of the Stettler Local. The proceeds were for the benefit of the Stettler Hospital. The play was entitled "Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh" and was a scream from start to finish. Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh, who was played by Mrs. Jas. McKinnon, and Mr. Mortimer were realists, though handicapped somewhat by lack of experience on the part of Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh. The other characters were also well taken by Mrs. Bennerton-Mort, Mrs. Templeton, Mrs. Jarvis, Mrs. Kennedy, Mrs. Wills, Mrs. Bayne, Mrs. Burghard, Miss Jean Peacock, Miss Mary Peacock, Miss Ruth Peacock, Miss Mary Peacock, Miss Ruth Peacock, Miss Mary Peacock, Miss Ruth

The Healthy Home

Very frequently we have mention- ed that the health of each of us depends, in large measure, upon ourselves. We must make use of the information given to us concerning the prevention of disease and the maintenance of health if it is to be of any practical value. In the same way, it is true that whether or not the home is a healthy one depends upon the people who live in it. But that's long true, it is also true that some homes are so built that it is very difficult, if not impossible, for those of any one of them a healthy home.

When a house is to be built or rented, question as to whether or not it is well-constructed and so situated that it can be made a healthy home, should concern attention. Some of the points which are of the greatest importance are brought to the attention of our readers.

Every room in the house should have a good-sized window which opens and looks out upon a street, a yard or a large court. This allows for the free entrance of air into the room. Air is an absolute necessity and, therefore, rooms without windows or opening into the outer air are unfit to live in. Above rooms without a window are practically as bad as windowless rooms, as they are impossible to ventilate.

Every home should have reasonable facilities for cleanliness. There should be a kitchen sink, wash-basin and bath, with hot water connections. Both cleanliness and particularly clean hands are important. If the hands are to be washed regularly before meals, if bath are to be cleaned twice a day, if a bath bath is to be taken at least once a week, it is necessary that facilities be provided for all these.

The kitchen is an important room because diet is so important. Proper plans for storing food and with and adequate facilities for washing dishes, all make it much easier for the housewife to prepare and serve the varied diet that is required for health.

Questions concerning health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184, College St., Toronto, will be answered personally by correspondence.

Bothe News

Light showers have occurred and grain and gardens are progressing satisfactorily. Fortunately we have received showers every time the soil was beginning to get dry, but we need a good soaking rain.

Mr. Amy of Westwood was in charge of the service at Inglewood on Sunday. Mr. Amy always receives a hearty welcome at this appointment and he gave a fine sermon.

He will be in charge again next Sunday as Rev. Miller expects to be in Banff.

The Bothe Baseball team is again going strong under the able management of Ward Snyder. The line-up this year is as follows:

1b P. Paar; 2b R. Brenker; 3b C. Frizzell; ss Abe Ens; rf Wm. W. Snyder and W. Snyder; cf Arthur Roder and R. McNaughton.

The fielders are H. Groves, Frank Kemp, Grant Armstrong, Ben Armstrong, V. Graff and A Ehlers.

On Tuesday of last week the team journeyed to Red Willow and played their first game of this season. The score was 9 to 1 in favor of Bothe.

On Wednesday evening Gadsby came over and a very good game took place the score being 6-4 in favor of Bothe.

Bothe's first league game will be on Thursday evening in Red Willow.

Friday, May 24th saw the commencement of the baseball team and some of the enthusiast motored to Erskine where the team took part in the tournament. They report a fine day and succeeded in bringing home first prize.

The school house motored to Castor on Saturday and the ball tournament took place.

The boys only played one game and lost that, but the girls played three games and managed to win them all. Their best game was with the girls' picic and that was rather one-sided, being 14-1 in favor of Bothe.

W. F. Evenden, George Stockrath Percy Page and Carper Kempf furnished the cars which conveyed the young folks to Castor.

The usual class exam of this year passed over last Friday afternoon. The pupils all seemed to have improved and were upset, also neat, not safety matched, were removed.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Armstrong are enjoying a visit from their sister-in-law, Mrs. Armstrong of Ferndale, Washington. Mrs. Armstrong says that conditions are fine around here than in Ontario, where the spring has been very cold and wet. After visiting points of interest in Alberta, she expects to go on to the Coast.

Miss Hazen Barnett returned to school on Monday, after a prolonged visit of mumps and chicken pox.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Kelly and daughter, of Edgerton, motored down on Sun. and have been visiting at the homes of Mrs. A. Simpson.

Those who are personally interested in the work going on at the Cemetery, and who is not, should make a special effort to go out and see just what is being done.

The preliminary work on the new well is now done and it will be necessary to call for volunteer labor to finish it, having both men and teams needed badly and our treasury cannot stand such a drain. An effort will be made very soon to get in here with completion in the community.

Rev. J. B. Cunningham is now driving a Chevrolet Coach.

MOVEMENTS HEAD OF ALBERTA'S BIG HIGHWAY PROGRAM

Heading the minister's cry for better roads, the provincial government will secure construction this week covering 100 miles of highway, in various parts of the province. The is the first instalment of the program of road improvements this season.

A stretch of 47 miles from Winterburn to Edna Beach, west of Edmonton, is on the program for the year. This will connect with the Banff-Main road near here, and be ready for travelling next year.

Boundary ranges working will be done for 36 miles on the Stettler road, from Lacombe east to Ketch. A 12 mile stretch northwest of Gleichen will also be graded.

The gravelling program includes 16 miles from Innisfail west of Sunnybrae to a point 47 miles east of Strathcona, and 30 miles of first course gravelling between Lethbridge and New Dayton, on the final section of the Dominion trail. Then there will be 15 miles of second course gravelling from Cardston to Waterton. It is reported that there will be about fifteen further bits of road contract and on the program for the summer and autumn.

Sale Of Sunlight In The Normal Growth Of Chicks

Experimental work during the past five years has drawn particular attention to the necessity of sunlight in the successful breeding of and rearing of chicks.

It is now definitely shown that either special supplementary foods are fed, chicks cannot be raised satisfactorily in the absence of sunlight. Even many early hatched chicks particularly where cold winters are the rule, have not the opportunity of getting out into the sunlight it is essential to supply some form of substitute for the rays to avoid trouble from leg weakness or rickets.

Experimental work carried on at the Poultry Division of Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, has definitely shown that in spite of the complete absence of sunlight, chicks may be kept healthy and made rapid gains if given certain supplementary foods. Of these, cod-liver oil is the most efficient and when fed at a rate of 2 per cent. of the mash consumed or about one tablespoonful daily to each fifty chicks will give complete satisfaction and protection against rickets. Since cod liver oil is costly substitute it is advisable to find this material rather than the product that it is known as cod liver meal, since the latter has given rather indifferent results in experiments conducted here. It is not possible that the same uniformity in quality is not available in the case of cod liver meal, and that therefore is not, at the present time, as honest, as dependable as cod liver oil.

Certain pigmental materials in form of ultra-violet ray machines and special glass substitutes will also give the desired effect. The former method of supplying the sun's rays is at the present quite expensive, and in the experimental work conducted here, the use of the sun's rays into the house, and even the chicks can get out into the sunlight or windows and be exposed to the sun's rays seems to suffice. Cod liver oil is much cheaper and will carry the chickens over until such time as they can reap full benefit of the sun's rays.

Round the Country

During the months of June, July and August, 1929, the Canadian Pacific Railway will operate to the Arctic Circle, a cruise to Ashuk to try two Eskimo, one a man, and the other a woman, who are famous well versed in the affairs—the man for hunting, and the woman for infantwise.

The man did not murder a white man, as a reputable but one of his fellows Eskimos and the two cases have no direct connection with the outside world or with white people.

It will cost the Dominion of Canada thousands of dollars to give Jack Dickson and his party a trip to the Arctic Circle. The effort on the Eskimo will be all on most of them can't understand English, but have little to the mentality to understand what the lesson.

The whole thing look to us like grand-stand play at the expense of the Canadian taxpayer. If an Eskimo killed a reasonable time ought be some one to send a dozen two thousand miles north over a wilderness to try the case, but the Eskimos have been killing each other for a thousand years, just as the police have all the white and other northern animals destroy each other if they can. Canadian justice has a high standard as compared with justice in the United States; but there is no reason for going to extremes and wasting time, and money on a trip of Eskimos, who are beyond the reach of civilization for eleven months in the year.

The appearance of a town is just as important as the appearance of a suit of clothes or the appearance of a store window. It is just as important as the appearance of anything that is sold in the store. A town sells itself by its appearance just as a man or woman sell themselves by the way they look.

Why do manufacturers put colored wrappers on cans of beans—or tomatoes—it doesn't make the contents of the can any better? Why do automobile manufacturers put so much time on the appearance of their cars? Surely it doesn't make the motor run any faster or make the cars ride any easier.

Look around and see all the things in town that are used to look attractive—the store windows, the automobiles, the farm machinery, so-anything else that is being sold.

Then look at your own backyard and garden and flower residence, and ask yourself whether it would sell on sight or whether a visitor would pass it by.

The town has just gone through a cleaning up process and the appearance is marked. Visitors to the town over Victoria Day stated that the town was attractive and picture-que. That is a good reputation to have, and a reputation of that kind can be obtained and held only by a rigid attention to each individual piece of residence and each piece of business in town.

The picture of many communities would stand for a whole picture entitled "What's Wrong Here." Blank back and take a good look at the picture of your own's yeaar story, at your office building. Does it look good or are you ashamed of it? Are you proud of it or do you apologize for its appearance?

Selling a town is the selling everything else. How the town looks is of vital importance. One own town, while appearance and general appearance is governed by certain unattractive buildings, and by the lack of paint on otherwise good buildings. The paint part—not an extravagant one by any means—but simple by eliminating the scars and blemishes of poor own particular cottage and others will do likewise? Is your business to allow the value of any community to be determined by a poor? Why is automobile manufacturers put so much time on the appearance of their cars? Surely it doesn't make the motor run any faster or make the cars ride any easier.

PROVINCIAL TREASURY SHOWS RECORD SURPLUS

Indicating the highly satisfactory condition of Alberta's finances, a surplus of $1,817,371 of revenue over expenditure for the fiscal year ending March 31st, 1929, is announced by the Hon. R. G. Reid, Provincial Treasurer. This gratifying total is made up of a surplus of $1,176,825 on general revenue and $220,546 on the Provincial Telephone System. The former amount will be applied to reducing the debt of the Province and the telephone surplus will be used to reduce the debt on that utility.

A surplus to this amount constitutes a record for any year in the history of the Province and exceeds the showing made by any province in the dominion in recent years. General satisfaction is expressed by members of the Government with the second position of the province's finances, this surplus being evidence of the fact that Alberta has turned the corner toward better times, as well as a strong vindication of the Government's financial policies.

Visit Auto Row For A Kick

(By Erwin Greer)

(President Greer College, Chicago, Illinois.)

There is so much human interest in "Automobile Row" as there is in, say, one of the police courts, although, of course, the element of human interest is neither, spring from the same source.

There you see the millionaire giving an order for three cars, each costing more than $5,000, as casually as he would order a soft drink at a soda fountain. You check that before-and-after payment smile absorbed by nothing to him, and the order is not either. He would just as soon ride on the street car, but the wife and the family must keep up appearances.

In the next place you see a newly married couple, with just a few dollars. They want a machine as cheap as possible, because she will have to stop work, before long, while she goes to the hospital to have her baby, and he wants her to have a car so he can drive her around parks and Sundays while she has day at home after that.

In the next, there will be the college boy, who wants a car to impress his fraternity brothers—a snappy

Airplane Design Differs Widely

By Herb Court
(President Camp College, Chicago, Illinois.)

Aeroplanes are not yet standardized. That this is not the time to attempt standardization, and that the great diversity of design and material is an encouraging sign.

Of the great Powers, England is probably the most conservative in aeroplane design, materials and construction. The great majority of the British aeroplanes are of the type which has flown well for the longest time; the interior laplanes with edges of thin section. Most of the construction is of wood, with fittings of steel and Welding in vital structures is discouraged. Very little aluminum is used.

The development of Le Corne's "Adolgette," circular in form, is encouraged in some extent. In this machine vertical lift is subjected, not by fixed wings, but by four monoplanes rotatory propeller-type arms about a vertical axis. The aeroplane can take and land at comparatively slow true air speed, with resulting short run. It is very doubtful, however, whether this machine will compare favorably with an airplane with fixed wings when it comes to carrying a given load a given distance with given power a given time.

Handley Page has been developing "slots," for wings, which may be opened and closed during flight. A pilot on airplane with given wing area can land at a given speed with about 20 per cent. more given weight without slots.

Slots have built a tremendous number of military aeroplanes. Tourists in Europe may hold that the experimental departments of France have built as many military machines that they have motor boats to build condiderable passenger transports.

The German must holds airplanes which will be durable in all sorts of climates and may be maintained in remote parts of mile across the water. Other nations lack certain basic materials. The United States is very fortunate. They have iron, chromium, molybdenum, nickel, silicon, tungsten, vanadium, aluminum, copper, magnesium, cadmium, spruce, birch, longleaf cotton, silkworms, and food besides making silk. In fact, nature has endowed this country with every good and most necessary for the fabrication and operation of aircraft. For the few materials they lack, they have enough

MADE EPIC TREK

Arthur W North, of the Explorers' Club, New York, and Ast Secretary of the Royal Geographical Society, London, England, followed Railway's mission at Winnipeg, on their return to civilization after a journey from Great Slave Lake, Northwest Territories, Ontario, through the winter wilderness of Northern Ontario and Manitoba. Studying the country with a view to a new route for the Hudson Bay Railway, the explorers spent more than two months in the open and covered more than 1,000 miles by canoe and dog-sled. They left Great Slave Lake on April 1 and reached Winnipeg by way of Lac Seul, Wabum Lake and half a dozen other lakes and rivers. Mr. North, who made the trip with Mr. Ellis, has traveled the coast of the Hudson Bay Railway at Answy and knows the country well. "The trip was a most interesting one," he remarked, on reaching, and points to the results of this trip within a few months. Enlarged sections were made by the Eskimos at York Factory.

Control Of The Canada Thistle

A wood as well established as is Canada Thistle will not be exterminated by any means at present in sight, but it can be reasonably successful in both possible and economically sound.

The control, for its success, depends upon accurate to two things, cording habit and the varying habit of the plant. While the latter is responsible for suitable adaptation to the fields, the former must be watched beyond that number.

The most common manner that is followed is to plow the land in the fall, cultivate, etc., to destroyed before maturity, by cutting, shallow and deep cutting, plowing under, or otherwise. Each succeeding harvest must be watched for the same sort of treatment. Such inspection under protected weak plants, and the destruction of the young farmer, moreover, must avoid himself of all the precautions in the control of seed grains, that the Seeds Act of Canada offers. No amount of work and precaution will will insure the farm free of Canada thistle, while its control facilities for seed dispersal are being ignored.

Field infestations themselves are closely connected to the question of method of cultivation. By the time a cereal crop has come to maturity, by hay, following grain, thistles will have reached their maximum recovery from previous management. The choice of hay crop, and its stand is also important. A good stand of timothy this is the first step. Legumes, especially alfalfa and sweet clover, are a heavy cover. They are removed in ample time to forestall seeding of the thistles, and to allow a long period of after-harvest cultivation. As soon as practicable in these other cases of cultivation from the foliage, by use of the broad-cultivated cultivator, somewhat deeper planting here in the fall to a good Canada to the season's work; and a cultivated crop the following year gives further opportunity to keep the foe at bay.

It will be seen that only the Seeds or mixed farmer can make full use of the method outlined. The crux of the matter is that only by the latter that the straight grain farmer can modify his practice in this direction.

NOTICE OF ASSIGNMENT

IN THE MATTER OF ASSIGNMENT OF JOSEPH ST OMERIA

Notice Officials Hope To Save Them From Guillotine

Effort are being made by the authorities to save from extinction a number of "American Indians" in Siberia which has already decimated to 400 persons.

The tribe, known as Kalmyks, was discovered some years ago in the Tarim district of Siberia. Its appearance, language and customs they resemble so closely the Red Indians of North America that leading Russian anthropologists were convinced of their American origin.

A recent investigator reports that the tribe has such a high death rate that it has only a few more years then of life. The government has therefore set aside a large tract where no other tribes will be permitted to hunt. It is hoped here that these exclusive "happy hunting grounds" will increase the material prosperity and in consequence the longevity of the Kalmyks. A hospital has also been established for their use.

Words from settler's winter harvest. When burn-ing land is cleared he may still obtain employment in the neighbouring forest. By care with fire, the wise settler protects his own living

Issued by authority of Honorable Charles Stewart, Minister.

Perhaps the most extraordinary entirely unknown among them. It is single fact reported about them is one that they have never heard of "vanquished" Indians is that crime is murder or theft.

The car-conscious public very much favors buying by the economically lighter cost of the superior motor.

Round the Country

On June 1st, the 5 cent tax on gasoline comes into effect. The Provincial Government has agreed to the representations of those who use tractors for agricultural purposes—and will rebate for of the tax on gasoline used for the tractors. The tractor men will also get the whole-sale rate on gasoline.

Here is the way the matter will work—at for auto owners—so far tractor owners. The fair-mers men and municipalities throughout the country will sell the gasoline to the tractor owners at the whole sale rate of say 20 cents. A rural farmer then tells us that they do not have to buy in whole-sale quantities, but usually bring in their cream cans and buy five, eight or ten gallons according to the size of the can. At the end of each month they are required to send in a statement to the Government giving the amount used for the tractor, and an affidavit that the amount has been used exclusively for the tractors. If they have a car they are expected to state what amount was used for the automobile. The auto owner will pay the retail rate and the 5 cent tax, which will bring the cost of gasoline up to 40 cents per gallon. The tractor owner got the wholesale rate of 20 cents and got a rebate of 4 cents which will restore the cost of gasoline to 20 cents. There is thus a difference of ten cents per gallon for gasoline, between tractor owner and the auto owners.

But most tractor owners are also owners of automobiles, and I, while we do know that most men are strictly honest, there will always be the temptation to some men to underrate the amount used for their automobiles in order to get the ten cent difference in cost.

At the time the resolution from Red Deer Local came up at the Provincial Convention against the rebate of the gasoline tax for tractors, the Independent-lent made the following comment: "If the logic get away with a resolution of that kind, we will have to appoint a new set of inspectors to see that the gasoline for tractors is not switched into the automobiles when they come in town."

The matter may work out all right. The Independent has no objection whatever to giving the owners of tractors cheaper gasoline than the owners of automobiles. But the matter of to be used puts such a heavy premium on the honesty of humanity in general that there appears to be room for all kinds of chance.

In there anyone who thinks that it isn't a good idea to make the town in which he lives, a little more attractive, a little more interesting, a little bit larger and a little bit better?

But supposing a stranger came into town and said to twenty people on the street or in the store:—"This looks like a pretty good town,"—how many of those twenty people would [illegible] boost the town or shame it with Saint points? Some of them would say—"Yes, I guess it's all right," or "Why, taxes are too high," or "The Town Council is no good," or "It used to be a good town when I came here first." A few might say "It's dead from the ground up."

How many of the twenty people would say:—"You bet it's a good town, eh? all that we need is more people"?

If you were working in a store and a customer said:—"This looks like a pretty good town," and you answered, "Well, it used to be all right," the customer would free you on the spot. If the customer asked you straight:—"What kind of a store is this?" and you answered:—"Store," "mind," "terrible," or any of those criticisms some people apply to their town, the customer would think that either you were crazy or that the store and the town and the people in it were no good.

Maybe you never looked at the matter in that way. Well, here is something that every resident of every town must think about—owner or helper, and for your own personal betterment, the sooner the better:—Start thinking about the town and the community as a business—look at it just as if it were a store business—a business in which you take a part. For out of your head the old-fashioned idea of the town being something that just happened, and that the kind of people in it don't make any difference.

No town can be dead that has live people in it and no town can be alive that has dead people in it.

Put out of your head that you have to be a Mayor or President of the Board of Trade or President of the W. C. T. U., or Manager of one of banks in order to be interested and useful to the town. It's not your position, but the attitude you take towards the town that makes it a good town or a bad one. It's the things you do for or against the town that makes it alive or dead, or good or bad, or forging ahead or standing still.

When an industry considers a town they want to know something about the rink and file, not just the few shining lights, the big boys alone. The big boys alone don't make the town, but hundreds of ordinary citizens that live in it. A manufacturing concern "looks out" the rank and file of the citizens and it depends on your attitude, how you act towards and talk about your community, whether the report is favourable or not for a distributing point or branch factory or for whatever they may be considering.

As a citizen you are a salesman for your community, the same as a clerk is a salesman in the store. The merchants, bankers, professional men, etc., are the heads of departments and the policemen are the floorwalkers. Just as the success of a store depends on the class of clerks employed, the success of the town depends on the class of citizens who make up the town.

It's always up to the sales force of any business. Your town is a business—your business—and it's up to you.

[illegible]

The town was without business and residential lights on Saturday evening when the streets were full of people. Most of the merchants closed several hours and another lost sense of them could not obtain any supplement for their lights at all, and their power business were in darkness. The theatre had a big house, following the school sports in the afternoon but they had to return the money to their patrons.

The Union Power Company should have protected the business places from a breach of this kind. It occurred once before, about three months ago, so that it could not have taken them by surprise. The company in fact have spent several thousand dollars in building up an emergency plant to handle situations of this kind, but the plant is attached only to the street lights—and in the summer time particularly the street lights are not required, while the business and residential lights are a necessity. The matter particularly should have been protected, and we believe that the manager of the theatre brought up the matter with the Mayor and Council after the former breakdown, but nothing was done.

The Union Power Co. has spent money on its emergency plant. They may have to spend a little more to make the proper connections for the inventory part of the town.

No doubt they will do that now, but we cannot help feeling that if the town authorities had insisted on the proper connections in the first place the loss of business due to lack of lights would not have occurred. When the stores and theatre are left in darkness twice in three month it looks like some business somewhere.

Grips with Silent Power
The smooth, non-locking of the Ford on wheels is an advantage that increases safety at all times, under a million tests for longer and safer driving, braking ease and driving comfort

Speed— and Balance

SPEED to carry you along the wide, clear highway; road balance to give you unlimited confidence on the turns; brakes to slow as though by magic the flying landscape on either side—these are your passports to happy motoring with a Ford car.

Ford engineering has developed a new principle of weight distribution that gives the Ford car a tendency to hug the road when travelling rapidly. The engine, the heaviest part, acts in a sense like the barb to the arrow in flight. Torque tube drive transmits thrust to the front of the car. Unique transverse, semi-elliptic springs and the finest shock absorbers in the world, Houdailles, deliver balanced, smooth riding. Their close, when speedy travel is required, the Ford car develops a road tenacity hitherto unknown in the light car field.

LOW UPKEEP—The maintenance of Ford performance is in keeping with Ford traditions given care and proper attention, no other car on the road can be driven at less cost per mile. And the pride of the Ford car spread over a number of years of motoring pleasure and satisfaction, reduces to an absolute economy this mode of unmotorable, convenient transportation.

DEMONSTRATION—Ask your Ford dealer to let you drive a Ford car. He will be glad to give you our ticket the steering wheel. Then your opinion will be asked for. Driving—you will be amazed at the power at your command. Head for the longest stretch. Drive along-side other cars. Try the quick getaway, the swift jump in second. Get more speed than you may be driven at less cost per mile. And the pride of the Ford car spread over a number of years of motoring pleasure and satisfaction, reduces to an absolute economy this mode of unmotorable, convenient transportation.
